THESE are items of news that cause thought of various kinds. No other news is important. Here are the items, written down on the Twentieth Century Limited, west bound, you do the thinking.

J. M. BIRD of New York, shows in Paris, much magnified on the screen, thumbprints of spirits. They were thumbprints of a medium's dead father, exactly like his thumbprints in life. Gloomy news for criminals, if the other world cannot give them a new start.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH MACK, arrested for kissing in a car, recovered $3,675 damages, when they proved they were married. Demonstrations of affection, in public, are forbidden, because they are vulgar, or supposed to be, and set a bad example. Would Mr. and Mrs. Mack have gone to jail had they kissed 10 days before their marriage?

A VERY rich young man, one of many more or less ruined by inherited money, disappears, and the lady who saw him last describes him as a "sappodil," and wonders, you do not know that word. "Sappodil" is a mixture of the honest American word "sap," and of daffodils "that come before the swallow dares, and take the winds of March with beauty."

A sappodil combines the sweet gentleness of the daffodil with the easy spending of the "sap" and is most highly valued among the flora and fauna of the White Light district.

MUSSOLINI'S new born boy is named Romano and Italy rejoices at the announcement "Premier Mussolini has another son." Donna Rachele Mussolini, the mother, gets not quite the credit due her. She has a fine, sensitive strong face. Mussolini chose her wisely, and if her boy turns out to be a real Mussolini, he will have her to thank, as much as his father.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER celebrated on Monday last the seventy-second anniversary of the day on which he got his first job. He was 16 years old and is now 88. Young gentlemen will observe that Mr. Rockefeller took that first job seriously and worked hard at it, although no office boy would condescend to accept twice as much more.

THOSE that smile when told Mr. Rockefeller still has the first dollar he ever earned should remember that he also has the first HUNDRED MILLION dollars he ever earned—which is no laughing matter—and the second, third and fourth hundred million.

ALSO Mr. Rockefeller, since he took that small job, in 1855, has given away, to science, charity and education, more than five hundred million dollars.

It pays, apparently, to take your job, big or little, seriously.

DR. AYCOCK, chief of Harvard's infantile paralysis commission, reports that the paralysis germ has been classified and a suitable animal is sought to produce an antitoxin. Dr. Aycock agrees with Drs. Flexner and Noguchi, of the Rockefeller Institute, that the germ is so small that it would pass through any filter that can be made.

Some horse or other animal will supply the right serum for antitoxin, and then anti-vivisectionists will roar and another heavy load of fear will have been lifted from the hearts of mothers.

BRILLIANT, young, talented Miss Fanny Brice divorced her husband, Mr. Jules Arnstein, "because he suffered from an inferiority complex after she had her nose straightened by a specialist." Something unusual in divorce.

If all husbands carrying around an inferiority complex, because of their wives' superiority should be divorced, court would be crowded.

A HINDU, Raj Pal, wrote a pamphlet attacking Mohammed. That prophet died nearly thirteen hundred years ago, but still has friends. One of them stabbed Raj Pal yesterday. Mohammedans and Hindus make

IMPOUND 3RD WARD VOTES

GIRL, 19, BEATEN BY THUG

An attempt to kidnap Harriet Werle, pretty 19-year-old piano teacher, of 1315 Orangewood street, Beechview, failed last night when her screams routed her attacker, believed to be the slugging moron who, in the last week, has left half a dozen women sprawled senseless on sidewalks in various sections of the city, felled by blows from his powerful fist.

The latest outrage occurred in Sebring avenue, Beechview, within sight of Miss Werle's home, to which she was returning from an evening engagement at the studio of Richard S. Knotts, vocal teacher, of the Wabash Building, for whom she is accompanist.

The slugger leaped from bushes alongside the sidewalk, said something which Miss Werle didn't understand, and grabbed her about the waist, attempting to force her back into the bushes. As she screamed he clapped his hand over her mouth and, when this failed to still her cries, his fist shot out, leaving her unconscious on the sidewalk as he fled.

Miss Werle believes the slugger had a companion who was awaiting him near by in an automobile. As he knocked her down the assailant grabbed her purse, but Miss Werle is convinced that robbery was not the main intention. From his actions she is convinced he sought to drag her to the waiting automobile and kidnap her.

The slugger's method of operation in this case is virtually the same as was used in the numerous other attacks on women reported from almost every section of the city in the last week. Monday Anna Barnes, 13, of 130 Yuba way, was the victim. In this case the attacker seized a $20 bill, but only when the girl's screams forced him to take to flight. The child was beaten into unconsciousness by her assailant.

Police, scouring all sections of the city today, were of the opinion that the man is demented, and extra vigilance was to be taken tonight lest he strike again.

Member of Hip Sings Stabbed

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Police today feared a resumption of tong warfare, with the finding of the body of Eng Foon, a waiter and member of the Hip Sing Tong, stabbed to death seemingly while he slept in an East Side rooming house. Foon's body was discovered by another Chinese waiter, with whom he lived.

Since nothing of value had been disturbed in the room police were convinced that robbery was not the motive. Another Tong outburst seemed a possibility, they said, and steps were immediately taken to consult officials of both On Leong and Hip Sing societies to forestall any possible retaliations.

AUTO DRIVER DIES AFTER TAKING TEST

Finishing his examination for an automobile driver's license, Howard Murray, 60, of 2369 Birtley avenue, collapsed at 11 o'clock this morning and was dead when he reached the Pittsburgh Hospital.

The excitement incident to the test is believed to have overtaxed his heart and he collapsed. Members of the state highway patrol, who are conducting the examinations in Washington boulevard, took Murray to the hospital.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28.—Joseph Von Sternberg, film director, was divorced here today by Riza Royce, screen and former Follies beauty. Cruelty was charged.

BALLOT BOXES SEIZED

BULLETIN.

Three of the five election officials of the Seventh district, Third Ward, for whom warrants were issued on conspiracy charges, arrested late today. They were Carmen Bevillacqua, William Spad and Michael Balastia.

The district attorney's office was asked by the Allegheny County Elections Association to lay similar charges against election officials of the Ninth district of the Third Ward and Third district of the Fourth Ward.

Criminal charges of conspiracy were filed against election officials of the Seventh District, Third Ward, today by District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, and similar charges were expected to be lodged against the officials of at least one other district in the same ward.

The informations were based on alleged discrepancies between vote tabulations on the district tally sheets and figures obtained by the recount.

At the same time, Judge John A. Evans ordered the impounding of the Seventh district ballot box.

Move for McGovern Parley

Attorney Ralph H. Frank, counsel for County Controller C. C. McGovern, this afternoon filed a petition in Common Pleas Court seeking the right to the exclusive use of the name "Independent" as a party name at the November election.

The petition, bearing the names of four Wilkinsburg voters, stated it was the petitioners' intention of placing candidates for county offices before the voters at the November election.

It was generally presumed that the party will further the candidacy of Controller McGovern, either for re-election or for minority County Commissioner.

"PAUL REVERE" OF JOHNSTOWN FLOOD DIES AT THE AGE OF 66

EBENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 28.—Edward B. McDonald, 66, who emulated Paul Revere and dashed through the valley warning residents of the approach of the great Johnstown flood, in 1889, died today at his home here. He had warned thousands of the sweep of the water when he was overtaken by the flood, but he and his horse managed to reach safety.

2 VICTORIES WILL CINCH FLAG FOR PIRATES

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 28.—The Pirates and Cardinals were at a standstill today as both teams spent a wet day in Cincinnati. The World Champions were scheduled to play the Reds, but about noon the game was postponed an account of rain. The Pirates need only two games to clinch the National League pennant.

The O'Farrell and Hendricks clans will fight it out tomorrow, weather permitting. The day is open on both schedules. In the event of another postponement the contest would go by the boards.

The Pirates and Cardinals are staying at different hotels so that there has been little or no mixing of the teams engaged in the flag tussle. The Redbirds will leave tomorrow night for the home coop. They are scheduled to close the season in two games with the Cubs on Saturday and Sunday. The Pirates will wind up their year with three games with the Reds beginning Friday.

Rabbit Maranville, playing part of the time with a bad leg, has featured in the Cardinal-Red series. Rabbit was placed at short as soon as he joined the Cardinals a few weeks ago. He hooked up with the Champs in Pittsburgh and played two games at Forbes Field. In the succeeding series in Chicago, Maranville had a bad collision with Outfielder Orsatti and he had to remain out of the game. However, when Recruit Schuble showed a tendency to weaken, Rabbit was sent back to the position.

Alexander "The Great" pitched another masterpiece yesterday to keep the Redbirds within two games of the Pirates. Aleck is about the most valuable member of the Cardinal outfit, although Frankie Frisch continues to play brilliantly.

2 DIE IN TRAIN WRECK BLAMED ON STRIKE

CAMBRIDGE, O., Sept. 28.—Baltimore & Ohio Railroad officials today began a searching investigation into the cause of the wreck of the Cincinnati-Pittsburgh Express, No. 34, a short distance west of here late yesterday.

It was reported that a rail had been disconnected on a straight stretch of track, near Cassell and that the locomotive was overturned while running at a speed of 50 miles an hour. It was learned that, owing to trouble in the Eastern Ohio mining sections, where a strike is in progress, extra precautions had been taken by the railroad and inspectors rode all trains.

Engineer Joseph Robe, 65, of Newark, O., veteran employe who was making his last run before retiring from the service, was killed beneath his locomotive, and Fireman T. A. Albun, 45, of Newark, was fatally injured. He died today. Miss Mary Shannafely, of Bellaire, O., was the only passenger injured.

OAKMONT RACER, IN CRASH, DIES

Edward G. Harvey, Jr., 22, of 400 Washington avenue, Oakmont, died last night in the Meyersdale Hospital as a result of injuries received in an automobile race at Meyersdale last Friday.

Harvey was attempting to get his machine off the track after a wheel broke when he collided with another racer. He was proprietor of Harvey's Garage at Blawnox. He was born in Wellsburg, W. Va., and was a member of the Oakmont Baptist Church and a graduate of the Oakmont High School.

Ouster of Verona Is Demanded

"Verona must go."

That was the ultimatum delivered to Mayor Charles H. Kline today by a number of political leaders from various city wards.

The same word will be given to Republican State Chairman W. L. Mellon, when he returns Monday, by those who are determined to oust John J. Verona, Third Ward leader, from his post as police magistrate.

"I have nothing to say," said the Mayor, adding, "When the official count is completed there may be something to talk about."

Mayor Kline is especially aroused over the manner in which E. C. Chalfant, his personal candidate for judge, was "cut" in the Third Ward.

At the same time the movement to oust E. M. Kenna from his position as head of the county road bureau, John Fugassi, his chief aid there, and Police Captain "Tony" Forrester, now under suspension, was continued. All of these cases will be called to the attention of Mr. Mellon Monday.

MISSING TOBACCO HEIR FOUND IN ST. LOUIS

LEGIONNAIRES RENEW -:- WAR TIME FRIENDSHIPS -:- IN STIRRING REUNION

ACCLAIMED IN PARIS

The French and American flags are borne down the Champs Elysees by veterans of France and America. Wild cheers of Parisians recalled the welcome given the American troops in war days. Many troops stood guard to prevent radical demonstrations, which had been threatened, but there was no trouble.

FOCH AND PERSHING

The French and American war leaders (middle background) visit the graves of American soldier dead in Suresnes Cemetery. The grave in the middle background is marked with the star of Judea—for a Jewish soldier who died in battle.

BLOSSOMS FOR UNKNOWN POILU

Here are members of the auxiliary corps showering flowers on the grave of France's unknown soldier in the course of the American Legion's parade, held on the opening day of the Legion convention and reunion in Paris. The "Eternal Flame" can be seen at the left.

HEIR FLED SOCIAL WHIRL

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 28.—Richard J. Reynolds, heir to $5,000,000, prepared to go back today to New York and the life of a multi-millionaire, which he has found drab and monotonous. He tried to escape from it for the two-weeks vacation permitted any $25-a-week clerk, but all he succeeded in doing was to stir up an international search, which ended last night when private detectives found him.

[illegible] posed as a traveling salesman, but black cigars, the jovial [illegible] of the drummer of fiction and the name of J. K. Fleet were not enough to hide his identity.

The 200-pound 21-year-old heir to the Reynolds tobacco fortune enjoyed only 12 days of his vacation.

He left New York and the responsibilities which had become irksome to him on September 17. First he attended the Dempsey-Tunney fight at Chicago. Then he came to St. Louis for the dog races here.

As Fleet, the salesman, out for a good time, he enjoyed himself while friends worried, detectives searched and the nation became concerned.

"I just got fed up on society and night life along Broadway and decided to take a little trip as a sort of vacation," said Reynolds today, tilting his slouch hat far back on his head and hoisting his feet to the polished desk of the private detective who "captured" him.

TOO MUCH "FUSS"

"I can't understand what all the fuss is about. I left word with John Graham or Capt. Manville Davis, I can't remember which, that I was going to Chicago to see the Dempsey-Tunney fight. I get a great kick out of making trips around the country.

"After seeing Miss Marie Houston off for St. Louis from New York, I decided to go to Chicago by train. My chauffeur knows I go away often without telling the world about it. I don't understand about my automobile being found at Chicken Point, near New York. It must have been stolen and ditched out there.

"Right after the fight I heard about the dog rating down here and came to see it. I never saw dog races before. Pretty keen, aren't they? I registered at a hotel as Joy K. Fleet, of Chicago. Funny thing. I saw a picture show in Chicago with that name in it and it was the first name that came to my mind.

"You know, what I like to do once in a while is to go away and use another name so no one will bother me. I pose as a traveling salesman in moderate-priced hotels and try just to be one of the boys and play around without worrying for fear someone is trying to get his hands on my money or capitalize my friendship.

"I met Eddie Crenshaw and he seemed to be a good fellow. He went to the races with me and I liked Ed very much."

It was Crenshaw who divulged Reynolds' whereabouts after he had been promised $3,000 for the service in a telephone conversation with detectives. Reynolds apparently did not resent the fact that it was Crenshaw who told detectives where to find him. They went home together last night. Reynolds left promising to be in New York in a "couple days."

C. C. Ruston, manager of the agency which found Reynolds, said he was positive of the young man's identity, but declared he would withhold Crenshaw's reward pending "further investigation."

LOCK HAVEN LAWYER GETS STATE POSITION

HARRISBURG, Sept. 28.—John B. Myers, lawyer, of Lock Haven, yesterday was appointed by Secretary of Internal Affairs James F. Woodward as attorney to supervise municipal bond issues. An act of the 1927 Legislature provides that third-class cities, boroughs and townships must obtain approval of the new bureau of municipalities before issuing bonds.

Thomas M. McDonald, investigator for the Allegheny Elections Association, said he had asked the district attorney to prosecute the officials of the Ninth district after similar alleged discrepancies had been revealed in the recount.

Gardner was told that the tally sheet for the Seventh district gave Frank S. Canuti, candidate for judge, 320 votes while the recount showed he had polled only 147. The tally sheet also gave S. J. Topley, candidate for clerk of courts, 218 votes while the recount gave him 241.

McDonald charged that the recount in the Ninth district showed "inaccuracies" in the count for every nomination. On the recount, McDonald said, Judge Nelson McVicar lost 95 votes, Judge Thomas J. Ford, 78; Councilman Charles Anderson, 25; Councilman R. J. Alderdice, 24; Councilman Garland, 35, and Councilman Daniel Winters gained 41.

Judges John A. Evans and Ambrose B. Reid, upon request, ordered in for recount the ballot boxes of the Twelfth district, Fifth Ward; Eighteenth district, Sixth Ward, and Eighth district, Third Ward.

Recounting of the Ninth, Fifteenth and Seventeenth districts of the Third Ward, and the Second and Third districts of the Fourth Ward, was proceeding under the supervision of Judge Ambrose A. Reid, while the criminal proceedings were being instituted.

Ballot boxes of half a dozen districts in the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth wards were brought into court today on voters' petitions as a result of the election association investigations, and when that of the First District of the Fourth Ward was opened evidence of what was evidently gross carelessness was uncovered.

The vote, as returned by the board, gave District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, unopposed for renomination, 469 votes. The recount brought his total down to 320. John Francies, unopposed for clerk of courts, was given 459 votes in the original count, but the Courthouse count brought the total down to 313. Similar discrepancies were uncovered in almost every candidate's tabulation.

Some mistakes were also found when the recount of the vote in the Second district of the Fourth Ward was made. Other recounts to be made include the votes cast in the Twentieth, Thirtieth and Thirty-second districts of the Fifth Ward.

SQUIRREL HILL IN TERROR OF MAD DOG

A tiny Scotch terrier, a pet believed to have gone mad, is spreading terror in Squirrel Hill. Teachers in two public schools have warned children to beware of all strange dogs and to report to the nearest policeman if the terrier is seen. Parents, too, are on the lookout for the animal and many are forbidding their children to play in the streets until the dog is captured.

The terrier has been at large since Sunday. Thus far four other dogs in the district have been bitten. The little animal was the pet of Mrs. Catherine Gould of 6821 Edgerton avenue. Mrs. Gould has had it about a year and a half.

All yesterday attendants from the Animal Rescue League cruised about the streets of Squirrel Hill in hopes of picking up the dog, but he was not seen.

Miss R. S. McMillen, principal of the Linden School, this morning sent an announcement to all teachers to be read to the pupils before noon recess. Miss McMillen warned the children to be cautious of all dogs and to report to policemen any animals acting strangely.

Miss Margaret A. Frew, principal of the Wightman School, sent out a similar notice to her teachers.

FORMER BELLAIRE CHIEF CLEARED ON DRY CHARGE

STEUBENVILLE, O., Sept. 28.—Clarence Corbett, former chief of police of Bellaire, O., and Joseph McMahon, justice of the peace of Bellaire, were found not guilty by a United States commissioner here Tuesday on a charge of conspiracy to violate the dry laws. They were accused of operating a still and running liquor from Morristown, O., to various points in the Wheeling district. Joe Polito, Bellaire wholesale merchant, was held in connection with the case.

PHARMACY STUDENTS HOLD "MIXER" TONIGHT

The annual "mixer" of the Duquesne University School of Pharmacy is to be held tonight in Canevin hall on the campus. The mixer is the first social affair of the season and is arranged by the upper classmen in honor of the entering students.

The committee in charge is Clyde Daly, chairman; Miss Margaret O'Donnell, John R. Johnson, Theodore G. Szczepanski, Henry K. Schnellbach and Ralph J. Kreuer.

Lay Murder to Indian Acting As Own Law

ANTLERS, Okla., Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Exacting the vigilante penalty known to the whites and Indians of pioneer Oklahoma days, Maj. Victor Locke, Jr., soldier, chieftain and politician reared in the tepees of the Choctaws, today faced a charge of murder for slaying a tribesman who he believed was a despoiler of girls of the tribe.

Maj. Locke, known as a descendant of Choctaw chiefs who rose from tribal counsel to chief and then to superintendent of the Five Civilized Tribes, yesterday was charged with the slaying of Abner Battiste, 24-year-old full-blooded member of the tribe.

Battiste was shot to death Monday night after he had called at the home of two of Maj. Locke's Indian girl wards, who were students at the Goodland Indian school near Hugo, Okla. Although the major was silent following his surrender to the sheriff, his friends said he shot Battiste some time after he had forced the Indian to leave the home of the girls.

The sheriff was told that Maj. Locke chased Battiste from the home of his wards and later went to Battiste's home in company with three Indian boys. When Battiste appeared Maj. Locke fired one shot and the Indian fell dead. The major immeditely surrendered to Sheriff Nevins Kirkpatrick of Pushmataha county, who, with Locke, had led many successful posses in search of lawbreakers.

Maj. Locke, 51 years old, started a fighting career when as a boy he shared the dangers of the "Locke War," sponsored by his father and Green McCurtain, picturesque Oklahoma sheriff.

DETROIT PROBERS CHARGE POLICE RUN LIQUOR

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 28.—Superintendent of Police James Sprott directed his officers to "go the limit" in investigating charges that members of the harbormasters' division of the police department are smuggling liquor from Canada in police boats in collusion with riverfront bootleggers.

German Air Tour Party At Bagdad

LONDON, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Lieut. Otto Koennecke, German aviator, flying from Cologne, Germany, to America by the eastern route, has arrived at Bagdad, Irak., says a dispatch from that city.

This clears up the mystery which has engaged European flying circles since the reported departure of Koennecke's plane, the Germania, from Angora, Turkey, for Basra, at the head of the Persian Gulf, last Saturday morning.

The Bagdad dispatch said Koennecke would take off in continuance of his flight tomorrow. Bagdad is 700 miles from Angora on the route to Basra, which is 270 miles farther to the Southeast.

Accompanied by his financial backer, Count George Cedric Solmslaubach, and Johannes Hermann, radio operator, Lieut. Koennecke left Cologne last Tuesday and made a remarkably successful first hop, reaching Angora, a distance of 1,875 miles, in a little less than 18 hours.

Indiana Magenta Scrub To See Series Here

HARRISBURG, Sept. 28.—Gov. Fisher today announced his intention of attending the opening game of the world series in Pittsburgh next week.

"I am assuming that the Pirates will bring home the brig," he said, adding: "If I am to give a demonstration of off-port pitching I'll have to get my left arm in shape."

In his younger days, Gov. Fisher says, he was on the scrub team of the famous Indiana Magentas.

NORTH SIDE GIRL RUN DOWN BY AUTO

Crushed under the wheels of an automobile in the street near her home, Helen Daniel, 4, of 1623 Metropolitan street, suffered a fracture of the skull early today. She was taken to St. John's General Hospital. Edward Oshalkin, 17, of 334 Haslett street, driver of the car, was arrested on a charge of reckless driving.

Four persons, including two women, were injured during the night in traffic accidents.

Mrs. Nora Werner, 58, of 1006 Westfield street, and her grandson, Joseph Werner, 12, were injured when an automobile in which they were riding in Bigelow boulevard at Thirtieth street crashed into another machine parked at the curb. J. J. Conroy, 43, of 1717 Realty street, was the driver of the machine in which the Werners were riding. He escaped injury.

Mrs. C. P. Richman, 72, of 7914 Frankstown avenue, was struck by a Carson street car in front of the P. & L. E. Railroad station. She was not injured seriously.

Ernest Misko, 11, of 13 Cabot way, was struck by an automobile, also in front of the P. & L. E. station, a short time later. Both Misko and Mrs. Richman were taken to the South Side Hospital.

British rule in India easy by violently hating each other. Rugged Afghan Hindus say the British inflict a great injustice on the world in protecting India. "If it were not for Britain," they say, "we should sweep down, murder most of the Hindus, and make the rest of them slaves, thus making a better world."

BRITAIN brags about the fastest ship afloat, the five-day Mauretania, and the White Star Company plans a 60,000-ton steamship to be called the Oceanic. Speed is the thing. Germans are constructing ships to cross in four and a half days. Sooner or later the seventy-five-mile-an-hour ship will appear, cutting the trip to two days. Enough passengers would be willing to pay the price and cheap oil would cut down fuel costs.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 28.—The twenty-fifth case of infantile paralysis was reported today. The victim is Stephen Baich, 4.

15 INDICTED IN DOPE PROBE

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 28.—An alleged "dope" ring, with ramifications extending from the water front in New York City to many place in Western Pennsylvania and part of Ohio and West Virginia, was investigated by the Federal grand jury in session here, with the result that true bills were returned today against 15 men and women, charged with violating the Harrison anti-narcotic act and the Jones-Miller act, a Federal statute involving smuggled narcotics.

According to government men, the "ring" operated extensively in Fayette county, with Scottdale being a point for distribution of morphine, cocaine and heroin which were later peddled in Homestead and other places in Allegheny county.

Two of the men indicted were Pasquale Napoli and Ralph Napoli, of New York, shipmasters in charge of stevedore gangs, who were said to have smuggled drugs into the country and delivered them to Joseph Pandaglia, a grocer at 209 Mulbury street, Scottdale. The latter was indicted, as were also his wife, Agata Pandaglia; his son, Benny Pandaglia, and his sister-in-law, Mary Vigilanti. Others indicted were Tobias Murfi, James Nowasky, a constable in Fayette county; Celeste Jones, who worked in the Pandaglia home; Marie Hodge, alias "Big Marie," and Elsie Johnson, Negro women, alleged to have peddled drugs in Homestead; Otis Epps, an alleged drug runner; James Ross, alias "Fathead Ross," arrested recently in Baltimore and brought to Pittsburgh; Ora Harris and Dominic Torch.

Indictments also were returned against William T. Moorehouse and Harry Gardiner, both of Pittsburgh, on charges of attempting to bribe Federal Dry Agent J. B. Lewis in Pittsburgh for the safe passage of 50 cases of whisky in an automobile.

True bills were voted against Joseph Wozniak, Pittsburgh, charged with selling morphine; William Long, Homestead, charged with violating the Harrison anti-narcotic act, and Charles Berger, Harry Scott, Joseph Kaplan, Samuel Daniels, Jack Desaunders and George Hyson of Pittsburgh, for alleged violation of dry laws.

Henry Ford's Brother Found Dead

AN EX-CHAMP AT HOME

Estelle loves her Jack so much every time he fought she suffered in sympathy. Now she can have him home where nobody can pick a fight with him. Though Jack has given some indications he'd still like to be champion.

PLAYFUL

LOVING

HOME-FOLKS

DANCERS

RELAXATIONS

With the hard work of training a byegone Jack can afford to relax. He tries a hand while Estelle keeps score.

GARDENERS

The Dempseys had to leave their garden and go to Chicago to make some more money, but they're back, putting on a few finishing touches. Just plain home-folks.

FIND FORD'S BROTHER DEAD IN EMPTY HOUSE

DETROIT, Sept. 28.—John Ford, 62, brother of Henry Ford, was found dead today across the bed in a newly purchased house at Chase and Gildow avenues, in Fordson, a suburb.

He was lying on his back, with his collar open and his trousers loosened. His pocketbook was lying beside him on the bed.

Death was due to heart disease, Dr. A. L. Sherwood and Deputy Coroner Earl, who ordered the release of the body, declared.

The new house, which was being made ready for occupancy, is two blocks from the present home on Chase avenue. Ford's car was found two blocks away from the Schaff roadhouse.

Ford attended a meeting of the City Council last night and left for home in his car about 8:30 p. m. Mayor Thomas Karman was the last to talk with him. He said Ford had a large roll of bills with him. He apparently was in good health, although it had been reported he had a weak heart.

When Ford failed to return from the council meeting, the family waited a while and then went to bed. At 5 a. m. his son, Robert, found he was not in his bed, so he telephoned the police, who communicated with other members of the council.

The car was found on Schaff road, locked and apparently undamaged in any way. A search of the new house, a modern bungalow, resulted in the discovery of the body.

Ford was a member of the real estate firm, Castle & Ford, and a member of the City Council. He is survived by his widow and three children, Robert, Clarence and Ethel.

GAUSSA HELD ON BAIL IN AUDIT

Joseph Gaussa division superintendent of the county department of public works, as at liberty today under $1,000 bonds on charges of perjury growing out of his testimony concerning the alleged sale of county-owned slag at the county audit hearing before Controller Charles C. McGovern.

Gauss waived the preliminary hearing before Alderman R. C. Dever, 1917 Murray avenue, last night when McGovern testified that Gaussa had denied at the audit hearing September 14 that he had received a check for $274 from H. W. Schuchman for county materials used in building a road at Schuchman's home. A canceled check was introduced in evidence.

ANNEXATION OF MT. OLIVER SEEN

Annexation of Mt. Oliver to the city will be practically unopposed, if the proposal is voted upon, sponsors of the move predicted today as they checked the results of a secretly planned campaign inaugurated Monday night to obtain petitioners for an annexation vote.

More than 800 of the 3,688 qualified voters of the borough already have signed the petitions, J. F. Sexauer, who is heading the annexation drive, reported. Although it is necessary to have the names of but 5 per cent of the voters on the petition to court for an annexation vote, those interested in the campaign say an effort will be made to have the petition bear the name of nearly 100 per cent of the voters. It is planned to ask that a special annexation election be held after the general election in November.

M'GOVERN WON'T O. K. ELECTION OVERTIME PAY

County Controller C. C. McGovern has refused to approve the overtime election payroll, submitted through the office of the County Commissioners because the figures therein do not agree with the time and rate record maintained by Maj. William T. Reese, acting deputy controller, who acted as controller's timekeeper in the overtime work. Previous to election, McGovern had informed the Commissioners that such would be his action unless their figures conformed to his.

It is upon Maj. Reese's recommendation, it was learned yesterday, that the controller is withholding his approval. The payroll as submitted totals $6,900. Maj. Reese recommended that all the rates and the time be decreased so as to come within the limits of $1,600.

The employes who performed the overtime work are bitterly deriding the controller's action. Many of them claim they have incurred additional expense because of the overtime work and feel they should be recompensed. As a final effort to get their money, they are planning to seek a hearing with the controller.

Maj. Reese, formerly chief clerk to the county commissioners, declared that while in that capacity he had charge of the election overtime work and therefore spoke with authority when he set the minimum amount needed.

"I'll guarantee to go over there and do the same work for $1,200, which they are asking $6,900 for," Maj. Reese averred. "However, I am willing to recommend that a comprimise of $1,800 be effected."

Politicians See No Difference, Will Says

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Sept. 28.—One of our Western senators says: "The Mississippi flood people say theirs is a national problem. Well, so is the Boulder Dam, and I will fight any effort to set it aside in favor of the flood."

WILL ROGERS

Well, there is no difference in the two problems to a politician but to a human being there is this difference: One is to do nothing but save lives and property while the other is to develop a dam for cheap power and water. The same as dozens of other projects on other rivers are developed every day.

Without dragging in the Mississippi, if the Colorado ever overflowed you can turn it out across the land anywhere on its lower course and there is enough sand to soak up the Atlantic Ocean. The dam should be built but not as a club over Mississippi sufferers.

Yours,
WILL.

RAIDERS SEIZE BRANDY STILL

A 20-gallon still used for making brandy, four barrels of grape mash, six barrels of wine, two gallons of moonshine whisky and 132 bottles of home brew were seized by prohibition agents yesterday in a house at 1306 Penn avenue. In connection with the raid they arrested Carmele Laki, 48, and Eugene Collier, 25, who will be arraigned before the United States commissioner. J. W. Flaherty, 32, was arrested in connection with the seizure of two trucks transporting unlabeled beer on East Ohio street.

CLOTHES CATCH IN GRIST MILL; KILLED

A. W. Ackerman, former burgess of Whittaker, was killed yesterday when his clothing was caught in the machinery of his grist mill at Whittaker.

THREW FLOWERS IN FACE, HE SAYS OF WIFE

"She nagged me for years because she was jealous of me, threw the flowers I presented her in my face, stabbed me with a window stick, leaving an inch splinter in my breast and snickered when I once took up the collection in church."

That in brief included some of the things which John Boehmer, 516 Delmont street, told Judge James H. Gray in court yesterday he had suffered at the hands of his wife, in testifying against her in his application for a divorce on the grounds of cruel and barbarous treatment.

Boehmer, a member of the McKinley Presbyterian Church, averred that some time ago he had charge of a bowling class on Tuesday nights in the church, and that his wife made it so unpleasant for him that he had to give up the job. He also stated that his wife had thrown dishes at him, cut him and had several times threatened to take her own life. Judge Gray asked Boehmer if he ever had given his wife cause to do the things he charged. The husband asserted he had not, and that he had been a true, loyal and dutiful husband.

HOLD 6 MEN ON RIOT CHARGES

Six Homestead men were held for court on charges of inciting to riot and felonious assault and battery by Justice of the Peace Edward M. Cox, Homestead, yesterday. They were charged with attacking two men and starting a riot in the Third Ward on primary election day. The six were Thomas Conlin, Albert Pryel, James Byrnes, Albert Shawl, Joseph Conlin and William Hughes.

DRAGNET OUT FOR BEACH, LILLIENDAHL SUSPECT

By International News Service.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Sept. 28.—A fugitive from justice, Willis Beach, 52-year-old poultry farmer charged with "aiding and abetting" the murder of Dr. William Lilliendahl, 72, was being sought all over New Jersey today. An all-night search by state troopers failed to disclose his whereabouts.

It was rumored that Beach had fled to Delaware. He vanished early yesterday shortly before he was to have been confronted with three witnesses who say they saw a man resembling him drive away from the murder scene shortly after Dr. Lilliendahl was murdered 12 days ago. His attorney, Edison Hedges, admitted that Beach was in hiding on his advice.

A warrant charging Beach with complicity in the murder was sworn out by Justice of the Peace George E. Strouse when a preliminary search failed to reveal any trace of the poultry farmer. Beach has admitted carrying on a clandestine correspondence with Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, widow of the murdered man, who is free on $25,000 bail as a material witness.

Assistant Prosecutor S. Cameron Hinkle will appear before County Judge William A. Smathers in Mays Landing today and ask to have the bail of $5,000 in which Beach had been released, forfeited unless the missing man appears immediately.

Beach's car, in which he was believed to have escaped, was found last night in the garage of his brother, Roy A. Beach, at Mays Landing, 35 miles from here.

GROUND BROKEN FOR GRANT BUILDING

SITE OF SKYSCRAPER

Two steamshovels are making the dirt fly on the site of the Grant Building, southeast corner of Grant street and Fourth avenue. The structure will be a 36-story set-back type office building, and will be Pittsburgh's tallest skyscraper. The R. M. Netherland Company has the contract for the excavation, which will be 55 feet deep.

COCHRAN'S MILL LINK IN W. VA. IS URGED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28—(AP)—Support for the project of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia for construction of a 38-mile line between Connellsville and Cochran's Mill, Pa., was indicated today by representatives of interested industrial and civic organizations who testified before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

In behalf of the Pittsburgh Steel Company, A. R. Kennedy, its traffic manager, and J. G. Parke, said the new line would be of particular value to the company's Monessen (Pa.) plant, now served by branch lines, because it then would be placed on a direct through route.

Trade organizations in Washington and Charleroi, Pa., located on the contemplated new line, also favored the extension. John K. Tener, a former Governor of Pennsylvania, residing at Charleroi, declared that Charleroi citizens now have no direct connection with Baltimore and South Atlantic territory by rail, but would receive one if the Pittsburgh and West Virginia extension were approved.

BUSINESS GAINS, REPORT SHOWS

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28—Gains in industrial production and in wholesale and retail trade were reported by the Federal Reserve Board in a summary of conditions throughout the country in August and early September.

The output of hard and soft coal, which had shown a considerable decline earlier in the season, "increased sharply," the board found. Consumption of cotton "remained unusually large," while automobile production increased and iron and steel were little changed.

"Distribution of merchandise at wholesale and retail increased more than is usual in August and sales were generally larger than in August of last year," the board reported, and "sales of wholesale firms in most leading lines were larger than a year ago."

BURGLAR JIMMIES DOOR, ESCAPES WITH $100

U. S. TO APPROVE POLISH LOAN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28—(INS)—The State Department will approve plans of a New York banking syndicate to extend a $70,000,000 loan to the Polish government for rehabilitating the national financial structure. The loan will be floated about October 15.

Poland is to go under a modified Dawes plan, under which all financial operations will be under the supervision of an American fiscal dictator.

PITTSBURGH WOMAN, GIRL HURT IN CRASH

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 28—Mrs. Nicholas Romano of Verona boulevard, Pittsburgh, suffered a fractured thumb and severe lacerations of her face and arms, and her 8-year-old daughter was hurt slightly when an auto in which they were riding collided with another on the Lincoln highway, a mile east of Ligonier.

LILLIAN GISH SUIT "REHASH"

Issues in Breach Case Once Settled in N. Y.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—New York court records bear out the contention made in Los Angeles by Lillian Gish that the issues at stake there in Charles H. Duel's $5,000,000 suit already have been disposed of in a federal court here. This was disclosed Monday by reference to the court decision to which the motion picture actress referred.

Duel, a motion picture producer, is suing for alleged breach of contract. Counsel for Miss Gish appeared Monday before Judge Gates in the Los Angeles Superior Court and asserted the issues had been tried previously. The court then took under advisement a motion of Duel for a ruling on an order he had obtained to compel her to show cause why she should not return to his management.

THROWN OUT OF COURT

When Duel's suit to make Miss Gish appear on the screen only for him was tried in the Federal Court in New York in April, 1925, Federal Judge Mack interrupted the trail and ordered a sweeping dismissal of the charges. He described Duel's testimony as a "tissue of falsehood" and ordered him held for perjury. His decision said:

"The court finds on the evidence offered by the plaintiff that the contract with the defendant has been substantially breached both by the assignor, Inspiration Pictures, Inc., and by the assignee, Charles H. Duel, Inc., and so substantially breached as to permit the defendant to regard it as at an end, and that instead of the plaintiff or Inspiration Pictures having grounds to complain of the breach, on the evidence presented it is the defendant that has grounds to complain.

"The court, however, further finds that from beginning to the end the defendant has been overreached, advantage has been taken in every way of the confidence that she reposed in one whom she made the trustee of all her property, whose firm she had employed as her personal counsel, whom she had made executor of her will and who was in complete control of the company with which she had a contract.

"In 22 years of judicial experience it has not been my fortune or misfortune to have had before me, with one possible exception, any case of more flagrant, outrageous breach of trust and over-reaching than has been shown on the plaintiff's own testimony in this case, and with the exception of one other case—I now refer to civil cases, excluding divorce cases—has there been more downright perjury committed on the part of the principal witness for the plaintiff, Charles H. Duel, than has been committed in connection with the affidavits that were filed on the motion for the preliminary injunction and in connection with the testimony that was given by him on the stand. All of this was very apparent from the start and it became more so with each witness, culminating in absolute certainty almost from the beginning of the testimony of Charles H. Duel."

Duell was indicted on a charge of perjury and tried in May, 1927, the trial ending in a jury disagreement. The government later nolle prossed the charges against him, saying all its evidence had previously been presented.

STREET VIEWERS ARE NAMED BY COURT

Judge Joseph M. Swearingen has appointed E. Z. Smith, W. M. McJunkin and F. S. Haller viewers to assess damages and benefits arising out of the improvement of Benson avenue, Cloverdale street, Hillman street and Catskill street.

CITY GETS LAND FOR BOULEVARD WIDENING

Council yesterday received the deed to about 30 acres of land purchased as an addition to Frick's Woods, Fourteenth Ward. The deed was from Charles F. Chubb, Mary A. Claire Chubb and the Union Trust Company. The cost was about $25,000. The purchase was authorized by Council some time ago.

A series of ordinances providing for the widening of the Boulevard of the Allies came to Council. Among them were a number arranging for the purchase of additional small strips of land not included in the original plans, as well as the bills that were held up to be advertised in accordance with the law.

Lightweight Woolens

For Smart Fall Frocks

Wool Jersey acquires new chic each season by appearing in all the most talked-of shades. This season the blues, greens and reds are next in importance to the ubiquitous and subtly varied browns. Especially smart used in combination with another fabric, silk, wool or velveteen. 54-inch, $1.85 yard.

Cherilaine is a lightweight, soft-textured fabric which comes in a good range of fashionable shades. Many of them have a faint silvered stripe which enhances their loveliness and suggests many novel self-trimming effects. 54-inch. $2.95 and $3.50 yard.

Wool Crepe lends itself extremely well to the tailored mode, having plenty of weight for pleats and tucks, and yet being light enough to comply with fashion's demand for sheerness. In all the best fall shades. 54-inch. $3.50 yard.

Wool Georgette is perhaps the smartest of the sheer woolens. It is transparent, and yet it tailors admirably. 54-inch. $4.35 to $6.50 yard.

The New Coatings

Chinchilla Coating for youngsters. Warm and always smart for tiny tots. In the colors children like—red, blue, gray, tan, etc. 54-inch. $2.95 and $3.95 yard.

Tweed Coatings of comfortable warmth, and most attractive. Tan and gray mixtures, for the most part, in several woven designs. 54-inch. $3.50 and $3.95 yard.

Suede Coatings are smart for dress. And they are quite reasonable, so that even after they are lined and fur-trimmed, coats of this material cost surprisingly little. 54-inch. $4.50 and $4.95 yard.

Plaid-Back Coatings. Heavy enough to wear well into the winter, even when made without linings, showing the attractive plaid backs. In tans, grays, and a few other sports shades. 54-inch. $7.50 yard.

Luster Coatings are perhaps the dressiest of woolen fabrics. An indistinct pebble effect in the weave, with a silky surface. In a wide range of lovely shades. 54-inch. $10.50 yard.

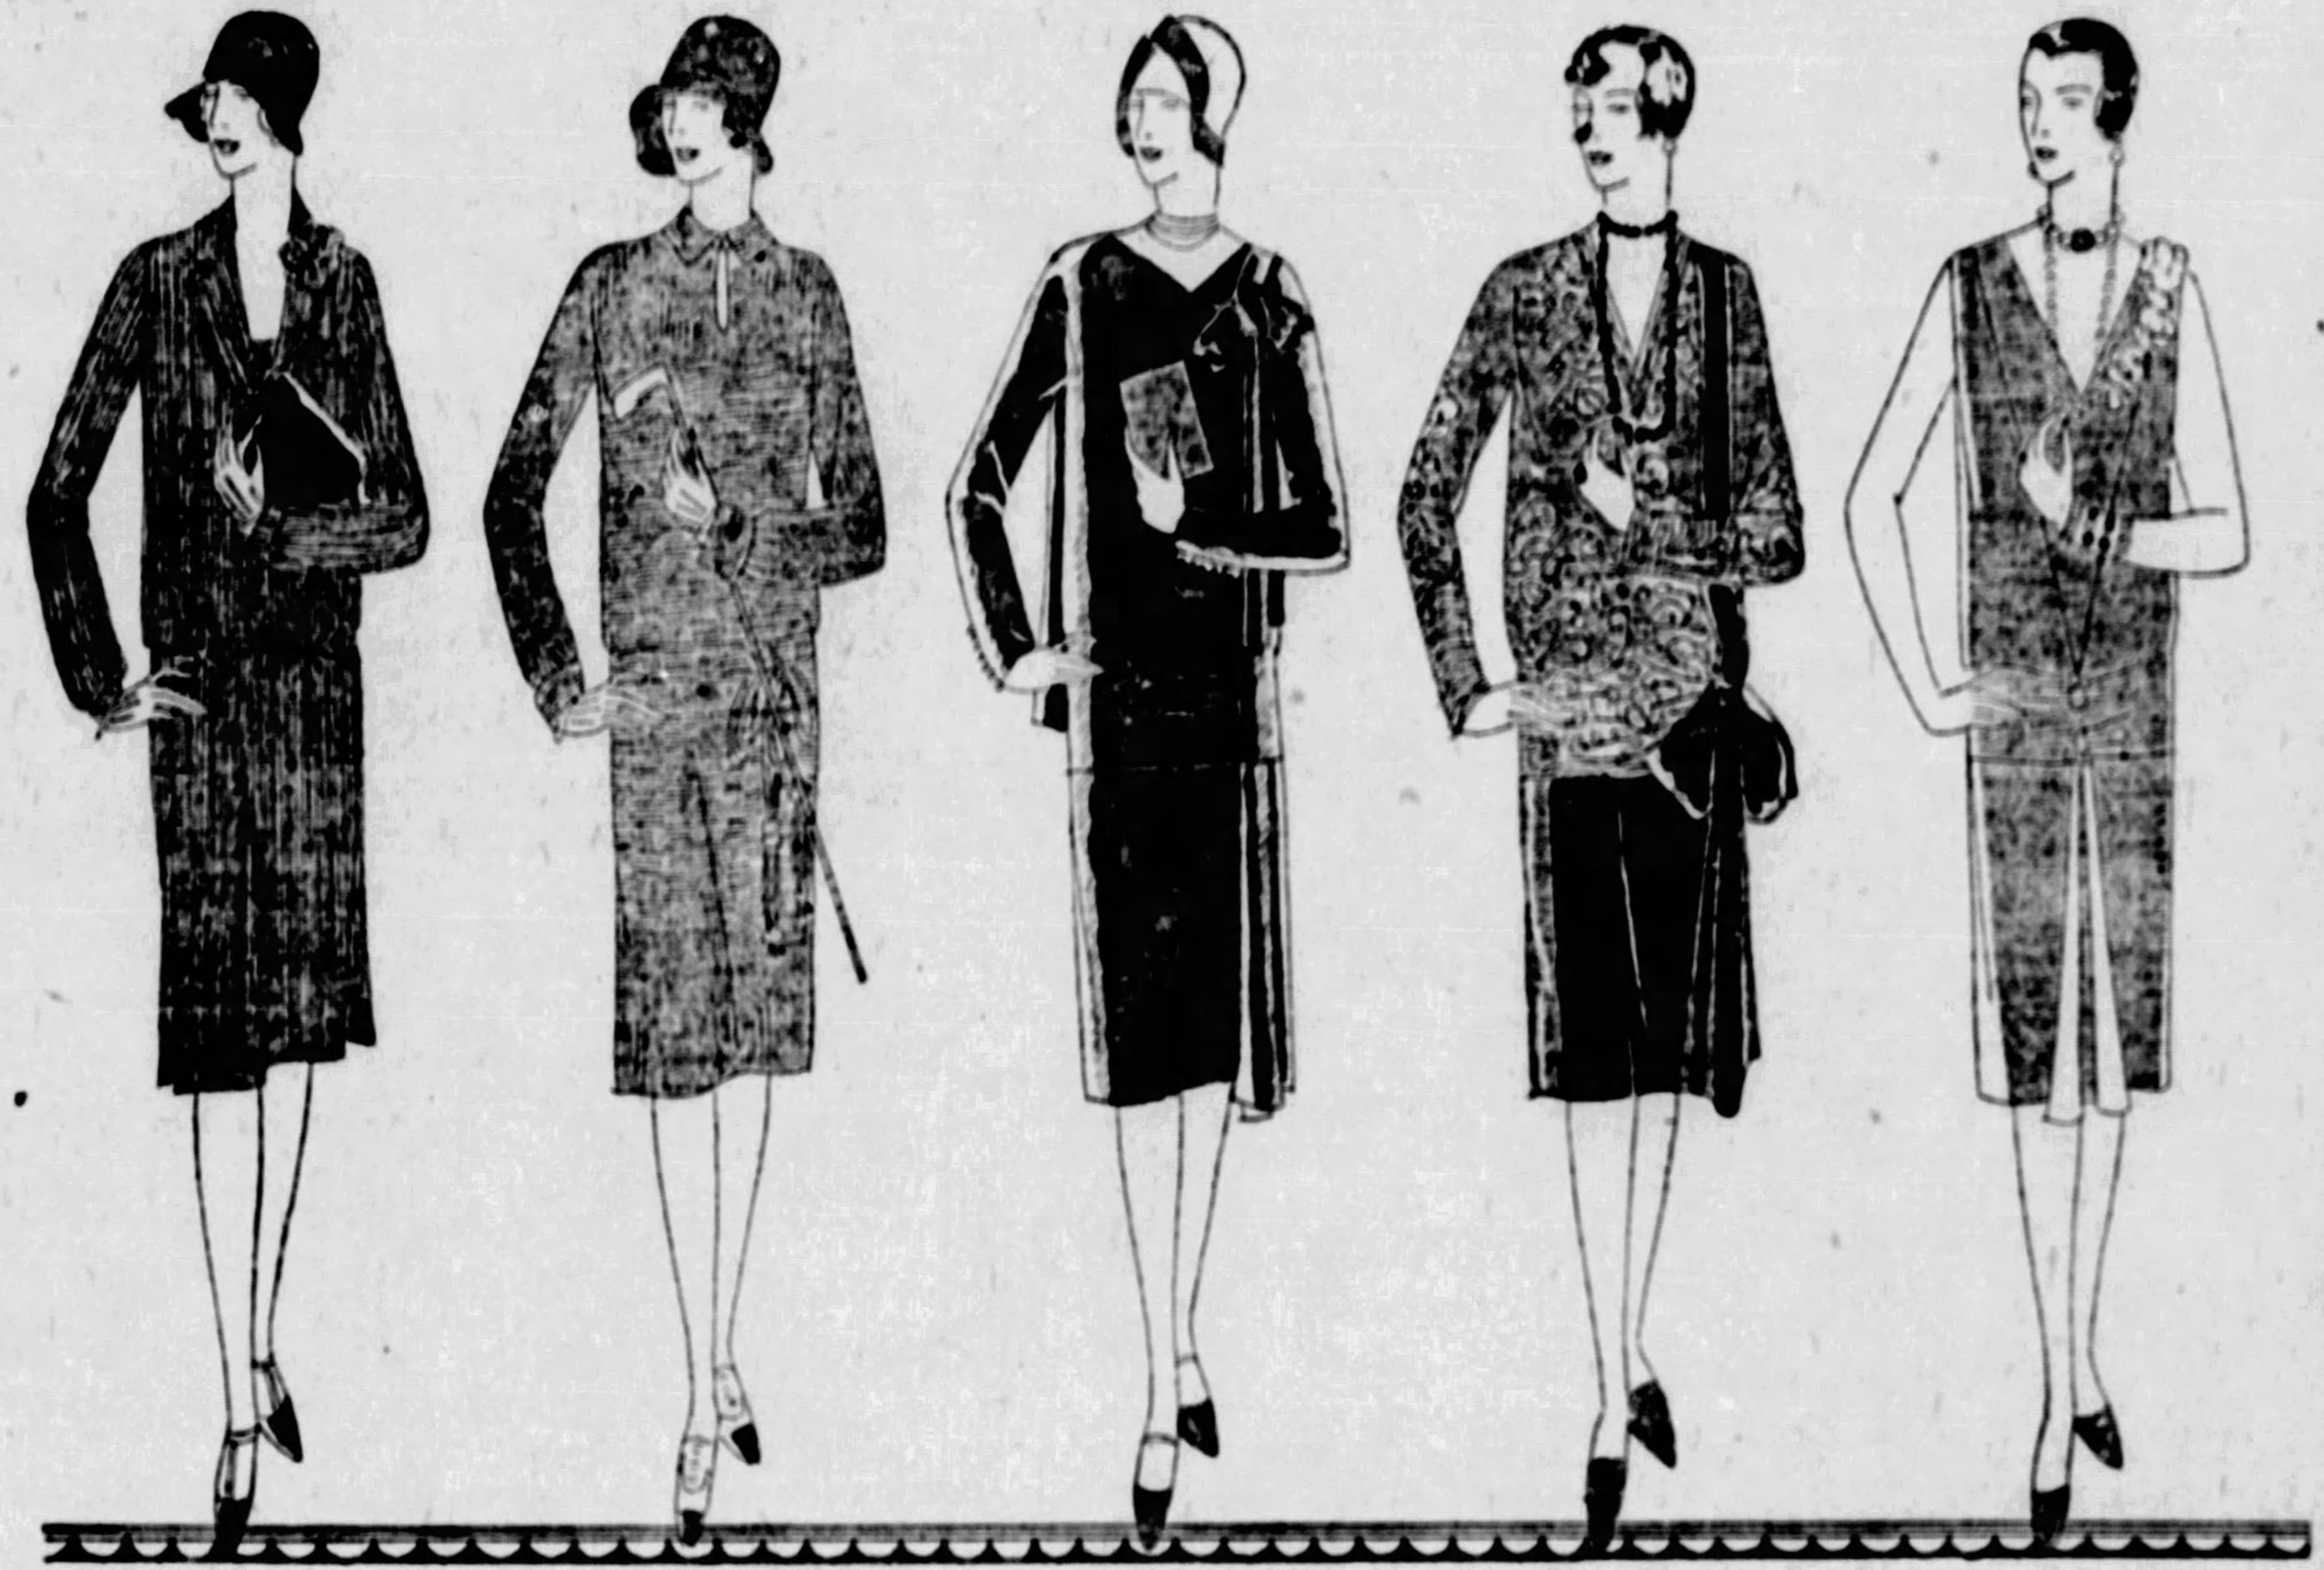
The Five-Dress Wardrobe

A Basis on Which to Plan for the New Season

The well-planned dress wardrobe is based on the five units enumerated here. With these units as a starting point, (the number of dresses in each unit being governed by the peculiar activities of the wearer), a woman can built a well-rounded, practical wardrobe.

Our stocks offer many variations of each of these types, in the matter of fabric, style and price; for dress specialization is considered so important here, that women are given access to seven dress sections, each serving an individual purpose.



The Tailored Cloth Dress

This dress, made of one of the new lightweight tweeds, is suited to wear on mild autumn days without a coat, and to later accompany a coat of tweed or other service fabric.

It is from the Tailor-Type section, which specializes in the smartest tailored dresses of either cloth or silk. It is a dress for shopping, for driving, and general service.

Its price is $39.50. Other Tailor-Type dresses range from $25.00 to $55.00.

A Knitted Sports Dress

There should be at least one sports dress in the fall wardrobe, for stadium wear, for autumn hikes, and for the country, and this knitted one will always be ready to slip into, because it will not wrinkle or muss.

It is Horne's Tee and Turf dress, the knitted dress which will not lose shape. It is also to be had in a collarless, V-neck style, and comes in a wide variety of colors.

Confined exclusively to Horne's, in Pittsburgh. $29.50.

The Versatile Daytime Frock

Here is the type of dress wanted to wear with what a woman usually designates as her "best" coat, a frock adapted to any average daytime occasion.

In this case, the dress is of black satin, a one-piece model with a two-piece effect, having the Vionnet neckline, the side drapery which is so characteristic of this season, and is finished with a laced-through belt of dull silk crepe.

It is priced $59.50; dresses of its general type, $39.50 upward.

For Formal Daytime Wear

With a greater elegance making itself evident, with style becoming more individualized, the dress for important afternoon functions, this season, may be very rich, indeed.

The dress pictured has a draped skirt of black transparent velvet; and blouse of king blue georgette crepe embroidered with gold thread, which may be detached when one desires to alternate it with another blouse. A dress also suited to informal dinners and the theater.

Priced $79.50.

The Simple Evening Dress

Since, in many a woman's wardrobe, one dress is called upon to be both dinner and dance frock, that model should be rather simple—rich, perhaps, but never dazzling.

"The Camels Are Coming"—

NO CUT IN NAVY, COOLIDGE ANSWER TO MAGRUDER

NEED OFFICERS TO TRAIN MEN IN WAR TIME

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—President Coolidge is flatly against any cut in naval personnel in order to save money, it was made known at the White House. He is vastly more interested in building up the best possible navy for America for the amount of taxpayers' money expended, it was stated.

This is the President's reaction to the recent charges of Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder that the navy is "overorganized" and that about $100,000,000 annually could well be lopped off.

While believing that Magruder's magazine article may contain some useful suggestions, the Chief Executive is inclined to believe that more constructive suggestions, pointing out the way to avoid unnecessary expenditures in future, would be more helpful. This is in line with the view of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, who has ordered Magruder to submit his plan for reorganizing the Navy to the department.

Without posing as a naval expert, the President was represented as disagreeing with Magruder's opinion that the Navy has entirely too many officers, moost of whom have only minor tasks to perform.

His view is that the Navy in peacetime is really a "skeleton" establishment designed to be quickly expanded to a wartime basis in time of emergency. To accomplish that, however, a large number of trained officers is vitally necessary. It was pointed out that seamen may be trained in a comparatively short time while the reverse is true of officers.

HAS NO PLAN

Meanwhile the Magruder incident was put squarely up to the Navy Department once again when the Admiral sent Secretary Wilbur the following terse telegram from Philadelphia: "I have no full, detailed plan for the reorganization of the Navy and the Navy Department."

Whether the department will take any furthr action or not the Secretary refused to disclose, nor would he say if the department would furnish the technical staff which Magruder said he would need to help prepare such a plan.

Secretary Wilbur pointed out "mistakes and inaccuracies" which he said Magruder's magazine article contained. He referred specifically to the Admiral's statement that for every dollar expended by the Navy for repairs, about $4 are expended to maintain a navy yard in which to make the repairs. Based on figures supplied by the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, Wilbur said that it would be nearer the truth to say that about 80 cents and not $4, is expended for each dollar of productive work.

How To Reduce Varicose Veins

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way.

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches. If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first-class drug store and apply it night and morning as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is a harmless, yet most powerful germicide and two ounces last a very long time. Indeed, so powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic sores and ulcers are often entirely healed and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. McCulloch's 16 Convenient Drug Stores sell lots of it.

MENTALLY UNBALANCED?

REBECCA BRADLEY ROGERS

Pretty University of Texas co-ed, alleged bank robber, on trial for arson, was mentally unbalanced at the time the vacant house in Roundrock was burned. Otis Rogers, her husband, testified today. The prosecution charges Rebecca Rogers burned the building in order to divert attention so she might rob a nearby bank.

FALL ON BROKEN BOTTLE IS FATAL TO MILKMAN

MARTINS FERRY, O., Sept. 28.—George H. Kress, 24, milk wagon driver of Wheeling, was killed here when a broken milk bottle on which he fell while coming down a flight of stairs severed his jugular vein.

HOMESTEAD HALL DISSOLUTION ASKED

Attorney Walter G. Powell has presented a petition in Common Pleas Court asking for the dissolution of the Homestead Hall Association.

ONE DEAD, OTHER HURT IN BLAST

By Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 28.—John Stubbs, 18, of Wheeler, is dead today and Edward Clements, 23, of Dunbar, is in a serious condition in a hospital here, the result of a gasoline explosion late yesterday at the plant of the Connellsville Bluestone Company.

Machine shops and the tool house were destroyed. The cause of the explosion has not been determined.

Stubbs rolled over and over in a sandpile, but was unable to beat out flames which enveloped him.

E. R. BALDINGER, PRESIDENT OF BANK, DIES

Emil R. Baldinger, president of the Dollar Savings and Trust Company, died late Tuesday in his hotel room at Atlantic City. Mr. Baldinger, 64, had been in poor health, but his condition was not believed critical.

He was born in the North Side and spent a lifetime there, entering the financial world in 1890 with the Real Estate Trust Company. At the death of R. H. Boggs, more than 10 years ago, he became president of the Dollar Savings and Trust Company. Mr. Baldinger was a director of the National Bank of Allegheny, North Side Real Estate Company, American Locker Company and Republic Casualty Company. He was a member of the Union Club and treasurer of the board of trustees of Trinity Lutheran Church.

Mr. Baldinger leaves his wife and a son, Allan M. Baldinger, both of 151 Riverview avenue, and two sisters, Mrs. Julius Stayert, Jr., and Miss Aida B. Baldinger, of Baltimore, Md.

RUSH GUNBOAT TO SWATOW

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—A serious situation exists at Swatow, in China, where a Communist army has seized control of the city, the State Department announces.

The gunboat U. S. S. Asheville has been rushed there and marines will be landed if necessary to protect American lives and property.

"Lifts" Fine

JENNIE LONG

Jennie Long, 32, who says she is a native of Cuba and an expert masseuse, was arraigned as a shoplifter in Morals Court. Testimony revealed that she "lifted" a couple of dresses instead of sticking to her trade of "lifting" faces. She was fined $50 with the opinion of 30 days in the workhouse.

GIRL ANNOYED; PAYS $25

Ralph McColl, 21, of 1546 Orangewood avenue, Beechview, was fined $25 in Morals Court today when Miss Agnes McIntyre, 17, of 2553 Ruthwood street, Carrick, testified he had annoyed her on a cross-town street car yesterday. McColl is employed as a bank clerk.

LOCAL COMPANY BUYS PROPERTY IN GLASSPORT

The Copperweld Steel Company has purchased from W. C. Kelly of Charleston, W. Va., a tract of more than 19 acres of industrial property in Glassport. The property includes an office at the northeast corner of Allegheny avenue and Ninth street, Glassport. The deed does not include a number of buildings and cranes, and a quantity of electric equipment. The plant was formerly that of the American Ax and Tool Company.

The Cullen Company sold for T. P. Miller to L. H. Tippins a brick dwelling on the north side of Aylesboro avenue, Fourteenth Ward, at private terms. The lot is 34x140 feet.

The C. L. Saxton Company sold for Della Geraghty to Hanna M. Tunney a brick house at 1033 Murrayhill avenue, Fourteenth Ward, lot 36x66 feet, at private terms.

The George W. Johnson estate sold to Harry A. Quay 100x173 feet at the northeast corner of Orchard and Chestnut streets, Avalon, for $15,000.

A house in Ashland avenue, Mt. Lebanon, lot 37x128 feet, has been sold by Daniel E. Allen to Richard H. Randell for $11,500.

The education committee of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board was in charge of the noon luncheon of the board yesterday at the William Penn Hotel, and announced an essay contest for children of the public and parochial schools on "The Advantage of Owning a Home."

The plan calls for a total of $1,000 in prizes. The essays must be not less than 500 words nor more than 1,000 words. The city and suburbs will be divided into 20 districts, and prizes will be awarded in each district. W. C. Short outlined the plan to the board.

Runs ANY radio from your house electric current!

Your Radio Set Switch Controls Everything
~Your A Power
~Your B Power
As well as the set itself

The Marvelous New Model PHILCO Radio AB Socket Power

Only $5.00 DOWN

Remember, it makes no difference whether you now have a dry-cell or a storage-battery operated radio set, or what kind of battery set you may buy, the Philco AB Socket Power will run that set from your electric light socket, smoothly and perfectly.

Yes, now you can select the radio with the tone you like—any tried and proven set—and then remember, Philco will operate it from your house electric current. Your radio switch controls everything—your "A" and "B" power as well as the radio itself.

Does Away with All Battery Bother! No more recharging to do! No more batteries to replace! No fuss or bother! And better still, you get improved reception—not the least hum; not the least distortion! Perfect "A" and "B" power always! Super-power for all radio power tubes! 180 volts at 60 Milli-amperes! Here is your chance to do away with your "A" storage battery and all dry-cell "A" and "B" batteries.

Trade in your old "A" storage battery: you won't need it when you get your Philco, and we will make you a LIBERAL ALLOWANCE for it—no matter how old or worn out it may be.

Installation Free and Easy Payments! We will connect the Philco to your radio set—whether an old set or a new set—at absolutely no extra cost to you, and you get the Philco for only a small payment down and the balance a little each month.

EASY AS TURNING on your electric lights: you merely snap ON your radio switch when you want to listen in. Snap it OFF, and your radio is silent.

An Ironclad Guarantee by the Factory goes with every Philco AB Socket Power and they are built to conform with the Underwriters' Laboratories Safety Specifications.

Atwater Kent Pfanstiehl Splitdorf
Fada Freed-Eisemann Radiola-28
Victrola-Radiola Brunswick-Radiola

Special Philco Units have been designed for Fada, Pfanstiehl, Freed-Eisemann, Stromberg-Carlson, Brunswick-Radiola, Splitdorf and Victor radio receivers and are tested and approved by these companies.

Offer Positively Ends Oct. 15

SUPREME COURT HEARS OUSTER ARGUED

The Supreme Court yesterday heard arguments in the case of James Gibbons against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. Gibbons was injured on August 21, 1924, at Twelfth and Pike streets, Pittsburgh, by being run over by a freight car. On February 1, 1927, the case was tried in the Common Pleas courts before Judge Joseph M. Swearingen, and on February 3, a verdict was rendered by a jury awarding Gibbons $24,000 damages. The defendant took an appeal from the ruling of the trial judge.

The case of R. M. Elliott, former councilman of the borough of Pitcairn, who was ousted, also was argued. This case was an outgrowth of quo warranto proceedings instituted against Elliott last February asking his removal from participating in the affairs of the council of Pitcairn, to which he had been elected, on the ground, that R. M. Elliott was an employe and partner of John A. Elliott, in a painting business and that while a partner of the painting firm and a councilman, the firm had a contract to paint a borough building, and that R. M. Elliott was directly or indirectly interested in the contract. Judge James B. Drew, sitting in the Common Pleas Court, ousted the defendant.

Other cases argued were those of Maurice J. Novice vs. W. Riley Alter, a Westmoreland county case involving real estate; Armstrong County Trust Company, trustee, vs. Freeport Water Works Company; Fred C. Bothwell vs. City of York; R. A. Troop vs. Franklin Savings and Trust Company and the Terminal Coal Company vs. the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, involving a right of way.

YOUR PITTSBURGH

How Well Do You Know It?

The Bank of Pittsburgh N. A., known as the Bank Historical, was established in 1810 and has the distinction of being the oldest bank in America, west of the Allegheny Mountains.

It has played a vital part in the development of the Pittsburgh community, and has helped to finance from infancy what are now some of America's leading industries.

The first banking house was at Third avenue and Market street. In 1831 the present location in Fourth avenue was purchased. The building erected on this site was destroyed by the great fire of 1845. Numerous enlargements have been made since that time.

In 1899, after having been a state bank for almost 90 years, the Bank of Pittsburgh became a National institution. When the Clearing House Association was organized, in 1865, the Bank of Pittsburgh was one of the original members.

Today, with the unbroken record of almost a century, its large resources and its strong conservative management, it stands staunch and true to the spirit of service in which it was founded.

Lewis Stone Accepts Starring Role With Universal; To Play In New Foreign Legion Picture

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS.
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28.

NOTHING less than a starring arrangement could coax Lewis Stone from First National to any other studio. That is what Universal had to offer him before he would consent to move his belongings to Universal City.

Mr. Stone, who as a character actor is excellent, but who, as a juvenile lead, is as unconvincing as Theda Bara as a curly haired ingenue, will share honors with Norman Kerry in "The Foreign Legion," a spectacular drama laid in Algiers. The author, I. A. R. Wylie, has provided a story with some of the color that made "Beau Geste" such a best seller among last year's films.

Sometimes I wonder why these actors with Lewis Stone's unquestionable ability and international popularity cling to leading man roles when they are so much better in something other than a Gilbert-Colman type of character. "The Foreign Legion," I am told, is made for Stone. That ought to please all of his admirers and his friends.

Irving Thalberg, filmland's most eligible bachelor, weds lovely Norma Shearer Thursday, but that doesn't prevent Irving from making a few announcements for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Irving, with all the characteristics of a real general, has a hundred plans up his sleeve now for the film company whose production activities he guides. One of these announcements concerns Lucian Hubbard, who has been signed as associate editor for M-G-M. At the moment Mr. Hubbard is writing the continuity for "Rose Marie," which is being directed by Edmund Goulding. In the matter of originality, Mr. Goulding wins any medal.

One of New York's foremost columnists, James K. McGuiness, who left his literary pals in Broadway to come West and write for the movies, has just finished an opus for the Fox Company, in conjunction with Donald McGibney. The Fox Company has given it the box office title of "Woman Wise," and assigned it to Victor McLaglen, of Capt. Flagg fame, in "What Price Glory." McLaglen, who rose from an unknown to a place of exceeding popularity after his Capt. Flagg performance will make his bow as a full-fledged star in "Woman Wise."

Jack Warner lands in New York tomorrow morning with a copy of "The Jazz Singer" and its Vitaphone accompaniment. He will meet Al Jolson in the big town and together they will make final plans for the opening of Warner Theater October 6. Of course, Al will be there. He is as excited over his first movies as a youngster with a new toy. Al, by the way, was much in evidence in Chicago before and after the fight. He is reported to have either lost or won $40,000 on the fight—depends which person he gave the correct name of his champion. All things are fair in love, war and prize fights.

I hear from an unofficial source that Marilyn Miller will get her divorce from Jack Pickford in New Jersey some time this fall. There is also talk that Miss Miller will wed Ben Lyon as soon as the necessary time elapses. Ben only recently returned from Paris where he made exteriors for "French Dressing" for First National. He also made hay while the sun shone in Berlin, so to speak, by playing in "Dancing Vienna," opposite Lya Mara, a German actress. Mara is a great favorite in Germany.

Camilla Horn, the fascinating young European actress, who was so much admired in "Faust," is on her way to Hollywood. A telegram received states that John Considine has signed her on a five-year contract. She will make her bow as a screen star in "Cellini," the John Barrymore picture to follow after "The Tempter." Miss Horn is sure to be a sensation. She is the same type as Greta Garbo and you know without my telling you Greta has vamped a large percentage of the male picture goers of the country.

In Mystery -:- Problem for New Member -:- Out of Past

JAMES SPOTTISWOOD will be in the cast of "Out of the Night," in the Nixon next week. This is the newest mystery play.

WILL ROGERS isn't just sure that the dress selected for the girl's entrance into Washington society in "A Texas Steer" is O. K. In this picture Will is a newly elected congressman, Louise Fazenda is his wife, and Ann Rork is the daughter whose gown is discussed.

ROBERT LEE ALLEN is in "Blossom Time," coming next week to the Alvin. Men were gay blades in the day Mr. Allen represents.

DEPICTS CROOK ROLES IN MANY PHOTOPLAYS

James Quinn, a specialist in underworld roles on the screen for more then 10 years, has been assigned to play the crook bellboy in "The Side Show." Quinn was born in the dressing room of the Grand Opera House in New Orleans and has been connected with the stage all his life. He once purposely let himself be arrested for vagrancy to get a chance to study crooks in jail as preparation for a stage part.

Trio of Oldtimers Meet Again on Film Set

Three famous young actresses of the gay nineties are brought together again in Hollywood for work in the movies. They are Trixie Friganza, who has the role of Mrs. Spofford in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes;" Cissie Fitzgerald, famous for her wink, who is the widow Malarky in the W. C. Fields-Chester Conklin comedy, "The Side Show," and Frances Raymond, former musical comedy soubrette, who is playing Thelma Todd's aunt in Richard Dix's new starring picture, "The Gay Defender." All three productions are in progress at the Paramount studio.

Miss Fitzgerald was the first woman in the United States, it is claimed, to wear a wrist watch.

"When I showed the watch on the stage, newspapers came out and criticized me for being faddish and freakish," said Miss Fitzgerald. "It was called the notion of a silly creature."

Miss Fitzgerald has an even more serious claim to distinction. She was the first woman ever to face the motion picture camera. She was employed as an actress at the Thomas A. Edison studios in 1896 and appeared in a 50-foot feature.

Trixie Friganza returns to the movies from an Eastern vaudeville tour. Miss Raymond recently has acted as mother on the screen to a large number of celebrated juveniles.

Bebe Fickle Star When It Comes To Her Pets

Bebe Daniels is Miss Caprice when it comes to pets. Her first was a dog, one of the rare Schnauser breed. She forsook him while filming "Swim, Girl, Swim" and adopted a tiny pig as her mascot. When she began making her latest picture, "She's a Sheik," Miss Daniels attached a baby camel to her company. That has been replaced now by Olga, a leopard, which serves not only as a pet, but also as an important member of the cast.

STAGES HERALD NEW BILLS

With the closing of the George Sharp Production Stock Company engagement in the Pitt next week comes announcement that Manager Sharp will return to Pittsburgh with his company early next spring. The closing attraction, which opens next Monday night, will be the comedy, "Just Married." There will be matinees Thursday and Saturday.

A new mystery-thriller, "Out of the Night," will open a week's engagement in the Nixon Monday night, October 3. The action takes places in Maine woods. The cast is headed by James Spottswood. Seats on sale tomorrow.

"Blossom Time," operetta based on the romance of Franz Schubert, embodying song themes of the great composer, will return for one week's engagement in the Alvin, beginning next Monday night. Seats for all performances, including the Wednesday and Saturday matinees, will go on sale tomorrow morning.

The Keith-Albee vaudeville attraction booked for the Davis next week will feature Lew Hearn in a comedy skit, "When Men Leave Home." He will be assisted by Ethel Gray. On the screen will be "The Joy Girl."

Specialists coming with "Sliding" Billy Watson's newest attraction, "The Flying Dutchman," next week in the Gayety, will be Alfaretta Symonds of vaudeville favor; Frank L. Norton and Frank Mallahan, as comics, and Countess Jeanne Vonne.

"High Life" will be next week's show in the Academy.

GEORGE JESSEL IN TWO NEW WARNER PICTURES

George Jessel, Warner Brothers star, recently arrived in New York from the west coast, where he has spent the last four months making two starring pictures to be released during the fall season. The first of these was a story of life back-stage on Broadway. It is to be called "Ginsberg the Great." The other is a travesty on a seafaring career, entitled "Sailor Izzy Murphy."

Too Many Words Make This Sentence Long

George Welcome, 25, a painter of 2124 Manges street, who seems amazingly ignorant of police court etiquette, appeared in Morals Court this morning.

"Thirty days," said Magistrate A. D. Brandon, when he heard how George had come home last night and done things no gentleman should do even if someone did hide his pint of liquor.

"Fine," responded George.

"Sixty days," amended Magistrate Brandon.

"Better still," quoth George.

$50,000 ASKED IN 4 SUITS

Angelo Battiste in behalf of his son, Daniel Battiste, 16, asks $20,000 damages from E. L. Bartley for personal injuries received by the son when he was struck by the automobile of the defendant at Frankstown avenue and Wheeler street last May 24. The father also asks $15,000 damages in his own right.

For personal injuries she received last August 18, Evelyn A. Young claims $10,000 damages from E. J. Harrison and H. R. Donnelly, receivers of the Thomas Cronin Contracting Company. The plaintiff avers that an automobile in which she was riding struck an air compressor parked along the Beaver road, the property of the defendant company, and upon which no warning lights were displayed.

For personal injuries received on the Verona road last July 16, in a collision of automobiles, Walter C. Chew asks $5,000 damages from Phillip Friedman, of 5509 Avondale street.

COLUMBUS BOYS LOSE CAR HERE

A thief, who proved to be a better mechanic than the owners, stole an automobile of Thomas Corden and Arthur Brinker, members of the Columbus (O.) Central High School football team, from Smithfield street, where they had left it because they were unable to start it. The two had come to Pittsburgh for a visit and were seeking a mechanic to fix the balky car when they returned and discovered it missing.

New Boss Speeds Away With His $250 Savings

Andy Hvolka, New Castle, found a new boss yesterday. His name was "Mike," and he sported a yellow roadster. "Mike" brought Andy to Pittsburgh, then remembered Andy needed money to pay his board. They went to Uniontown where Andy withdrew $250 which he had on deposit in a bank.

At Western and Irwin avenues, Mike wanted some lemons and Andy got out of the machine to get them, having first left his $250 with Mike for safe keeping. When he returned the new boss, the yellow roadster and the $250 were gone.

THIEVES CLEAN OUT CLEANING SHOP

Thirty-five suits and eight top coats, left for cleaning, were stolen last night from the cleaning establishment of H. Speiser, 214 East Ohio street. Entrance was gained through a rear window.

Easy to prevent perspiration odor

Change toilet soaps—and see!

HOW quickly we condemn perspiration odor in others—yet blissfully ignore the fact that at times we ourselves offend.

Even when we don't seem to perspire, the pores constantly give off odor-causing moisture.

For greater safety—use Lifebuoy! So refreshing millions bathe with it every day—and it gives lasting freedom from embarrassing odor.

Healthier complexions, too

And added to all else, Lifebuoy is a health safeguard—it removes unseen germs from hands, as well as dirt.

Lifebuoy's clean, hygienic scent—which quickly evaporates after rinsing—tells you it gives greater safety. Yet Lifebuoy costs so little. It is orange-red, the color of its pure palm-fruit oils. Get it today.

HUNT ARMORY IMPROVEMENT AUTHORIZED

HARRISBURG, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Plans for the construction of armories at Latrobe, Carbondale and Lock Haven were approved at a meeting here yesterday of the state armory board. Advertisement of bids for these projects was authorized. For the Hunt armory in Pittsburgh a new floor was authorized to cost $7,000.

The Latrobe armory, to be known as the Thomas Anderson Memorial Armory, will be a two-story structure, for which the board has set aside $50,000.

The Carbondale plant will be two stories in height and the board has appropriated $75,000 for it, while for the Lock Haven project, to consist of three buildings, a drill hall, administration hall and stable, the board has allocated $60,000.

The board approved the plans for the Gen. Thomas J. Stuart Memorial Armory at Norristown subject to certain changes. An allocation of $100,000 had been made for this project.

Other action by the board was:

Altoona armory—Architect directed to draw plans and submit estimates for the construction of a 40-foot addition to the rear.

Coraopolis armory—Authorized to advertise for a new heating plant.

Lancaster armory—Approved plans for the construction of a drill hall, 110x80 feet. The board has set aside $100,000 for work in this plant.

JOY COMES TO KANSAS CITY WOMAN

Face was almost covered with pimples

Simple treatment makes skin smooth and clear

Kansas City, Mo., June 12:—"I am delighted with Resinol Soap and Ointment, they have benefited my skin so much. The soap leaves it so smooth and gives just the results I have been looking for. I had pimples and blackheads almost covering my face at one time, but by using both soap and ointment I have succeeded in conquering the disorder. I tried several other remedies, but didn't get any results. We take both Resinol Soap and Ointment with us on our vacation trips as we find them always needed, and the ointment is especially good for almost any kind of insect bites."—(Signed) Mrs. Carl Schulze, 2311 Wabash Ave.

Your druggist sells the Resinol products. Keep your skin clear and velvety by daily use of Resinol Soap. For the occasional pimple apply a touch of Resinol Ointment.

Correct Sportswear for the Spectator and for the Active·Sportswoman

Dresses:

Sport frocks for street and sports wear are two and three-piece models. They are jerseys, wool crepes, plaids and knitted dresses designed to give ease of movement to the active sportswoman, with the necessary chic. Spectator sport frocks are more elaborate in fabric, but simple and slim in line. Velvet combinations, silks strictly tailored, soft angoras and fine jerseys.

Attractive sport dresses, 16.50 to 39.75.
Spectator sport frocks, 39.75 to $79.

Coats:

Practical utility coats that will withstand vigorous, active wear are mannishly fashioned of tweeds, featherdowns and camel's hair, with or without fur trimming.

The spectator sports coats have more luxurious fur trimming, with wide shawl, mushroom and tuxedo collars. The fashion-new kasha lining, which is featured in the better coats, is practical for football games and horse shows. The soft woodsy shades and imported fabrics are featured in these better models.

The LIFE AND LETTERS OF WOODROW WILSON

Woodrow Wilson Becomes Zealous In Religion

By RAY STANNARD BAKER

In the third installment of "The Life and Letters of Woodrow Wilson," published in these columns yesterday, the War President's biographer revealed the intimate association with notable men it was "Tommy" Wilson's privilege to have in his boyhood that made a marked impression in his after life.

Early Religious Experiences

IT HAPPENED in the winter of 1872-'73, when he was 16, that Tommy Wilson became a great friend of a young man named Brooke, who had come to Columbia, S. C., to study for the ministry. Brooke was some years older than Tommy, and had only a poor preparation, but he was on fire with zeal. He held religious meetings in his room, which the boy Tommy soon began to attend. Other students joined in and presently the meetings grew so large that they moved to the chapel of the seminary, a little one-story brick stable which looks today very much as it must have looked then. Pictures of the leaders of the church hung upon its walls, and a low rostrum faced the crude wooden benches. Here the meetings continued for some time. Years later when Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States, came again to Columbia, he paused in the doorway of the little chapel.

"I feel," he said, "as though I ought to take off my shoes. This is holy ground." He also said of it, "I have never heard greater speaking in my life than I have heard from that rostrum."

The records of the First Presbyterian Church contain the information that "Thomas W. Wilson applied for membership" in the church, July 5, 1873. It is a remarkable thing that in chronicling new memberships the record over a long period of years contains no enlargement upon the bare statement of the fact in any case except that of young Wilson and his friends. Here the minutes speak of "three young men out of the Sunday school and well known to us all"—Thomas W. Wilson being one of them. "After a free confession," continues the record, "during which they severally exhibited evidences of a work of grace begun in their hearts, (they) were unanimously admitted to the membership of this church."

Crisis in His Life

There is no doubt that Woodrow Wilson regarded this religious experience, this "religious turning," as one of the important crises in his life. It was no mere emotional outburst. It was an intellectual conviction. And what he accepted at that time—both spirit and doctrine—continued with him to the end of his life. He never doubted; he never changed in the fundamentals of his religious belief. To the very end of his life he read his Bible daily—he wore out two or three Bibles in the readnig of them—he prayed daily upon his knees, he said grace before every meal.

"I do not see," he once wrote, "how any one can sustain himself in any enterprise in life without prayer. It is the only spring at which he can renew his spirit and purify his motive. God is the source of strength to every man, and only by prayer can he keep himself close to the father of his spirit."

It must not be forgotten that he came of Scotch ancestry, trained for generations in the school of John Knox and his successors. Most of his male ancestors for many generations were Scotch Presbyterian ministers or elders. What then, was this Scotch Presbyterianism?

We have the essential elements of it set forth in Woodrow Wilson's own words. He is speaking at Denver of what he calls the "'Magna Charta' of the human soul"—the Bible:

"It reveals every man to himself as a distinct moral agent, responsible not to men, not even to those men whom he has put over him in authority, but responsible through his own conscience to his Lord and Maker. Whenever a man sees this vision he stands up a free man, whatever may be the government under which he lives, if he sees beyond the circumstances of his own life."

But this was not all. It was never more than a step with the Scot from his religion to his attitude toward his environment, especially political. This followed naturally, because the state with its laws had power to affect his worship of God. Dr. Stalker says of John Knox:

"Only less important to his native land than his religious views were the Scottish reformer's political opinions. To himself, in all probability, the two appeared to be one; and, ever since, in the Scottish mind the waters of religious and political conviction have been in close proximity, with a constant tendency to mingle. . . . In the generations which have intervened between his day and our own, his ideas have been working like a leaven in the mind of the Scottish people; and to him may, in no small measure, be ascribed the type of political conviction, robust in character yet tinged with reverence, which has been the prevailing one north of the border."

Religion, Politics, Education

Thus their own inner convictions became more important to this tough breed than any prince, nobility or, indeed, any government; more important than their friends! They began to get the democratic idea that government was for them, rather than they for government. There was a further corollary of these yeasty ideas. If each human soul was so important in the sight of God, and it was so necessary that each should know "the Word," and not take his beliefs upon the authority of a priest, then he must be educated. Therefore the Scots of the Reformation and their successors set the school house close to the church. John Knox himself had an ideal of education which the world has not yet reached.

To the Scotch Presbyterian, then, religion, the service of God, was the supreme interest, but there must be a government that would permit or at least not interfere with that service, and there must be education that the individual might know the will of God.

Here we have clearly the three interests which most concerned Woodrow Wilson throughout his life—religion, politics, education. His career is a remarkable reflection of the unity of life which its Presbyterian and educational history gave to the Scottish people and the heirs of their form of civilization.

It would be ridiculous of course to assume, that Woodrow Wilson was full-panoplied with all these doctrines, but it must never be forgotten that this was literally the atmosphere of thought and conviction in which he grew up.

It is significant, in surveying Wilson's entire product, how much of it is devoted to the expression of his religious beliefs. Not only are there set lectures and addresses and constant references in other public papers, but he delivered innumerable talks during his long college career, ranging from baccalaureate sermons to informal speeches at chapel and before college religious organizations.

Rich Years of Youth

The Columbia years were among the richest of his life. When he thought of his youth it was always of Columbia rather than of Wilmington or Augusta. "My own very happy boyhood in Columbia." He returned eagerly in late years to visit his friends and relatives. Here in the churchyard lie buried his father, his mother, and his much loved Sister Anne. A modest stone at the edge of the crowded lot bears the inscription.

"Here lie the remains of Pres. Wilson's Parents."

Dr. Wilson and his wife, Jessie Woodrow, lie side by side with simple stones to mark their places. That of Woodrow Wilson's mother bears the following inscription:

"JESSIE WOODROW
"Wife of
"Joseph R. Wilson, D. D.
"BORN
"In Carlisle, Eng.
"Dec. 20, 1830;
"DIED
"In Clarksville, Tenn.
"April 15, 1888."

The date of Mrs. Wilson's birth given on the headstone is incorrect. It should be 1826.

Dr. Wilson's stone bears the following inscription, written by Woodrow Wilson:

"JOSEPH RUGGLES WILSON,
"Son of
"JAMES & ANNE ADAMS WILSON,
"Born at Steubenville, Ohio,
"February 28, 1822.
"Died at Princeton, New Jer.
"January 21, 1903.

"Pastor, teacher, ecclestastical leader. For 34 years Stated Clerk of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States.

"Steadfast, brilliant, devoted, loving and beloved. A master of serious eloquence, a thinker of singular power and penetration, a thoughtful student of life and of God's purpose, a lover and servant of his fellowmen, a man of God."

Davidson College is situated about twenty miles north of Charlotte, N. C., in a country of rolling red fields, corn, wheat, sheep and some cotton. The town consisted in Wilson's time, as it does today, of a single straggling street devoted almost entirely to students and student trade. Those stout old Presbyterians of the middle of the last century liked to get their colleges well out in the country, away from temptation.

Superior But Languid

When Tommy Wilson became a student, the whole country was still suffering from the exhaustion caused by the war. The only railroad serving Davidson, the Atlantic, Tennessee and Ohio, had been destroyed during the war, but the tracks had recently been relaid. The trains were slow and the service poor.

There was, at that time, no express or telegraph service, and conditions otherwise were primitive. But, if the college lacked material advantages, it had a soul of its own. It represented the passion of that early Scotch and Scotch-Irish population for an education. They were not too poverty-stricken, even in those days following the war, to tax themselves for institutions such as this.

It holds the record of being one of three institutions in the United States sending the largest number of young men into theological seminaries.

In the fall of 1873, when young Wilson entered, there were 107 students, and almost all of the activities of the institution were carried on in one huge building with imposing stone pillars in the old southern style, standing like sentinels in front. It had been erected at the unheard-of cost of $85,000 and was the feature of the entire countryside. From the cupola one could see Storm King Mountain, and even, on clear days, the Blue Ridge. Here, on the first floor, in the north wing, Room 12, young T. W. Wilson went to live. His roommate was John William Leckie, who died a few years later. There were two other noteworthy buildings on the campus, those devoted to the debating societies—the Eumenean and the Philanthropic—features which no southern institution of those days felt that it could be without.

Excellent reasons existed for sending young Wilson to Davidson besides his friendship for Brooke. His father and his Uncle James Woodrow were both much interested in the school, and Dr. Wilson was soon to be a trustee. It was, moreover, a sound Presbyterian institution, sending many students to the Columbia Seminary.

Only Average Student

Fellow students of young Wilson describe him as a quiet, superior sort of boy, studious rather than athletic. Dr. Fraser speaks of him as "witty, genial, superior, but languid." He did play center field in the baseball games and was an average batter, but Robert Glenn, captain of the team, afterwards Governor of North Carolina, remarked explosively:

"Tommy Wilson would be a good

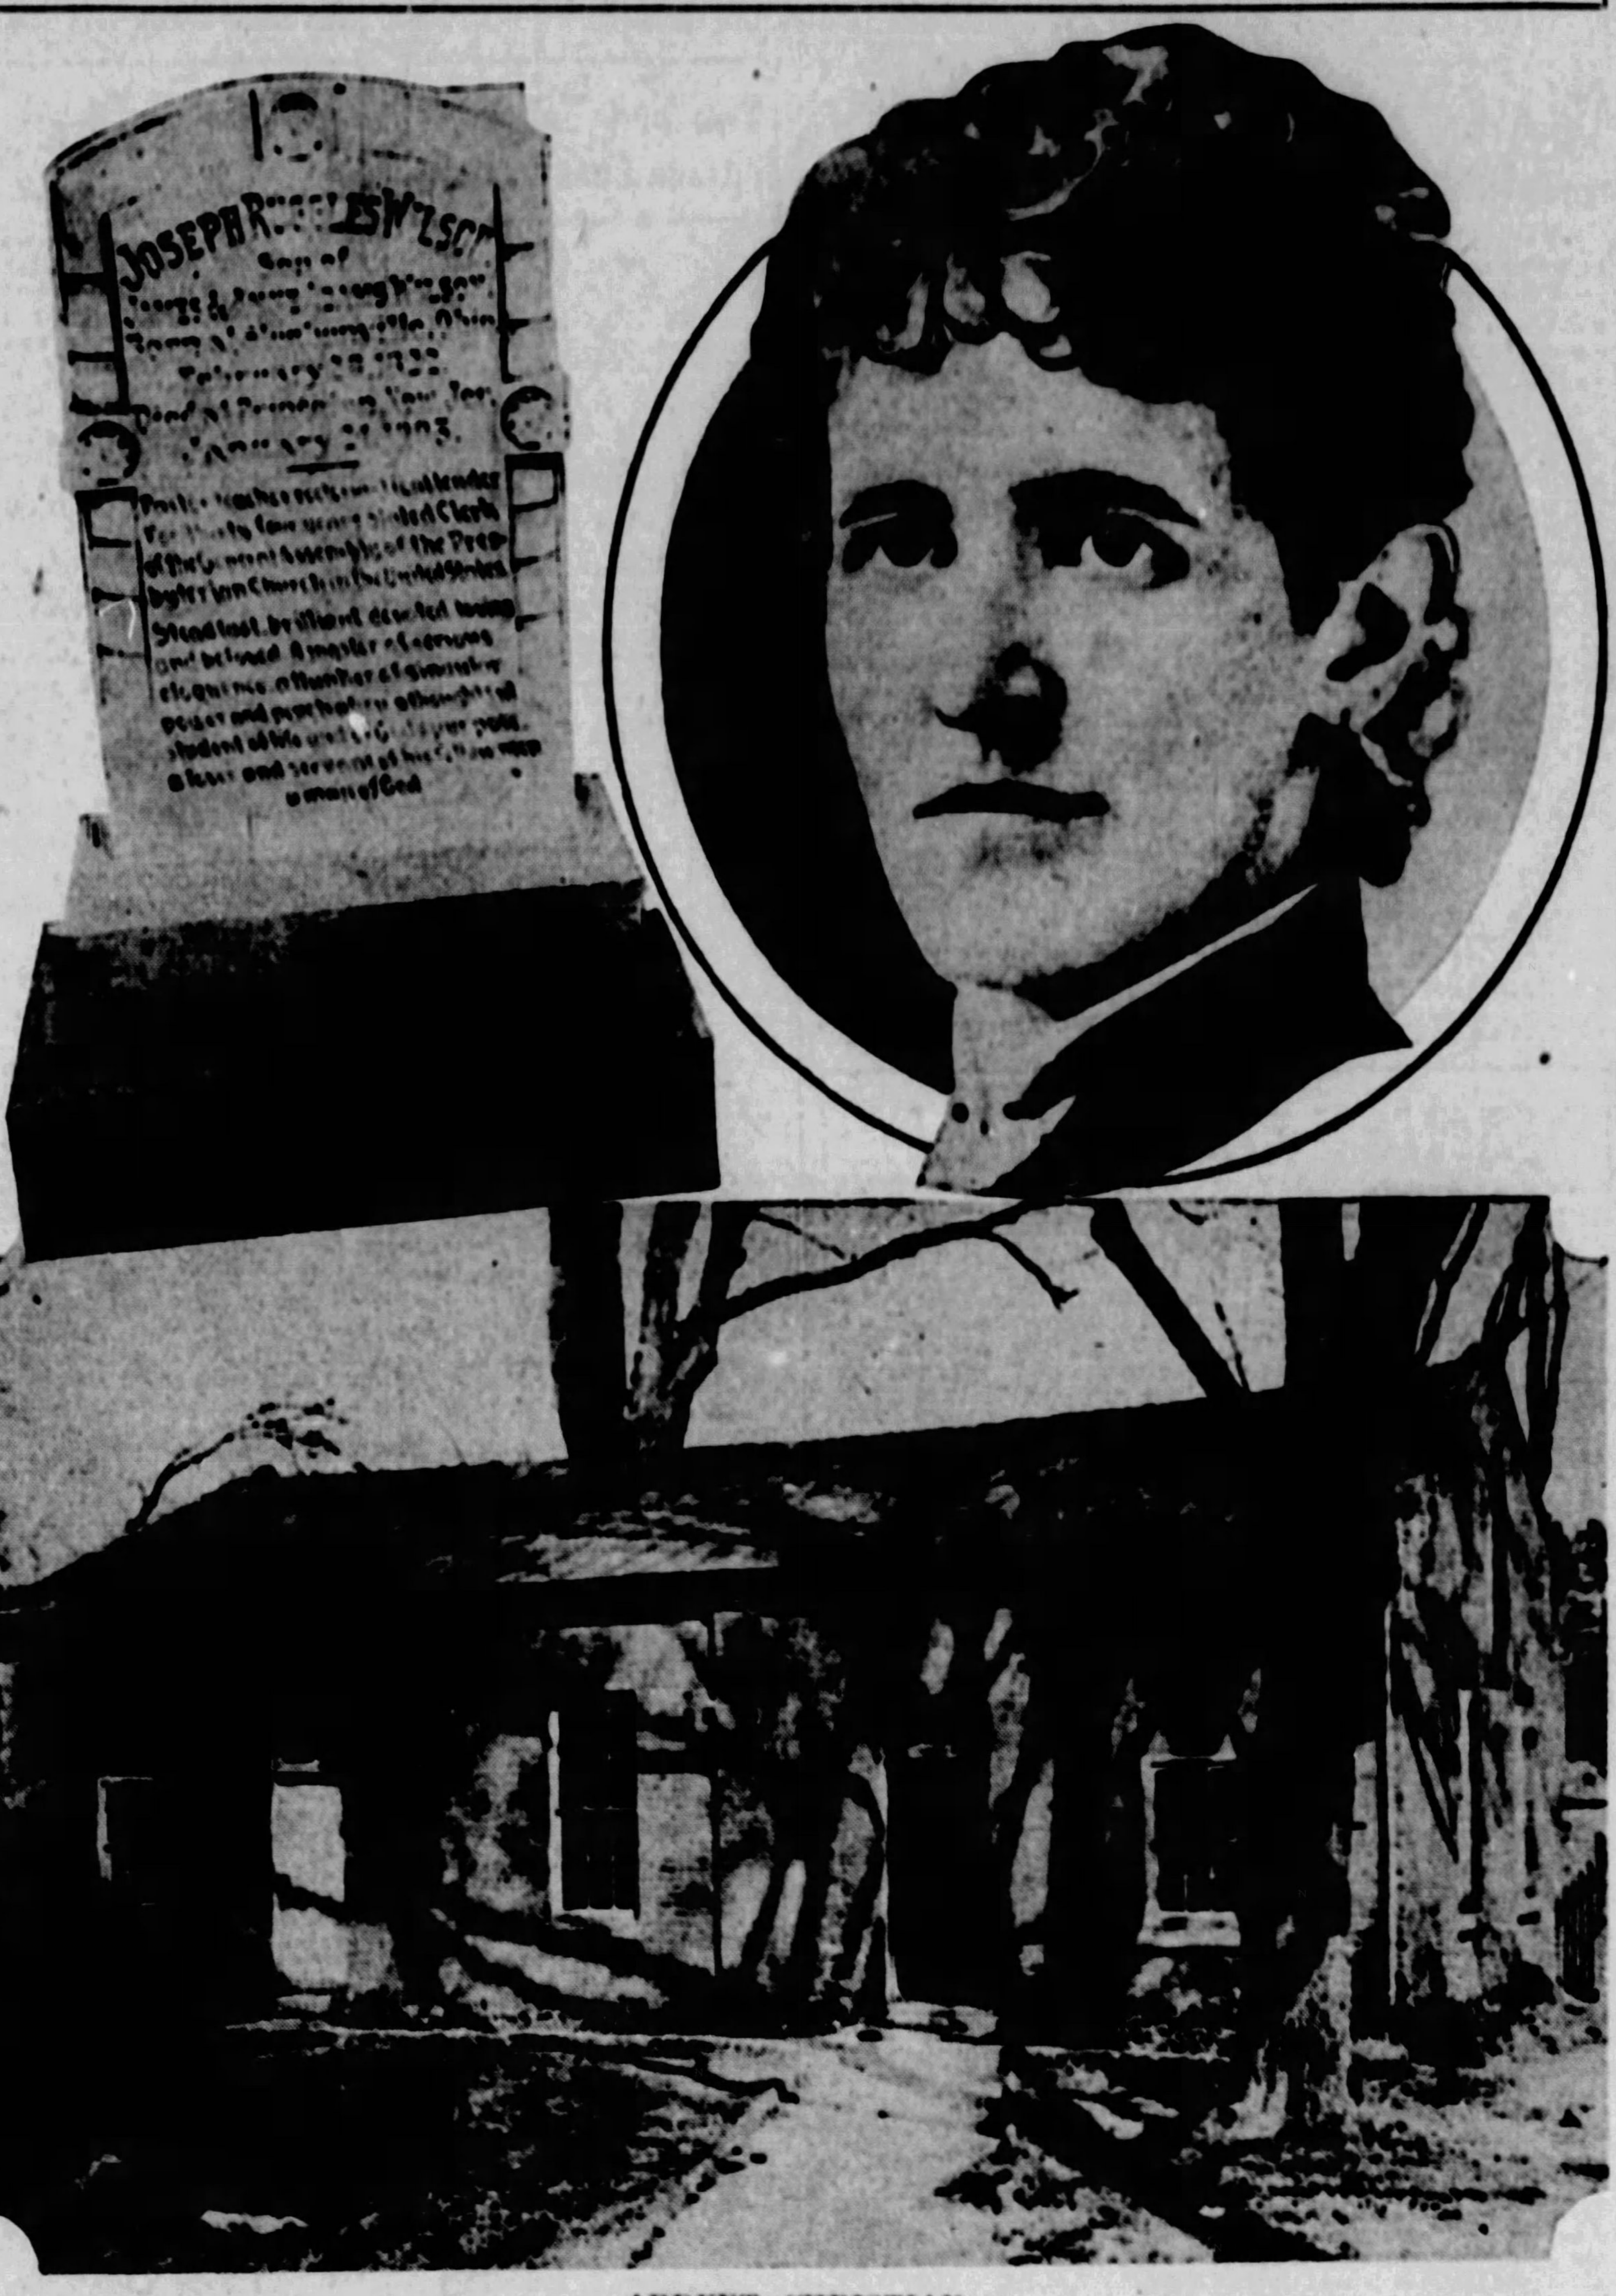
CHURCH ONE OF WILSON'S CHIEF INTERESTS



ARDENT CHRISTIAN

Below is the old stable at Columbia, S. C., in which Wilson and a group of students established their own "meeting house" for prayer, reflection and discussion of religion. It was about this time that the young Wilson begun his life-time custom of kneeling prayer. Here, too, he developed the respect for religious teachings which caused him later to call the Bible the "Magna Charta of the human soul." Above (left) is the tombstone of his father, Joseph Ruggles Wilson. It's inscription conveys again the importance of his influence on the life of the War President. Above (right) is Woodrow Wilson's favorite sister, Mrs. Annie Howe, who lies buried beside her mother and father in the Columbia Presbyterian Cemetery.

'MARGARET' TOOK PISTOL, 'DAVE' HAS IT, 'ALFONSE' WANTS IT, NOTES SAY

A letter seeking the return of a gun, was the chief exhibit in the divorce suit of David Walsh, Pittsburgh policeman, against Margaret Walsh, charged with infidelity, heard before Judge Joseph M. Swearingen yesterday.

Walsh said he found the letter among his wife's effects. It reads:

"Dear Margaret:—

"I want you to give me the gun back that you took from my room. If you don't give it back will report the matter to the police.

"Alfonse."

On the back of the sheet, indicating Margaret had passed the letter on, was the following:

"Dave:—

"Give me back that gun that I gave you or else he is going to make trouble. You can leave it at my room, 721 Forbes street.

"Margaret."

SEALS LIPS IN COURT

LILLIAN GISH

The demure film actress answered not a word when attorneys for Charles H. Duell, once her suitor, questioned her in a deposition hearing in Los Angeles in connection with Duell's suit against her charging breach of contract and asking $5,000,000 damages. The judge took Miss Gish's adamant silence under advisement. She contended that New York courts had already disposed—in her favor—of all the issues in the case.

Bad Breath Is Not Hard to Overcome

IT is not necessary to read the clever advertising of the day to know how unpleasant and damaging are the effects of a bad breath. There is no doubt of the social and business handicap of its victim.

What are the causes of this disagreeable symptom?

Nose, teeth, tongue, tonsils, digestive organs — to one or more of these structures the trouble may be traced. Let us consider them in order.

The inside of the nose is an irregular cavity into which open other cavities, known as "nasal sinuses." These are spaces in the bones of the face—under the cheeks, over the eyes and at the base of the nose.

The nose and sinuses are lined with mucous membranes. The openings are small, and swelling of the lining membrane may prevent the passage of the mucous into the nose. What happens then? It dams up in the cavities and becomes a fermenting and ill-smelling mess. The foul substance oozes into the nasal cavity and, of course, taints the breath.

The tongue has a rough surface. It is capable of holding food and mouth secretions. These may accumulate on the back of of the tongue, spoil and ferment. Many a bad breath comes from an unclean tongue.

I need not tell you how many persons have decayed teeth, festering gums and discharging dental abscesses. Between the teeth may be crowded masses of decaying meat and other foods. No wonder the breath is foul in consequence.

The tonsils have "pockets," sometimes very deep cavities. Food may find its way into them, or the natural secretions of the lining membrane may dam up in the pockets. Disintegration and decay follow. Is it not natural to expect that the bad odors may be carried by the breath?

Many a man abuses his stomach. He eats and drinks what he should not and when he should not. Overeating, eating bad food, or going without the necessary foods—all these are factors in stomach fermentation.

Wrong eating, wrong habits, neglect—these may end in constipation. Bacterial infection causes fermentation in the lower bowel. Gases and bad odors find their way back through the intestines to the stomach, ready to be belched from the mouth in a rush of foul air. Lack of water to drink prevents the dissolving of the body poisons so they may be disposed of by skin, kidneys and intestines. Water starvation may be responsible for a bad breath.

To have a sweet breath you must be free from nasal catarrh in all its forms. You must scrape your tongue as regularly as you brush your teeth. Regular visits to the dentist, cleansing of the tonsils and proper eating and drinking habits—with these you may hope to avoid foul breath.

Exercise, fresh air, sunlight, plenty of sleep and deep breathing, are other requirements for the healthy organs which will insure sweetness of the breath. Be governed by common sense!

Answers to Health Queries

O. J. Q.—Kindly advise me if a very bad case of osteomyelitis, after being taken care of and all dead bone removed, could ever return?

A.—Not as a rule.

* * *

F. G. Q.—I am subject to chills after a day's work. I am afraid to go out in the evening on account of this. What causes it?

A.—A physical examination is necessary to determine the cause of this trouble.

Crusader Fashion

When knighthood was in flower the crusaders fared forth in shirts of finely woven mail. Today that ancient style has inspired designers to create jumpers that are split at the sides, like the old garments of metallic woolens, with silver threads forming horizontal stripes. Fitted sleeves, of solid tone woolen fabric or satin, match the shirts that complete these smart sports suits.

Jelly Protection

A jelly should be covered with paper or butter muslin as soon as it is made. Nothing absorbs germs from the atmosphere more readily than a jelly—hence the precaution.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

WHAT PRICE GLORIOUS FAILURES?

"MARRIAGE is a failure!" says the Modernist.

* * *

Marriage as a social institution, is losing out, he declares.

* * *

In the union of the future, the only ties that will bind will be the ties of the heart, the conscience and the spirit.

* * *

* * *

* * *

But there is a world of weight and significance in the wedding certificate—that little piece of cream-colored parchment with the fancy gold lettering, which we sign so tremblingly, and then tuck away in the top of the cedar closet—but never quite forget!

HELEN ROWLAND

* * *

There is an ocean of meaning in that assurance of permanency—that "till death do us part" feeling, that "forever and forever" idea.

* * *

Of course, modern marriages don't last forever; but at least you enter them believing that they will.

* * *

What vital interest are two people going to take in making and building—and owning a home, if they know at the start that they are only "leased" to each other?

* * *

What joy will a man have in giving up good cigars, or a girl feel in making over her old hats in order to pay off the installments on the furniture, if either of them can pack his grip and walk out of the house, next week, or next day, or the next minute?

* * *

What comfort will a woman find in embroidering J. B. G.'s initials all over the dinner napkins and guest-towels, if there is a chance that she may have to rip them out a season or so later and replace them with H. P. C.'s monogram?

* * *

Where will be the incentive to do without matinees and bonbons and opera tickets, in order to buy solid silver spoons—if there is a chance that the "marriage" may not outlast triple-plate?

* * *

Why bother to get accustomed to all a man's little pet habits, or to learn to cook a steak in his favorite way—if there is a possibility that you may have to adjust yourself to another set of idiosyncrasies and learn to make a lamb-stew a few years hence?

* * *

Why trouble to study a woman's moods and tenses, and to adjust yourself to her ways and temperament—if you are likely to be readjusting yourself to another set of nerves some day?

* * *

Why try to understand Milton and Spencer and Freud to please Highbrow Harold, when you may have to learn to like the comic strips and the Follies, in order to please some future Lowbrow Larry?

* * *

No, no, no! After all, it is that "till-death-do-us-part" feeling which gives us the sublime courage to face all the sacrifices that living with another human being demands!

* * *

The little marriage certificate may give you that "tired feeling."

* * *

But it also gives you that "settled feeling," that helps and inspires you to "carry on."

* * *

* * *

Well—maybe it is.

* * *

But, now as ever, "better a glorious failure" than an indifferent success!

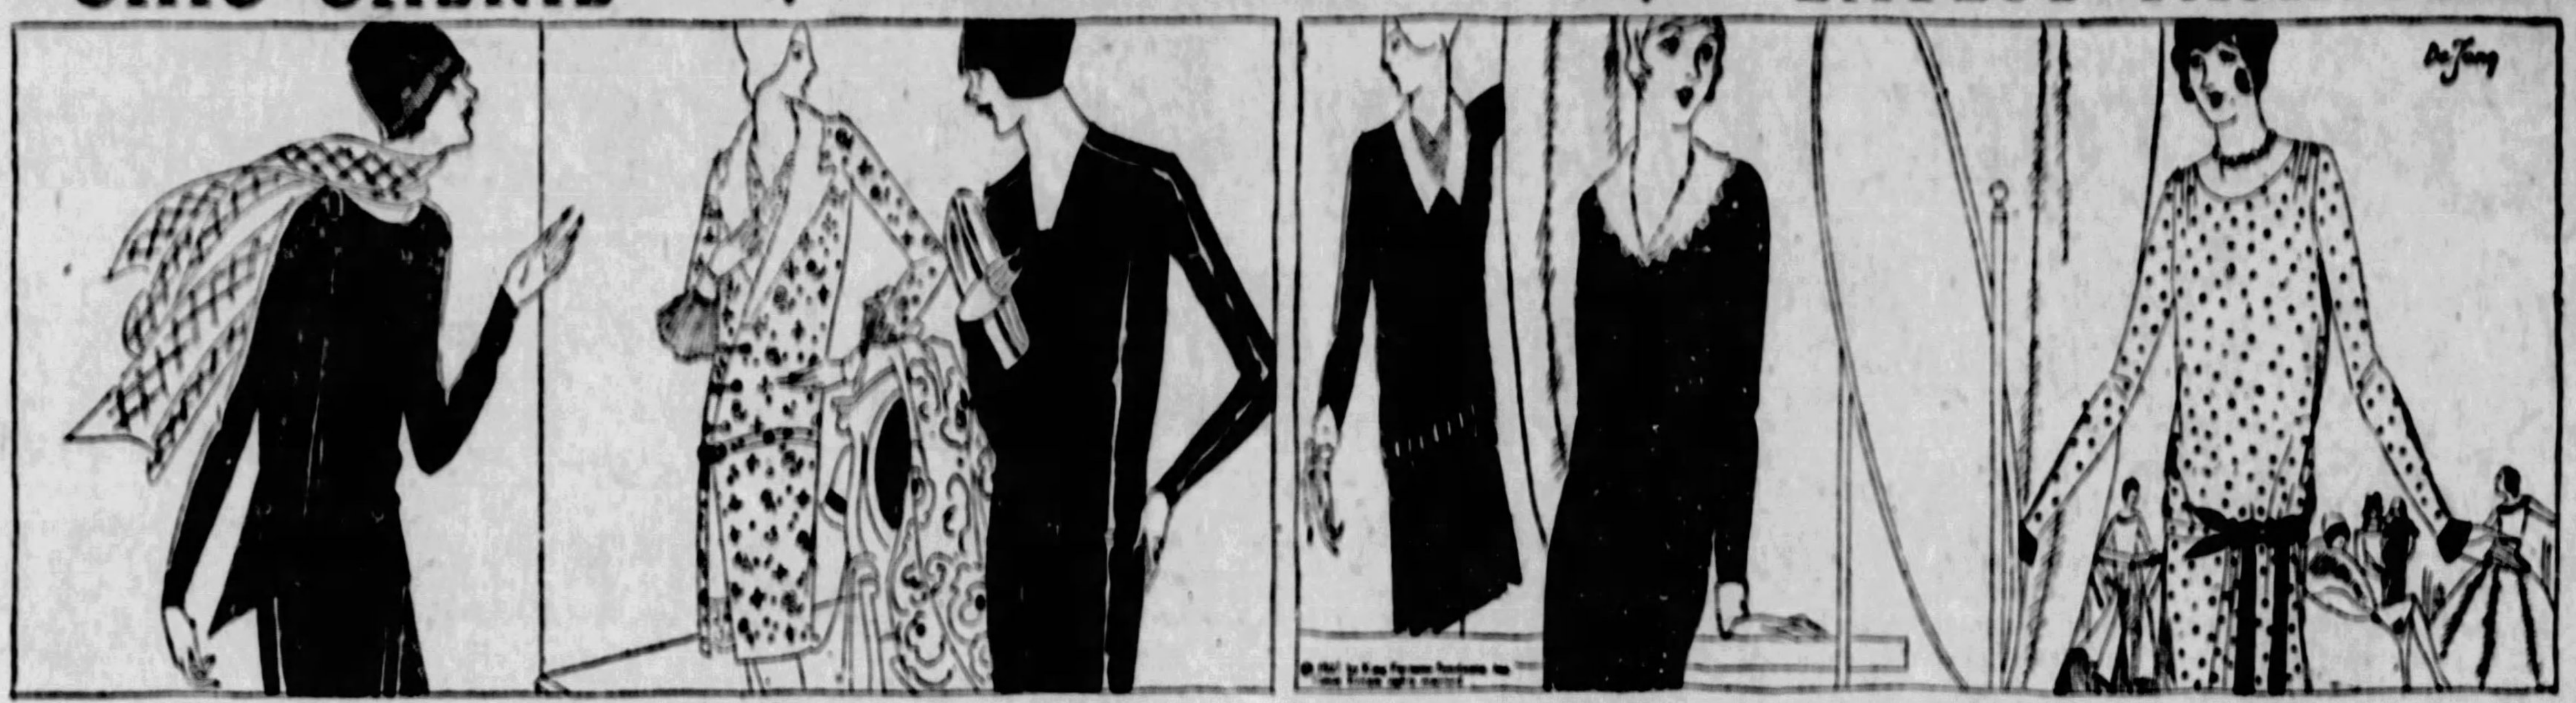
CHIC CHERIE ⁂ Seems to Be a Tie. ⁂ LATEST FASHIONS



No, it is not a negligee in the window. It is one of the smartest of Fall frocks, being made of the newest velvet of all—velvet printed with tiny flowers and set off with just the right amount of beige ermine, old lace and beige chiffon frills. Cherie and Dina have met quite by chance in front of this entrancing frock. You'll notice that Cherie's satin frock is trimmed with scallops, is a two-piece model and is finished with a belt and shoulder buckle of old gold. Dina's satin dress is interesting for its slanting lines and for the panel of fine pleats on the right-hand side of the trim skirt.

They each told such a good story, too! They parted in haste, walked in the side doors and now are face to face—each in the very act of trying on a printed velvet frock. The model (to the left) wears a navy blue, white dotted velvet trimmed with white fur. Cherie is prinking in a black and white velvet with a wide girdle made of narrow tucks. Dina's printed velvet has a half belt of knotted velvet ribbon. All of which goes to prove that printed velvet is the newest of Fall fabrics and although Cherie and Dina are polite, that it's a sad world in which one can't even beat one's best friend to a new style!

Milady Beautiful

By LOIS LEEDS

POLISH THE NAIL

DEAR MISS LEEDS—(1) I am 15 years old, five feet three inches tall and weigh 91 pounds. How much underweight am I? (2) I am only a girl and have no false ideas about being grown up, but I delight in the use of creams, etc., which I do not need. Will these harm my skin? (3) Please tell me just how to manicure my nails. (4) Please give an inexpensive method of bleaching tanned skin. (5) What will take freckles off my nose? (6) The veins on my hands stand up terribly. Can this be cured? My hands are never white, even in winter, when the summer tan is gone. What shall I do? (7) I have read that the hair needs sun baths and yet that the sunlight tends to bleach and coarsen the hair. Which is correct?

DOTTY (Minus) DIMPLES.

Answer—(1) You are about 14 pounds under weight. (2) If you use a good brand of cream it will not hurt your skin if you are careful to wipe it off after it has accomplished its purpose. The average facial cream is good for softening the skin and removing grime, but it also tends to make the pores relax unless an astringent is used afterward. If you apply oily substances to your skin when it already has enough natural oil the pores are likely to become clogged and enlarged. I suggest that you confine yourself to the use of a pure cleansing cream, a skin lotion made of equal parts of rosewater and glycerine with a dash of your favorite perfume in it, and a weekly buttermilk-and-cornmeal bleaching pack to lighten the tan and freckles. (3) Soak your finger tips in warm, soapy water for 10 minutes to soften the cuticle and the nails. Gently push down the former with the blunt end of an orangewood stick. Trim the nails with manicure scissors, then file them smooth with an emory board, using first the coarse sanded surface and then the finer, reverse side. Clean under the free ends of the nails with the sharp end of the orange-wood stick and then file off any rough edges that remain with a fine steel nail file. Polish the nails next, then rinse them off, dry and polish again with the buffer. It is a good plan to rub a little cold cream into the finger tips at bedtime to keep the skin from becoming horny around the corners. (4) and (5) Use the buttermilk and cornmeal pack. There are a number of bleaching recipes in my leaflet on "Complexion Ills" which I shall be glad to send you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (6) The veins are prominent because your hands are too thin. When your weight is brought up to about 115 pounds your hands will look better. Massage a little food cream into the skin every night. (7) The hair and scalp need sun baths of about 10 minutes' duration. Long exposure to hot sunlight bleaches and dries the hair. Like many another beneficient agency, sunshine should be used with moderation. People who go without hats all summer are likely to have streaked hair. Give your hair its sun bath when you are drying it after a shampoo.

LOIS LEEDS.

Do-Do—Please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflets on "Care of Dry Complexions" and "Care of the Hair." The latter describes the hot oil treatment that you should use. Buttermilk is a bleach and is good for the skin. You should cleanse your face with cold cream in place of soap and water. When writing again, ask also for "Complexion Ills" and "Beautiful Features," which give suggestions for getting rid of blackheads and dark circles under the eyes.

Happiness Money Can't Buy

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

EVERY now and then I receive an indignant letter from some girl, claiming that modern young men are shieks and neckers, without respect for women.

These correspondents usually claim that the only young men who have a vestige of courtesy and deference in their attitude towards girls, are men who happen to be uninteresting and unattractive.

Not long ago, I printed a letter of this type. Now comes the following comment from "Sylvia."

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I have just finished reading your article entitled, 'How About Dumb Dates?'"

"About a year ago, a young man came to work in the offices where I am employed. Before he had been there a week, every girl had him down as a sap and woman-hater.

"At a dinner given by the firm a few months later, he arrived alone. During the course of the evening, we became quite sociable, with the result that he asked permission to call.

"He did so the following week, and we spent the evening getting acquainted with one another's interest in the world going on around us. When he left that evening he did not attempt to maul me, nor in any other way did he attempt to be the modern mad-man.

"As time passed, I discovered his means would not permit expensive evenings. This really brought us closer together.

"The result is, we are engaged, and are both striving and saving for a home of our own. We forego many good times because they are beyond our means. But oh, how happy we are!

"The reason I write this, is to show that it does not require a long purse, with petting and mauling thrown in for good measure, to bring about good times, friendship and the engagements of a happy couple. If girls who look for a snappy dresser, with loose purse strings, and find that necking is the fee exacted, would turn to the studious man who must count his coins, they might find happiness that money cannot buy.

"I am hoping a portion of this letter may be printed in your column, as added proof that all young men are not insincere. I wish utmost success to your interesting articles.

"SYLVIA."

Thank you, Sylvia, dear, for your good letter.

Are all men insincere? The experience of thousands of girls and women, as sweethearts, wives and daughters, proves that the majority of men are not only sincere, but kind, dependable and lovable. Their chivalry may be lacking in the picturesque, but it consists in giving up a seat in the street car to a woman, in giving up Saturday afternoon to help a mother or wife about the house, to care for the children while she rests or shops, in carrying adequate life insurance wisely arranged to protect the future of women dependent on them, in a thousand unassuming, homely acts of devotion.

Men are not perfect. If they were they would be poor life-partners for women, since we women also are most imperfect. But hundreds of thousands of happy wives are grateful for the sincerity and wisdom and unselfish devotion of men.

A girl who is out for gay times, expensive treats, showy parties and cheap thrills, will attract naturally men who share their tastes. Such men, despite flashy, entertaining surface traits, are not always appreciative, reliable and kind. A self-absorbed, uninteresting girl may fail to attract young men of any type.

Sylvia, as her letter shows, has had the good sense to appreciate real values and choose a husband wisely, so she is looking forward happily to a home of her own with the man she loves.

She pays a price for her success. She will not be able to indulge in extravagance and luxuries—at least not unless her husband meets with unexpected financial success. She and her man will have to work hard, face responsibilities, practice thrift and economy. But in return for this price of mutual unselfish devotion and hard work they are experiencing and will doubtless experience more and more joy far more precious than anything money can buy.

don't fool yourself

A tip for office workers

What kind of people do employers like to have around them?

Certainly not people with Halitosis (unpleasant breath). You couldn't blame a man for firing an employee with Halitosis to hire one without it. Why not keep yourself continually on the safe and polite side by daily rinsing the mouth with Listerine, the safe antiseptic?

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

SALLY JEROME, pretty and clever, is the mainstay of her family in the absence of her father, who does not live with her mother. MRS. JEROME enjoys poor health, so Sally does the house work mornings and office work for Mr. Peevey down town afternoons. Her brother, BEAU, and sister, MILLIE, give little toward the support of the home, and the financial burden falls on Sally. In the flat below the Jeromes lives TED SLOAN, who wants Sally to marry him and keep on working. But the only man who interests her is JOHN NYE, whose real estate office is across the hall from Mr. Peevey's. Millie is Nye's secretary, and he is infatuated with her. She delights in making him jealous with her flirtations, particularly one that she is carrying on with a bond salesman named DAVIDSON. Davidson secretly admires Sally, who will have nothing to do with him. Sally goes into business with Aunt Em, but it does not thrive, although the food is delicious and the place is beautiful and comfortable. Finally Aunt Emily hires a jazz orchestra in one last effort to make her restaurant popular, although she disapproves of jazz. But "The Lark," a nearby roadhouse, takes away the business, and Aunt Em and Sally are in despair. The family all move in, to make matters worse. When things look very black, John Nye comes out and offers Sally a job with him, but Millie tells her he really came to see herself. Sally turns him down, and decides to stick to Aunt Em. She and Ted Sloan hit upon the idea of doing some exhibition dancing to see if that will draw the crowds. Sally is a marvelous dancer. She wins immediate favor.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

SHE was slowly putting John Nye out of her brain and heart, she told herself. But the thought of him was still too strong to make way for Ted Sloan's image. She liked him—but not well enough to follow him out into the springtime darkness to give him the kisses that she knew he meant to have, if he could take them.

"See you tomorrow night," she said, and just barely touched his hand as he passed her.

And then our Masked Dancer went upstairs, changed her clothes, and came downstairs to help Aunt Em wash dishes until midnight.

For the next week or so there was no increase in the business.

Then, gradually, people began to hear about the Masked Dancer at The House by the Side of the Road.

Beau, who was still working at the bank, told some of his "buddies" there about her, and they came. Mabel did a bit of advertising among the girls at Bursall's.

One night some people dropped in on their way back to town from The Lark, and the next night they came again.

Slowly, but surely, things began to get better. The dining room was not crowded every night, by any means, but it was often comfortably full. Aunt Em hired a dish washer and a piano player for the band.

Mrs. Jerome was with her the day she brought it home from town in Aunt Em's little car.

"Perfect nonsense to pay out that much money for a dress like that" she declared sourly, "especially when we all need new summer hats, and I ought to have an air cushion for my chair. I just wish you had to sit all day the way I do—and I bet you'd have an air cushion—"

"But, mother, we're spending my $30 a week, and Beau and Mabel and Millie are spending theirs—and they make more than that, every one of them!" broke in Sally, taking a corner beautifully. She was just learning to drive the car, and still kept her eye on the road. "We ought to get along on that, surely."

And then Mrs. Jerome threw her bomb. "I'm tired living with your Aunt Em," she said sulkily. "I want a home of my own again—and if you care a snap of your fingers about my happiness you'll see that we all get into one again."

CHAPTER XLVII.

IT ALWAYS made Sally utterly miserable to know that her mother was unhappy about anything.

She felt toward Mrs. Jerome as a doting parent might feel toward a child that was sickly and bad-tempered and hard to please. She pampered her and petted her, and let her have her own way whenever she could.

Her big, shadowy eyes were full of trouble now as she turned them upon her mother's discontented face.

"I thought you liked being here with Aunt Em, dear," she said, remembering how determined her mother had been about coming here.

Mrs. Jerome sighed and shook her head.

"I don't," she answered. "Your aunt makes me get up so early in the morning, and yesterday when she asked me to shell two bushels of green peas I just didn't know how I was going to do it—the smell of peas has always made me terribly sick to my stomach. I want to go back to my own home."

Sally's face, as she stopped the car and began to unload it, was very sober. "Well, Momsie," she said slowly and quietly, "I'll take another flat somewhere just as soon as I can. But I can't afford it right now."

"Of course you can afford it! The way you and your aunt are making money now!" she snapped, heavily lowering her proud body from the car. "Millie said this morning that you must be making a small fortune."

"We aren't," Sally was telling the truth. They were making more money than they had, but their expenses were heavier, too.

"Then how could you afford that costume you've got there?" her mother wanted to know, her doubting eyes on the brown paper bundle that was Sally's new dancing dress.

"Well, I couldn't, as I told you," Sally said bluntly. "But I had to have it. . . . That dance seems to help our business, somehow or other and the old costume was so shabby—"

"I don't believe anybody wants to see you dance," Mrs. Jerome cut in. "I think the business is picking up because it's summer time—and that's why you have more people out here. Who cares about seeing a girl shake her shoulders and her feet all around a room, anyway?"

Sally might have reminded her that a great many people had wanted to see girls dance. Girls like Irene Castle and Gilda Gray and the Duncan sisters, and Marilyn Miller had made neat fortunes out of "shaking their shoulders and their feet."

But she did not.

She set her lips and went on taking bags of lettuce-heads and baskets of fresh-killed chicken out of the back of the car.

Then she followed her mother silently into the house.

* * *

It began to dawn upon Sally that not only Mrs. Jerome, but the whole family thought that she and Aunt Emily were making a great deal of money.

Beau and Mabel began to talk about trading in their shaky little flame-colored roadster for a new car. "Sally can lend us some money and we can pay her back so much a week," Beau remarked easily one Sunday morning when they were all having breakfast together on the back porch.

Sally stared at him, wide-eyed with astonishment. "Lend you the money for a car!" she cried. "Ye gods, Beau, I'm still paying for that new blue costume of mine. I can't lend you any money."

Mabel giggled sharply. "People always get tight when they start making money!" she said. "The only generous people in the world are the people who can't afford to be generous."

Sally flushed. "I hope I won't be tight and stingy when I do start making money, Mabsy," she replied evenly. "But I'm not making any just now. Please believe me. Thirty dollars a week isn't a fortune, you know."

Millie seemed to make the same mistake.

She took to bringing Davy Davidson home with her two or three nights a week, and serving him with one of the $1.50 chicken dinners as nonchalantly as if it had been a hamburger sandwich.

"We aren't in this business for our health, Millicent," Aunt Em caught her up sharply one night after Davidson had gone. "And you'll have to pay for this man's dinners, or else tell him so, if he comes any more."

Millie looked daggers at her. "My goodness, Aunt Em, to begrudge a man the little bit of food that he eats here, when you're making all the money you are!" she said scornfully. "I should think you'd be glad to have him here—to help fill up your dining room and make it look as if it were the most popular place around here."

Aunt Em laughed without mirth. "He comes here to watch Sally, anyway," she remarked, "I've kept my eye on that gentleman and I know."

"Pooh! Millie was just as scornful as she was, and Sally backed her up in her scorn.

"You're all wrong, Aunt Em!" she declared hotly. "Davidson and Millie have been great friends for years. I scarcely know him."

But there came a night when Aunt Emily's suspicion was proved a well-founded one.

* * *

It was a warm, starry night late in June, and the House by the Side of the Road had done a record-breaking business.

At half past twelve Sally was counting over the money they had taken in when the front door opened and Millie and Davidson walked in.

They had spent the evening dancing at "The Lark," for Millie was getting even with Aunt Emily by refusing to step inside of the restaurant at home for a meal.

"Jiminy, but those dancers down at The Lark were wonderful!" she trilled tonight, in a voice loud enough to reach the ears of Aunt Emily, who had gone upstairs.

"Not half so good as Sally," Davidson added solemnly. His gray eyes were on Sally as she bent over the little table, sorting bills and quarters and half dollars.

She could feel them passing over her face, her neck and breast, and settling on the toes of her blue-and-silver slippers.

"Some feet, Sally," he said. "They sure do know how to shake a wicked measure. And your shoulders aren't so slow."

Sally flashed her brilliant smile at him, and went on counting: "Thirty-four — thirty-five—thirty-six—"

"Plenty of money you're taking in, aren't you?" asked Davidson.

It was Millie who answered him. "I'm going to quit my job if this keeps up," she giggled. "And go into the restaurant business myself. I'm getting awfully sick of the job I've got, anyway." She sighed deeply.

"You are!" she exclaimed. "Sick of working for—John Nye!"

For the thousandth time she wondered how little Millie could fail to be hopelessly, madly, deeply in love with John Nye. How she could waste a minute on a man like Davidson, when she was in close daily contact with the good-looking and altogether fascinating head of the "John Nye Real Estate Company."

Millie nodded, her shallow blue eyes shining under the pink brim of her hat. She looked coyly up at Davy Davidson.

"Maybe Davy will get me a place in the office where he's working now," she began, and then stopped short. For Davidson's cold gray eyes were still fixed on Sally, and there was no hint of coldness in them now. They were filled with unmistakable ardor and admiration.

"Sally," he said, quite as if no other person but himself and Sally were there in the wide, bright hall, "you certainly are a pippin!"

"What do you mean?" asked Sally, innocently. "Because I dance, or because I wait on table here, or what?"

She went on counting money. She did not expect Davidson to answer her idle, indifferent questions.

He didn't, either. For before he had time to think of an answer Millie had raised her voice in anger and complaint.

"Well, I like your brass, Mr. Brassington!" she blazed out at him. "If you're so crazy about Sally, why do you bother with me? You'd better face about and stir up the dust outside, I'm saying! Shut the door from the other side, and don't come back! Good night!"

And without a single backward glance she was up the stairs and out of sight. The sound of her sharp little heels sounded on the floor above as she went back and forth in her room, prepring for the night.

"My dear, the conCEIT of that PIPsqueak ARab actually knows no BOUNDS because you would HONestly have thought that after FAITHfully promising I and NOIsy he would produce a Rolls ROYCE, no less, for us to arrive at this HOUSE party in, he would be WHIPPED down to a NUB when we all had to sort of CRAM ourselves into this strange GO-cart effect drawn by this odd EQuinox that looked like NOTHing HUman! But not at ALL, my dear! You would HONestly have thought he was driving a FOUR-in-hand or something at this point the way he sort of PROUDly MOUNTed the BOX of this strange equipage and LOUDly announced there was ROOM for ALL, whereupon NOIsy made VIolent attempts to include himSELF on the front SEAT with Arab and I, my dear, and sort of disCOVered himself sitting HEAVily in this AIR—can you BEAR it? So after giving ARab one of the DIRTiest LOOKS I have ever beHELD, the odd soul enSCONCED himself in the GRUMble seat effect beHIND, sort of FIRMly clutching this odd little portMANteau of mine as a sort of SOUvenir or something! REALly, my dear, I was honestly all-of-a-TOT-and-JITtle at this point because the sitnAtion was comPLETEly out of conTROL, do you know what I mean?"

That Mysterious Miss Lincoln Looms on Noel Veritzen's Horizon

MRS. TICER stared at me open-mouthed, as I asked her if taking care of young Noel Veritzen was the problem which was bothering her and about which she wished to consult me.

"Sometimes I think you're a mind-reader," she said. "But I'm glad you spoke of it first, for some way I just didn't know how to get at it. You see, it's this way. I can manage taking care of his room and everything, and I can get his breakfast in the morning before I go—he always gets up early—and his dinner after I come home. But it's his lunch, in the middle of the day that's bothering me. There's nobody at home to get it. Now, here's a funny thing, you see what you think of it—"

She stopped and looked at me owlishly for a few second and then went on impressively.

"I told that Miss Lincoln I'd have to take time off to go down and get Mr. Veritzen's lunch, although it does take the best part of the working day right out of your time, and she said, no, to have him come up there for lunch with them every day. Do you know, that's an awful funny thing for anybody as stuck-up as her to propose, for Mr. Veritzen is a perfect stranger to her. But Jerry thinks she knows Mr. Veritzen."

"Knows Mr. Veritzen," I echoed, startled at last into interest over her long-winded tale.

She nodded her head vigorously. "Yes, there's something funny about it, I think. At that there's something queer about the whole family. There's one thing sure. That young woman rules the roost. That old uncle of hers bullies everybody else, his wife most of all, but he talks to the girl. And when she calls him, 'Uncle Henry,' he jumps as if he'd been shot. And then she always laughs and says something to him, in that outlandish tongue of hers. Then he spreads his hands and bows the way you see them foreigners doing it in the movies, sometimes. And the old lady, her aunt, just waits on the girl hand and foot. I didn't know them foreigners spoiled their girls like that, but I guess fools is fools, the same all over.

"The way I figure it out, this Miss Lincoln—say, I don't believe their name's Lincoln any more than mine's Washington. I just believe they took that name because they knew nobody could pronounce whatever outlandish one really belongs to them—but I figure this girl's seen young Mr. Veritzen and got mashed on him—that's what we used to say in our young days—they call it getting a yen on now, don't they?"

"I fancy they do," I said, smilingly, and then with the realization that I would have to seize the conversational rudder if I ever were to find out what my garrulous neighbor really wanted, I put the question:

"Do you think Miss Lincoln and Mr. Veritzen were acquainted before the family moved down here?"

"Oh, I don't think he knows her at all," she answered. "But come out to Jerry. He knows more about that part of it than I do. I got it from him."

Thoroughly mystified, I walked with her back through the kitchen to the rear veranda where stood Jerry talking with Mary, who, with the ravenous appetite which has been hers since her illness, had come down to the kitchen for a surreptitious snack before appearing on the front veranda where young Mr. Veritzen was waiting for her. Both Mary and Marion Morton, Lillian's young daughter, have wonderful childish memories of Jerry Ticer, who as a tall, awkward, but delightful boy served them so faithfully. They are always as glad to see him as he is to welcome them back to their old playground.

"I was just telling Mary," Jerry said, as he entered the kitchen—never as long as he lives will it enter Jerry's head to call either of the girl's anything but the names by which he accosted them when they were children together—"that she'd better keep an eye on her beau. That Miss Lincoln's sure going to try to get him away from her."

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Thursday, September 29

The stars are images of Love.—BAILEY.

UNDER the gracious rule of the Love Star, Venus, in friendly Solar and Lunar aspect, a happy and generally pleasant state of affairs may be looked for rather than a lively one in commercial matters. Yet, in all that concerns women and the home or their activities, progress or service, there is propitious rule. But be careful in finances and letters.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a pleasant and happy year, with home and heart affairs thriving as well as those activities devoted to the comfort or embellishment of home and women.

A child born on this day should be accomplished and popular, although perhaps restless and erratic. It should be schooled in thrift and responsibility.

The figure contained 72 triangles. To guess 72, exceptional; 70-75, very good; 60-65, good; 50-90, average; 40-100, fair; less than 35 or more than 105, poor.

FOR THE LOVELORN

A Lady Bus Driver

DEAR MISS GALE:

Will you permit me to say a few words to "A Decent Fellow?" "Decent Fellow," I agree with you in every way. I sometimes, wonder too, why girls indulge in such things as smoking, drinking and petting. Now, I am not old-fashioned, but some people say I'm queer. Yes, they may be right because my work is queer for a lady. "Decent Fellow" stick to your ideas." Thanking you, Miss Gale, I am,

A LADY BUS DRIVER.

I am glad you agree with "A Decent Fellow," my dear.

Gay Marie

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have been reading your column for a long time and I think you give excellent advice, so I have come for some. I am a girl in the early teens, am considered good looking and am popular with both sexes. I agree with all of your questions only see no harm in a kiss. Miss Gale, I like a boy and he used to like me, but lately he hasn't been paying much attention to me. How can I gain his friendship? When a boy takes a girl home should she ask him in? If so, how should she entertain him? How can I get a certain boy to take me out?

GAY MARIE.

If this boy liked you once and has turned against you, there is nothing you can do about it, my dear. A girl should not invite a boy in the house after a party, but if it is quite early, say before 10 o'clock, it is all right to ask him to come in for a few moments. Entertain him by talking with him or having some music. There is no way to make this boy take you out unless you win his friendship through being friendly and interested in him.

SABBATH SCHOOL MEETING ENDS

Closing sessions of the thirty-eighth annual convention of the Allegheny County Sabbath School Association were held today in the First Presbyterian Church, McKeesport. Officers, elected yesterday, presided. They are: John W. Vickerman, elected president despite his request that he be permitted to retire; the Rev. Dr. J. Kirkwood Craig, of Indianapolis, general secretary, succeeding the late George W. Penniman; Henry E. Cole, Charles R. Rall and Charles H. Lehman, vice presidents, re-elected; H. E. Carmack, recording secretary, re-elected, and George T. Marshall, treasurer, re-elected. All the former directors were re-elected.

A 100 per cent pennant was awarded District No. 28, made up of Penn and Plum townships, in which there are nine Sunday schools. This district is the first ever to have a home department in every school.

CARS REROUTED WITHOUT CONFUSION

Little confusion resulted, street car officials said today, from the rerouting of cars through the downtown section, effective yesterday. The rerouting was accomplished under the direction of Traffic Engineer Burton W. Marsh and was made possible by the completion of the widening of Grant street. Among the numerous advantages of the change are the bringing of South Hills cars entirely through the triangle to Seventh avenue instead of only to Third avenue as formerly, and the elimination of many street car turns at badly congested corners.

The changes in routing are:

Routes No. 38 Mt. Lebanon, 39 Brookline, 40 Mt. Washington, 41 [illegible], 42 [illegible] and 48 Arlington Avenue are operated over Smithfield street, to Seventh avenue, to Grant street, to Water street, to Smithfield Street Bridge.

Routes No. 37 Castle Shannon, 46 Brownsville avenue, 47 McKinley avenue, 49 Beltzhoover, 50 Carson-Butler and the Washington and Charleroi interurban are operated via Water street, to Grant street, to Liberty avenue, returning to the South Side via Wood street, Water street and over Smithfield Street Bridge.

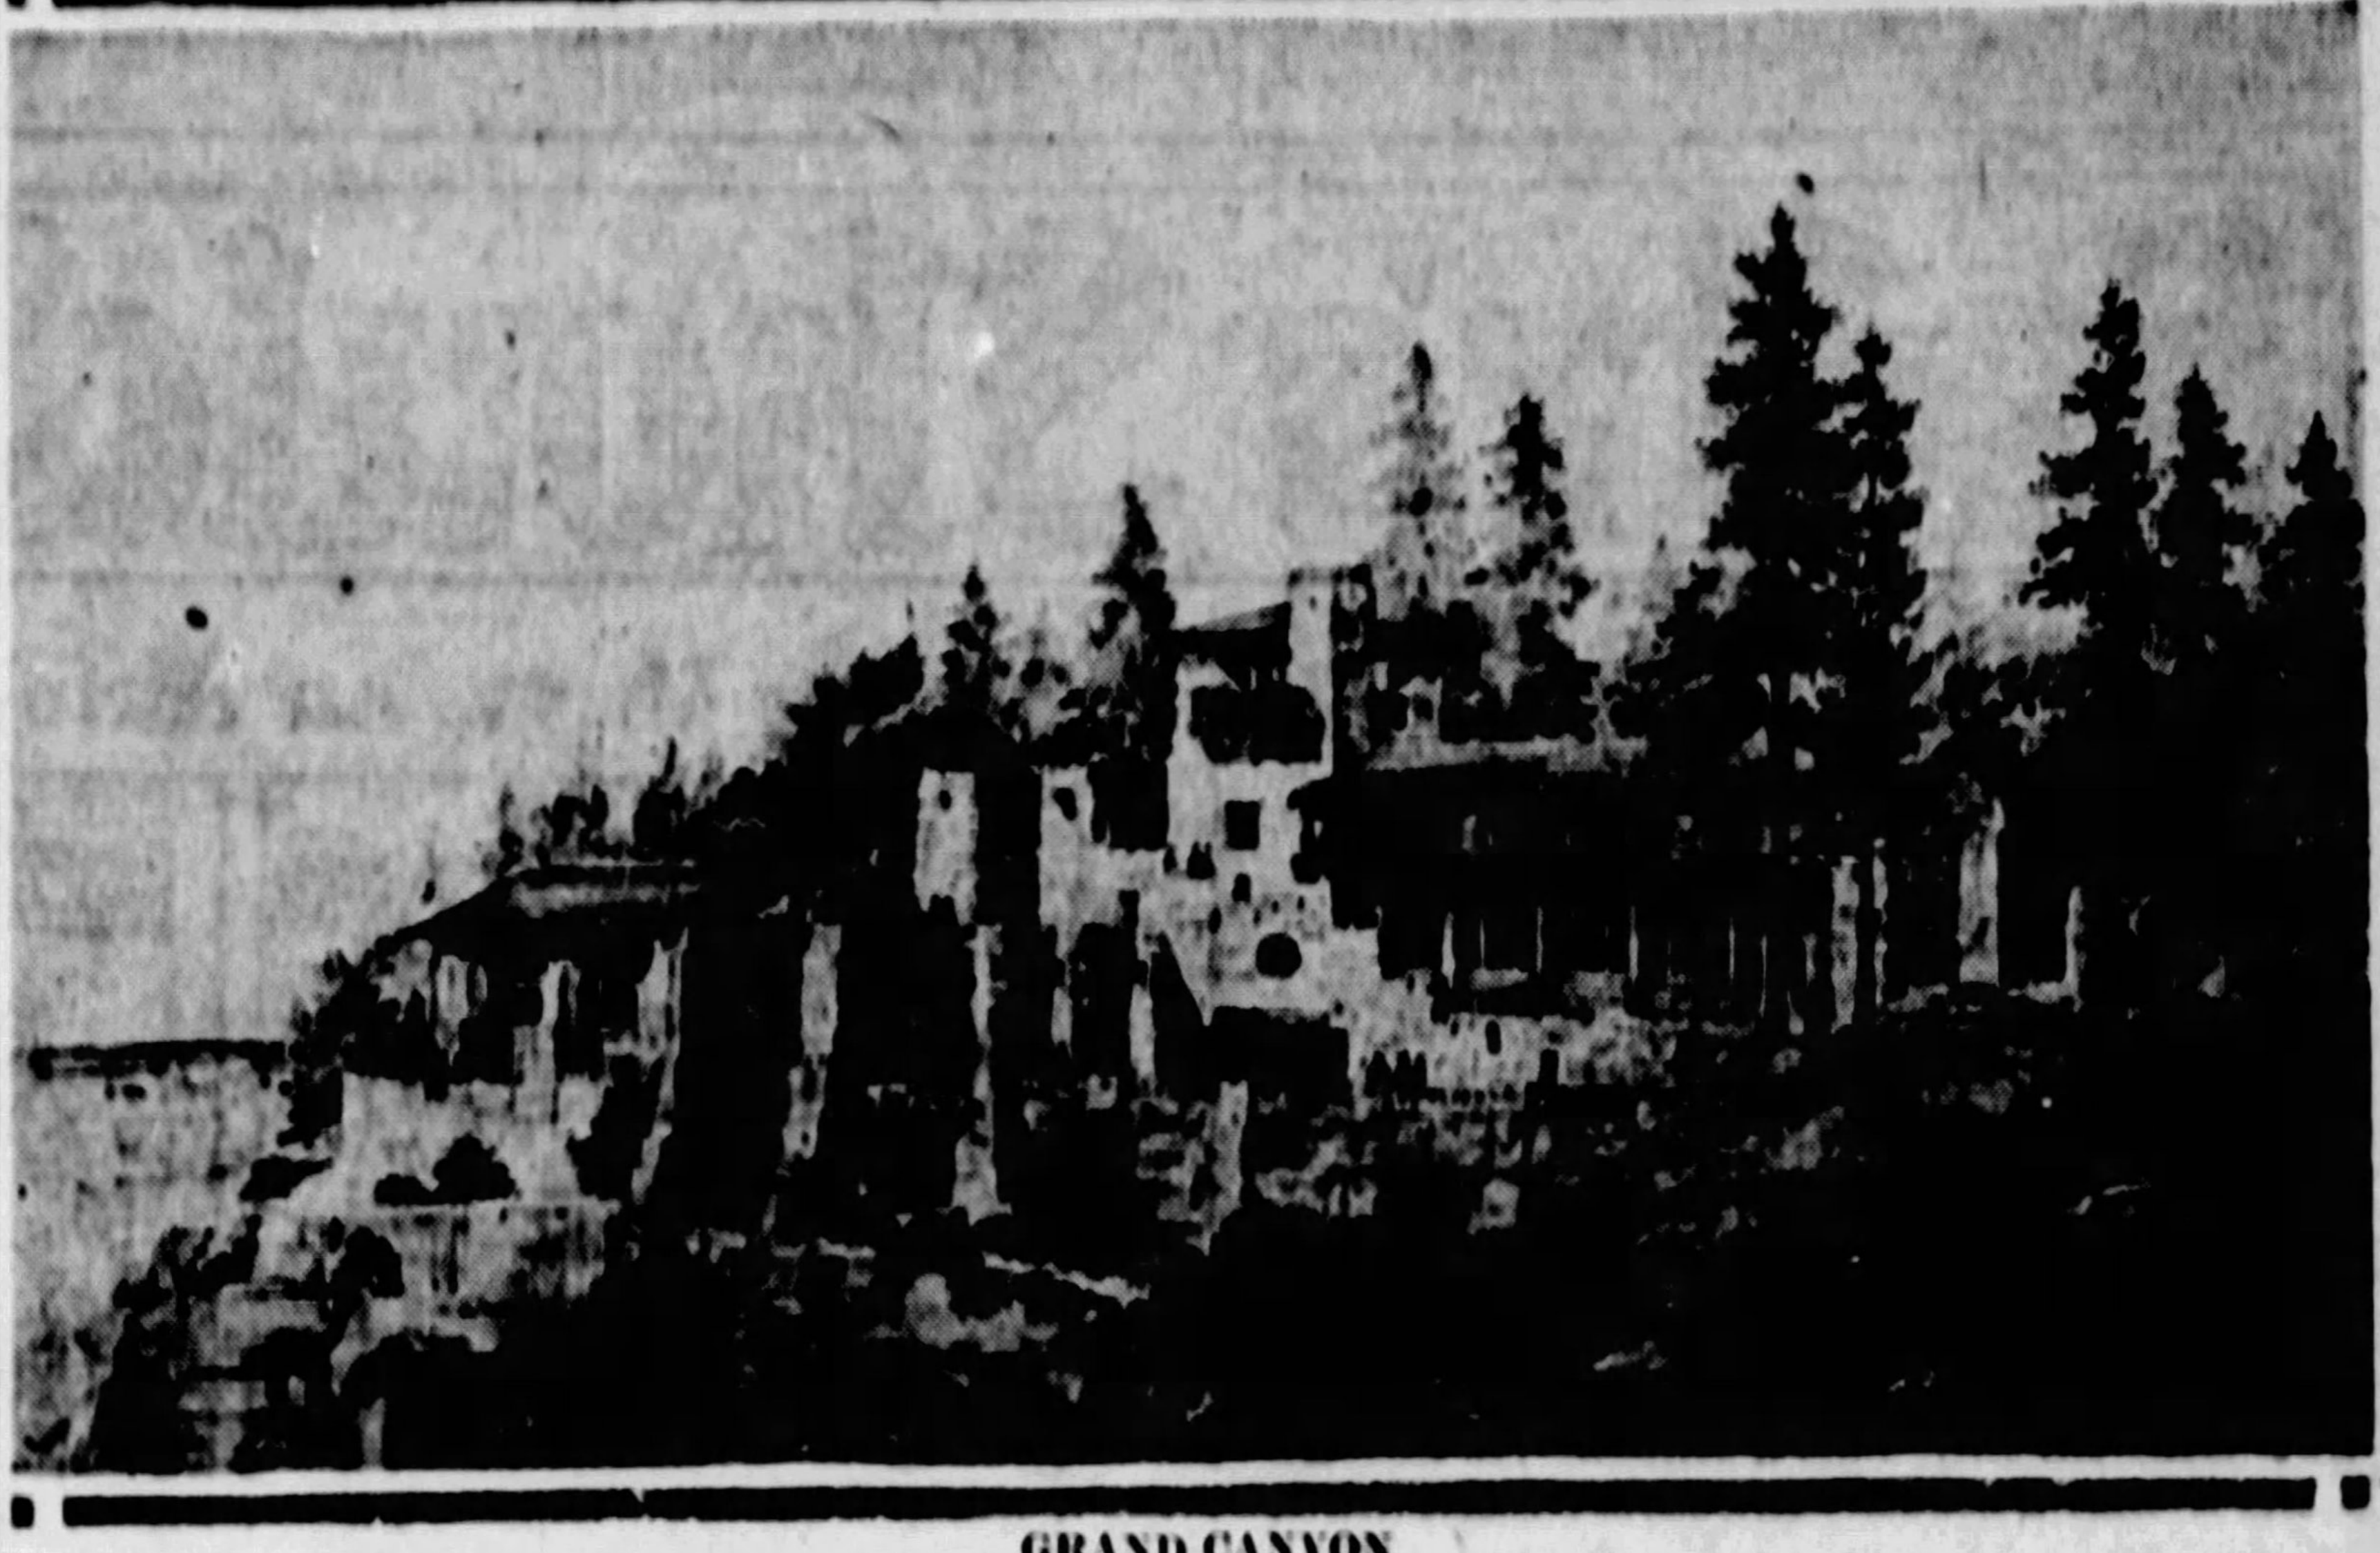
The Lincoln Avenue line continues down Fifth avenue to Liberty avenue, making the same loop as the Wylie-Bedford line instead of turning at Smithfield street as at present.

Routes No. 55 Homestead-East Pittsburgh, 56 McKeesport and 57 Glenwood uses the Diamond street, Ferry street, Fourth avenue loop instead of using Third avenue to Smithfield street as they are now doing.

BRINGING NATURE TO THE TOURIST



GRAND CANYON

With the opening of the Grand Canyon Lodge by the Union Pacific Railroad at Grand Canyon National Park, new scenic wonders are offered to the western tourist. Construction of the lodge, shown above, will be completed in time for the 1928 tourist season, it has been announced. The new lodge overlooks the north rim of the canyon. It includes a recreation room, store, lounge, dining room and other conveniences and comforts. The structure extends over the sloping edge of the canyon in such fashion that the different rooms will have floor elevations of varying heights.

player if he weren't so damned lazy!"

But Tommy Wilson was not lazy. He was somewhat delicate in health and his interests were intellectual, not physical. He had been poorly prepared for college and though the requirements were not severe, he was conditioned in ancient geography and Cicero and entered his mathematics and Greek classes on probation. He was thus under heavy pressure to make up his work. The end of the year found him near a physical breakdown.

Here at Davidson, as at other institutions which he attended, Wilson made only an average record in his studies, not the worst, but not the best. The original records of Davidson of the term ending December 22, 1873, show that "T. W. Wilson" had the following standings:

Logic and Rhetoric	95
Greek	87
Latin	90
Mathematics	74
Composition	96
Declamation	92
Deportment	100

For the second term report, on June 25, 1874, his standing was as follows:

English	97
Greek	88
Latin	94
Mathematics	88
Composition	95
Declamation	92
Deportment	100

It will be seen that here, as at other times in his college work, he was lowest in mathematics and highest in composition and English.

The life at Davidson, in those years, was decidedly primitive. The boys had to cut their own wood to keep their fireplaces going, and bring their own water. But expenses were low and the number of boys paying their own way was large.

At Davidson, as later at Princeton and the University of Virginia, Wilson's real interest was in debating societies, and in studying subjects either outside of the curriculum, or only remotely connected with it. He was chosen almost immediately as a member of the Eumenean Society. The brick building where the meetings were held still stands and the dignified old furniture has a kind of sedate magnificence appropriate to the seriousness with which the youths of those days burned offerings on the altar of oratory.

His First Debate

It is significant that almost the first thing that the boy Wilson did was to interest himself in the constitution of the society. He was instrumental in providing a new record book and himself copied out with many flourishes the entire constitution—a hand-writing not yet settled into the copperplate of later years.

The motto of the society was "Pulchrum est Colere Mentem" and it is declared that "the object of this society shall be acquirement of literary knowledge, the promotion of virtue and the cultivation of social harmony and friendship." It is significant of the interests which stirred the minds of the boys of that time that such questions as these should have been debated:

"Was the introduction of slavery into the United States beneficial to the human race?"

"Was the death of Lincoln beneficial to the South?"

"Was John Wilkes Booth a patriot?"

The books of the society show that the first recorded public appearance of the youth was on December 1, 1873, and the subject which he discussed, taking the negative, was "Resolved, That republicanism is a better form of government than a limited monarchy." He delivers an "original oration" on January 17 and debates the question of compulsory education—in the affirmative—on February 20. In May he is excused from several meetings on account of illness.

Wilson remained only a year at Davidson. When it was known that he was to leave, Dr. Thornton Whaling, then a student, said to him:

"Wilson, why are you going to leave us? Don't you like the place?"

"Yes," said Wilson.

"Don't you like the people?"

"Yes," said Wilson.

"Don't you like the college?"

"Yes, I do," said Wilson, "but I want to get closer to where they are doing things."

Davidson College always had a warm spot in Mr. Wilson's heart. His correspondence of later years shows that he never lost an opportunity to express his affection or to comply with the requests of students or faculty for friendly services. At the inauguration in 1913 a delegation of 80 students from Davidson College marched with the parade down Pennsylvania avenue, carrying the Davidson banner. On May 20, 1916, President Wilson visited Charlotte to celebrate the centennial of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence. In spite of crowding engagements, he determined to drive over to Davidson in the afternoon with Mrs. Wilson to see the old college.

Revisits Old Room

There is extant a beautiful story to the effect that the visit was an entire surprise—that when he tapped on the door of his old room in Chambers Hall, the student within called out:

"Come in."

When Mr. Wilson did not answer, he shouted:

"Who's there?"

Mr. Wilson answered, "This is President Wilson."

The student instantly replied:

"Come on in—this is Christopher Columbus!"

When the presidential party actually filed into the room, it is veraciously narrated that the student plunged head-first out of the window!

It is unfortunate that the matter-of-fact historian has to destroy a tale so perfect. As a matter of fact, Mr. Wilson let it be known that he was coming, but that he wished no demonstration. Prof. Lingle went to the point of seeing that the old room in Chambers Hall was in good order against Mr. Wilson's visit.

When the President went into the Eumenean Building he remarked:

"I once tried to make a speech in his room, but couldn't."

The youth returned home in June, 1874. He was not in good health, nor was he well enough prepared to enter Princeton that fall. He therefore remained at home for the following 15 months; studious, dreamy months partly spent at Columbia, mostly at Wilmington, N. C., where the Wilson family went to live in the fall of 1874.

The story of the youthful Woodrow Wilson, continuing tomorrow, will show that the future President of the United States found his studies difficult during his early months as a student at Princeton.

PUPILS TO GET SEATS FOR CONCERTS

The first steps toward the ultimate goal of the Pittsburgh Symphony Society to bring concerts by the city's symphony orchestra within the reach of everyone was taken today when it was decided by officials of the society to set aside a number of seats for each of the three concerts to be given this season for deserving music students who otherwise would be unable to attend.

The action followed the suggestion of a contributing member of the society for the establishment of "symphony foundations" by wealthy patrons of the society. Tickets alloted to these "foundations," according to the plan, would be turned over to worthy students.

The society already has on its records at its headquarters, 423 Bakewell Building, a large number of such students in the city, and selection of those to whom the tickets would be given would be made from these lists.

A brief intensive drive for additional contributing members of the society, paying dues of $100 or more, is contemplated by the society at the conclusion of its present campaign for 1,000 new associate members for the 1927-28 season. Associate members are enrolled in three classifications, paying dues of $15, $10 or $5. Each member receives two tickets free to each concert.

BRAVE FLAMES TO GET DOGS

Crawling on hands and knees through dense smoke, three Rankin firemen this morning rescued a mother Airedale and two pups from a blazing shed, adjoining the rear of the home of Peter Berell, 58 Chartiers street, Rankin.

The firemen, Joseph Thomas, Daniel O'Connell and Charles Brown, entered the building, used as a summer kitchen, when they heard the dogs barking and were told the mother dog was tied. They carried out the animals which were partly overcome.

The blaze, starting from an overheated wood stove, destroyed the shed and damaged an adjoining house, causing $1,000 loss.

PROSECUTE 2 AS DOG THIEVES

"Pep," holder of blue ribbons, frolicked in Criminal Court today before Visiting Judge J. Frank Graff and a jury hearing charges of larceny against Stanley Crawford and receiving stolen goods against his father-in-law, Emmanuel Netherland, both of Wilkinsburg avenue.

The prize-winning police dog is owned by H. E. Hampe, owner of Olympia Park, near McKeesport, and disappeared about June, 1926. It was recovered in April last by Corp. V. F. Bunch, of the state police, after rewards were offered for its return, in the possession of defendants, according to the testimony. Defendants deny the theft.

BOROUGH MEETING BACKS NEW BRIDGE AND TUNNEL

Resolutions recommending the proposed Ferry street bridge and tunnels, connecting the golden triangle with Chartiers valley, were adopted last night by residents of Greentree, Carnegie, Mt. Lebanon, Dormont and Crafton at a mass meeting in the Greentree school. Burgess Samuel C. Lampe of Greentree presided. An address was made by Harry Stanley, secretary of the South Hills and Chartiers Valley Tunnels and Ferry Street Bridge Association.

Melody Way Members Grow To 5,000

Approximately 5,000 men, women and children of Western Pennsylvania are now members of the Sun-Telegraph Melody Way Club.

And many more, seeking prints of first and second lessons that they missed, have stopped in the Sun-Telegraph to congratulate it on the Melody Way plan.

Teachers from all sections of the city, noting the Meissner lessons for the first time, have given unstinted and unsolicited praise.

"It is an improvement over any other," many have said. Others agree that it is the best way to teach the "A B C's" of the piano.

There are still a number of the first three lessons available to those who, just coming upon the Melody Way plan, would like to pick up the threads and study the piano free. Classes are still being organized by the various affiliated music dealers, and the free practice pianos are in the various stores ready for use.

Following the endorsement of the movement last week by Will Earhart, director of music in the public schools of the city, and well known throughout the nation, many school children were enrolled by their parents—some of the parents at the same time joining the club. It's not too late. Fill in the enrollment blank and get your certificate and button. Write Melody Way Editor for back lessons. The fourth lesson of the series of 12 will be published next Saturday. Others will follow on successive Saturdays.

BLVD. EXTENSION PUZZLES CITY

The building of the Republic Bank Note Company, 2817 Forbes street, which stands in the way of the extension of the Boulevard of the Allies, has furnished Council with a puzzling problem.

As the case was presented by City Solicitor C. A. Waldschmidt, the city must either condemn and raze part of the building at an estimated cost of $92,000 or pay $95,000 to the owners, who will move the building, waive damages due to the proposed change in grade and give the city the land needed for the new boulevard. Action on the case was deferred at the meeting yesterday.

CONVICT NEGRO IN KILLING

William Harrington, 18, a Negro of 72 Van Braam street, convicted of manslaughter late yesterday by a jury in Criminal, will be sentenced Friday by Judge Harry H. Rowand. He was charged with murder for shooting Ernest Moore, also a Negro, with whom he roomed, after a quarrel over Moore's wife. Harrington pleaded self-defense.

The case of Alfred Leonard Chenowich, of Baltimore, charged with murder in cutting Marie Angello in February at 57 Fleming avenue, Stowe township, where they were living together, will go to the jury today.

FIGHT CARD IS COMPLETE

Richardson In Semi-Final

THE card has been completed for the opening show of the boxing season in Motor Square Garden next Monday night.

Bob Lawson, Alabama Negro star, and Yale Okun, Jewish heavyweight of New York, will appear in the 10-round main event.

The semi-final will be between Bobby Richardson of Porage, Pa., and Johnny Windsor of Hentron Hill.

The two six-round preliminaries will find Young Piazzi of Mt. Washington facing Johnny Vivia of Bloomfield and Nick Susnell boxing Young Penno of McKees Rocks.

Austin Bates, former local amateur champion, would like to battle any of the pro hitters in his class. Promoters may reach him by calling Valley 997-R. His home is in Turtle Creek.

U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, meets Art De Champlain, of Johnstown, at Johnstown next Monday night.

Erie promoters are anxious to match Cuddy DeMarco with Bucky Lawless for Friday night, of next week. It is likely the bout will be arranged for a week later.

A flock of Johnstown fans will make the trip to McKeesport for tomorrow night's show, which will feature Joey Ladrey, of the Flood City, against Johnny Mellow, of Detroit, a favorite with the Tube City fans.

Tommy Ryan, of Buffalo and formerly of McKeesport, boxes Tony Canzoneri at the Dexter Park arena, New York, tomorrow night. Tom Heeney and Jim Maloney meet in the main bout in Madison Square Garden the same night.

Sid Terris and Hilario Martinez do the honors at the Queensboro Stadium, New York, tonight. Next week, at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, Sid meets Phil McGraw in a return bout.

Joey Novak, of Lawrenceville, boxes Joe Scinta, of Buffalo, in a return bout at Erie Friday night. Novak got the decision over the other Joe at Buffalo some months ago. Heavy Andrews and Johnny Lavan meet in the main bout at Erie. Novak wants to fight Cuddy DeMarco or any of the other 140-pounders in this district.

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 28.—(AP.)—The first game of the Little World Series here between Toledo, winner of the American Association championship, and Buffalo, the International League pennant winner, was called off this afternoon on account of rain. Games were scheduled here for Thursday and Friday.

PHIL SCOTT SAILS

SOUTHAMPTON, Sept. 28.—(INS.)—Phil Scott, British heavyweight, and his manager sailed for New York today aboard the Olympic. Scott said he expected to fight Jack Sharkey or Jimmy Maloney in New York October 28, possibly meeting Jack Dempsey later.

ATHLETICS WANT GAMES

Estelle Thought Hubby Won By Kayo

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Under the impression that her husband had knocked out Gene Tunney and regained his title in Chicago, Estelle Taylor greeted Jack Dempsey with smiles and kisses when he returned to their apartment after the battle, Jack Farrell, in the New York Daily News, says today.

Listening to the blow-by-blow account over radio, the actress understood the announcer to count "eight, nine and out" over Tunney when describing the flooring of the champion in the seventh round. What the announcer said was "eight, nine and up."

At the end of the count the actress shut off the radio and proceeded to celebrate. She later greeted her husband as the victor.

"Honey, it was remarkable," she said.

"What was remarkable, dear?" inquired the battle-marked challenger.

"Why, you won, dear, and by a knockout!"

"Hell, no, honey. I lost the fight on a decision."

Speaking of the Series

—By HARRY KECK, Sun-Telegraph Sports Editor—

TOUGH luck about the Pirates getting into the world series. That kills off the proposed city series with the Homestead Grays.

* * *

Looking ahead to next week, there's going to be something for Sharon to cheer about. Coach Tuss McLaughry, the town's favorite son, next to our own Charley Doyle, perhaps, will lead his Iron Men of Brown to Philadelphia to battle dear old Penn on the gridiron. And it looks like a good afternoon for Brown, for Penn doesn't appear to be so hot. That 8-0 victory over Franklin and Marshall in the opener last Saturday wasn't very inspiring or cheering for the followers of the Quakers.

* * *

YOU'D never know it to read the papers and listen to the arguments, but it is a fact that the Dempsey-Tunney fight is over. Or has it just begun?

* * *

Geneva, with its powerful eleven, coached by Bo McMillin, again is a target for opponents who seek to protest members of its squad. The Covenanters meet Bucknell Saturday, and the Lewisburg athletic department has been doing quite a bit of investigating of the records of some of Bo's proteges. 'Tis always so. When a team is strong, suspicion is aroused. And when it isn't, the alumni want to know why not.

* * *

TEX RICKARD'S new heavyweight elimination tournament looks like so much idle talk. If he goes through with it and leaves out George Godfrey, who, by the way, is visiting with friends here this week, it won't be a real elimination, and, if he includes Gawge, the Black Shadow is liable to win it, and then won't there be merry L?

* * *

The poor photographers had a tough time with the new football rules in the opening college games last week. At the Pitt stadium they didn't get wised up on how the shoving back of the goal posts 10 yards worked until the third touchdown was scored by Pitt against Thiel. They were waiting for the old shadow of the goal posts stuff on the first two. No offense, brother fotogs, merely the truth. Yea, the truth at any cost, and even if it hurts.

* * *

BOB LAWSON, who fights Yale Okum in the windup at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, made his home here for a time when he was a rookie in the game and did some of his early fighting in the added attraction bouts at the old Academy Theater in Liberty avenue. Later he began to make some progress as a sparring partner of that eminent knockout and knocked-out artist, Tut Jackson, of Washington Court House, O., and then drifted east to become a topliner.

* * *

Jim McGirr, the McKeesport promoter, ran into a funny one with his show last week on the night of the big panic at Chicago. He promised the fans an added attraction in the way of a radio broadcast of the Dempsey-Tunney frolic after his own main bout and all for the price of one admish. The boys stayed away in droves and those who were there couldn't get interested in the fighting in the ring. "Bring on the big brawl" was the battle cry. It's great stuff knowing what the fans want.

FIGHT RESULTS

CHILLY SAUCE

By CHILLY DOYLE

CINCINNATI, Sept. 28.—In each crisis that he faces, Remy Kremer stands out like one of the truly great pitchers of baseball. Big Ed Walsh, one of the most famous of the sport's wonder workers on the mound, sat in the press box Sunday and saw Kremer turn back the Bears in the second game.

"All one has to do is to watch how he works to know he is an exceptional pitcher," said Big Ed. Walsh should be an authority on pitching matters, and he certainly was enthusiastic about Kremer.

The former spitball king, by the way, has two fine strapping sons, Edward, Jr., having made a reputation on the mound for the Notre Dame team.

THE Pirates faced the test of the Chicago series like real champions and they emerged from the four fights with added prestige. Three of the victories were decided by one score, indicating the measure of competition offered by the Cubs. The other victory was recorded by a wider margin, but the Pirates had to smash a wedge through Charlie Root to get this game.

Carlson had a lot of stuff to show the Bushwhackers, but Grantham certainly measured that three-and-two pitch for a clout that was loaded with significance. Had the Pirates come over here with a lead of only one game, their position would have been perilous. The two-game advantage at this late date makes the Pirates heavy favorites.

IT MIGHT be well to point out that George Grantham's play has been the most startling development in the doings of the Pirates in the past few weeks. Rated in some quarters as an uncertain keystone tender, this versatile sprinter and clouter has been as clever as a Collins or a Frisch in the important fights.

Grantham socked two homers for the edification of his Chicago friends and admirers in the big city. Many shouts of encouragements for the Pirates were shouted from the stands.

THE two wet afternoons found Pirates gathering in much fruit. They were smiled on many times in the past two games, and when they left Chicago they realized the favors they received. A miss or a slip on the wet ground might have lost one or both of the closing fights.

Fighting for games that mean the pennant is serious business with Pirates, but many big situations develop funny sides. When Carmen Hill's spectacles flipped over his ears to crash upon the pitching mound in the seventh inning, the scene was not exactly humorous, but before the game was resumed the Pirates had more than one laugh.

ATHLETICS BOOKING

The East End Athletics, a newly organized Negro club comprised of former scholastic and college stars will be on the gridiron this season meeting the best attractions in the district. Dates are open in September and October for games. Write Gilbert Tyler, 632 Winfield street, Pittsburgh or call Hiland 4695-W.

HOMEWOOD CLUB READY

Herman's Homewood Club is set for its opened Saturday. Teams desiring Herman's Club as an attraction, write Manager Thomas Tyler, 7753 Tioga street, or call Atlantic 3900, line 332 during day or Franklin 7505-R any evening between 6 and 7:30 o'clock.

KAUFMANN & BAER CO.
INTRODUCES A NEW TWO-TROUSER SUIT
Parkleigh

• BEST POSSIBLE AT
$39.00

In the "Brentmore" two-trouser suit we are giving Pittsburgh the best possible value at $34.00 . . . In the "Parkleigh" two-trouser suit we hope to prove that $39.00 cannot buy finer fabrics, better workmanship or more style than in any other clothes.

There is more suit-goodness in "Parkleigh" than any man ever expected to see in a suit at this price—or several dollars more . . and it has two trousers.

K. & B. buyers and those of our associated stores searched diligently for looms that weave suitings used in far more costly suits . . . and bought immense yardage at price concessions. They sought and found a renowned maker who would co-operate to the extent desired. They were insistent that specifications regarding Style should be rigidly followed.

Step by step they supervised the construction of "Parkleigh," and when the first suit was finished they knew it was good inside and out, from cuff-bottom to shoulder-top.

"Parkleigh" Suits are individually modeled for every type—business men, college men, professional men and younger men who realize that their future depends greatly on their present appearance.

"Parkleigh" Suits are for longs, shorts, stouts, short stouts, long stouts and regulars—they are tailored to fit without a flaw or wrinkle, yet with the comfort that active men of today expect.

"Parkleigh" Super-Serge and Super-Stripe and "Parkleigh" unfinished worsteds and dress worsteds are of astonishingly fine quality—fabrics you won't find equalled in any other thirty-niner. In self-stripes, neatly inconspicuous patterns and livelier patterns for the brisk go-getter . . . new browns, grays and blues.

Remember, "Parkleigh" Suits have extra trousers that add 50% to the life of the clothes.

Just as with "Brentmore" at thirty-four dollars, we are planning to make "Parkleigh" the most popular thirty-nine dollar suit in Pittsburgh. Come and see it.

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1927 NINETEEN

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

BABE RUTH in 1927 or Hans Wagner in 1909? Which name stands for the greater color? Will the Bambino with his mighty bat furnish more thrills for the world series crowds next week than did the "Flying Dutchman" of the Pirates with his all-around stunts in the post-season grapple with the Tigers 18 years ago?

With another world series, the fourth in which Pittsburgh has participated, promised for this city, fans of the district are asking themselves these questions among the many others that arise during the last few days before the opening of the annual title struggle.

WHETHER Wagner at his zenith as the greatest player in baseball was more colorful than the Ruth of today, the mightiest hitter of all time, may be considered in some quarters as being open to debate, even among veteran critics and fans who have followed the game for more than a quarter of a century, and particularly since the world series became an annual fixture.

But in these diggings it would be hard to find a fan willing to admit that the Bambino with all his color has a bit more than the "Flying Dutchman" carried into every game in which he played in the old days, notably that world series of 18 years ago.

You can't take anything away from Ruth. He is a superstar and a showman in addition. When he walks up to the plate with his big bat the crowd gets a thrill such as it experiences at no other part of the game. It is a thrill if he smashes a home run over a fence or a stand, and it is a thrill also if he strikes out.

AND don't imagine that home-run hitting is Ruth's only accomplishment. He is a great ball player in all other respects. He is a fine fielder and thrower, he is uncommonly fast for a man of his size and he plays the game with his head in addition. In short, he would be a star ball player even if he did not lead the majors in home runs and batted only .300 as a regular thing.

But where Ruth gives the crowd a real tingle only when he steps up to bat, Wagner kept the crowd thrilled all through a game. Whether he were at bat, in the field or the bases, it was all the same.

His color spread all over the lot. He was socking long hits against the fences, driving doubles down the third-base line, socking singles to all parts of the field, making seemingly impossible catches or stops and throws at shortstop, or, if on the bases, was keeping the crowd in an uproar and driving the opposing pitcher and team to distraction by stealing base after base.

PERHAPS Ruth in the coming world series will equal or surpass the excitement that Wagner created in the post-season tussle of 1909, but it is doubtful.

There was another player of exceptional color in that series, too, in the person of Ty Cobb, then at his very best. There was much speculation before the series as to how Wagner and Cobb would compare, but when the test of actual competition came, Cobb was nowhere.

Ty did give the fans one thrill in the third inning of the second game of the series, played at Forbes Field on October 9. With Cobb on third, Jim Delehanty on second and George Moriarty, now manager of the Tigers, at bat, Howard Camnitz was taken out of the box by Manager Fred Clarke of the Bucs and Vic Willis was sent in to relieve him. Before Willis got his bearings Cobb stole home.

APART from that one daring bit of work, however, Wagner far outshone the highly-touted "Georgia Peach." Hans made a higher batting average than any other man on either side in the series, finishing with a mark of .375 for seven full games. Tommy Leach batted .360 and the nearest man on the Detroit club was Delehanty with .346. Incidentally, among the .300 hitters in the series was Donie Bush, present manager of the Pirates, who batted .304.

In addition to his batting, Wagner scored four runs to Cobb's three, made nine hits to Cobb's six, stole no fewer than seven bases to Cobb's two, made 13 total bases on hits to Cobb's nine, and even on the defensive accepted 36 out of 39 chances at shortstop for an average of .923, while Cobb's average in the outfield was only .900.

IN THE seventh inning of the fifth game at Detroit on October 14, Wagner was hit with a pitched ball, stole second and third and scored on Schmidt's wild throw.

As Donie Bush described it recently, "Wagner would get to first base in some manner and in two pitches he was on third."

Ruth will give the series a lot of color, it must be admitted, and there will be plenty of thrills for the fans every time he walks to the plate, but if he can spill more color in the big tussle or make more sensational plays than Wagner did in the battle of 1909, he will be doing a great deal more than even his warmest admirers hereabouts believe he is capable of doing. Next week and the following week will tell.

ANY one craving for a tough job these days probably will get all they want of such a thing in a short time by trying to interview any prominent ball player or manager, or even a retired star whose name still is famous in the baseball world, and asking them to give an opinion on the coming world series.

He will speedily find that the usual talkative parties have suddenly become sphinxes and that the right of free speech has for the time being ceased to exist in some quarters. Here's the only reply you will get:

"I can't talk about the series because I have signed up with such-and-such syndicate and am not allowed to express an opinion because my syndicate is going to sell it to the newspapers during the world series. I can't say a word now, because my words are going to be worth money."

Perry Back In City League

NORTH SIDE GRIDDERS EAGER TO PLAY

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

PERRY HIGH SCHOOL is back in the City League again! This much was learned early this morning from the lips of Chester A. Smith, the North Side school's popular gridiron mentor. Several weeks ago it was announced that Perry would withdraw from the loop, in which it is a member of Section II, inasmuch as its facilities for practice were nil—but the boys wanted to play football. They were so eager for it that they unanimously and enthusiastically pleaded with Coach Smith to take them to practice on grounds almost a mile and a half away from the school.

"They wanted to play so much that I couldn't turn them down," said Smith this morning. "We have been working out every day this week since we decided to play. The days are getting shorter, you know, and we have to lose a lot of time getting down to our grounds. When we came home last night it was so dark that we had to find our way; really needed a lantern."

With this fine spirit, Perry, despite its handicap, should have a real fighting team, for enthusiasm of this sort is a great advantage.

Perry was scheduled to open on Friday against South Hill's strong eleven, but, inasmuch as the team is hardly ready after so little work, officials have arranged to set the date over to October 28.

All of Perry's games carded for its home grounds will be played on the Oliver High School gridiron. An open date remains for Armistice Day which Coach Smith is eager to close.

Fiore Bruno Captures Caddie-Masters' Event

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

Fiore Bruno, of the Oakmont Country Club, proved the "fury" of the Caddie-Masters Association of Western Pennsylvania tournament yesterday at the Pittsburgh Field Club. Playing from scratch, Bruno scored a superb 78 to lead Alex Schoski, of Montour Heights, and Guido Paroline, of the St. Clair Country Club, who had nets of 79, by a single stroke. Schoski had a gross 88 and Paroline 84. Jack Keillor, of Washington, and Bob Loeffler, of Oakmont, tied for the next position with net 80s, both having gross 84s.

The day was ideal for golf in every respect and the Pittsburgh Field Club layout was in perfect condition.

The caddie championship tournament will be played at the Longue Vue club October 24 or 25 at 18 holes medal play and the caddie-masters' championship will be staged at the Edgewood Country Club Tuesday, October 18, at 36 holes medal play, it was decided during a meeting and dinner held in the beautiful Field Club ballroom in the evening.

The caddie welfare committee of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association, represented by Edward E. McCoy, former W. P. G. A. president and father of the caddie welfare movement; Chester H. Lehman of Westmoreland, vice president of the W. P. G. A.; George A. Ormiston of Oakmont, secretary of the W. P. G. A., and Harry Wilhelm of Edgewood worked in conjunction with the caddie-masters in arranging the time and place.

The committee announced that the John Latta Jamison Memorial trophy had been offered as the championship cup for the winning caddie team. Almost 100 caddies have entered their tourney.

Caddie-masters will be on the scene during the caddie tournament to act as referees for each match, which is another commendable idea.

FRED FUSSELL JOINS BUCS TOMORROW

President Alvin Gardener of the Wichita Falls (Tex.) club, from which club the Pirates purchased Fussell some time ago, wired President Barney Dreyfuss today, offering to send Fussell to the Bucs if his services would be of any assistance to the Bushmen in their fight for the pennant.

Whether Fussell will be used in any of the remaining three games is, of course, entirely up to Manager Bush, but on the chance that the pitcher's services might be needed President Dreyfuss requested the Wichita Falls magnate to order Fussell to report at once.

Accordingly, the left-hander will join the Pirates in Cincinnati tomorrow night and will be eligible to take part in the final three games of the Bucs' season if needed.

W. & J. Fears Harlow's Western Marylanders

By JESS CARVER.

LOCAL and district football fans are wondering what sort of a football team Dick Harlow is going to bring to Washington Saturday afternoon to shoot against W. & J. Dick's Western Maryland eleven gives promise of being the first tough assignment that the Presidents will have to face, even though advance reports say that Dick's eleven is a green one and lacks weight. That, as the boys in the back room say, is probably the old baloney.

Harlow has had more or less success since he packed up his extra collar and tooth brush and left Penn State for Colgate. After a year or two there, where he induced some of Penn State's best grid prospects to matriculate, he was secured by Western Maryland, and if I am not mistaken, broke his contract with Colgate. Last year his team made a fine record in the East, a better record than it was expected the Dixielanders would compile.

The Presidents are always wary of any opponent, and will be especially wary of Western Maryland inasmuch as Harlow is very familiar with the style of play employed by tri-state district teams, and W. & J. in particular. It might happen that Western Maryland will have an inspired team set for W. & J. and knock the Prexys off. Well, it might.

Andy Kerr is not much given to worry, and possibly is not losing many of his eight hours over Saturday's game, but he is working the Red and Black gridders hard and long and will at least have his men in trim for the ball game Saturday.

SOFT GAMES CARDED

With soft games in the offing for the week-end, Pitt and Tech are drilling on intricate formations for use against tougher opponents to come, namely, West Virginia for Pitt and W. & J. for Tech.

I think that both schools made a mistake in scheduling two "pie" games for the first two encounters of the year. It may be that the easy contests will work to the disadvantage of the elevens later. A good test this week would undoubtedly make for a stronger eleven later on. Tech has only Thiel to play this Saturday and Drexel of Philadelphia the next week, while Grove City faces Pitt Saturday afternoon in the Stadium, and on the following week West Virginia will come to town.

Barnard To Be Named A. L. Head Sunday

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Reports of the early election of a successor to B. B. Johnson as president of the American League were revived today with intimations that the dissenting club owners, who have received Johnson's resignation, effective November 1, might select and install a new president a month ahead of that time.

Edward S. Barnard, now president of the Cleveland club, is the man generally regarded as Johnson's successor. Johnson's friends have said that the American League founder would be ready to turn over the office by October 15. Johnson has been busy for weeks going over the league records of 27 years in his office, preserving such documents as reflect the league's growth under his direction.

Latest reports say Barnard will be announced as president next Sunday night, in order to take charge of the American League's end of the world series. The league headquarters here have declined to comment.

Gruber Selected Series Official Scorer

There is some doubt as to what the official lineups will be for the world series games, but there is no doubt as to the lineup of officials. When the Yanks and Pirates clash here one week from today (we concede the Bucs the flag with a mere wave of the hand) the lineup of officials will be Judge Landis, John Gruber and four umpires. Landis will hand down decisions on the weather, the umps will call 'em on the field and Gruber will call 'em in the press box.

Pittsburgh's only series official was selected yesterday at a meeting of the local baseball scribes, when Gruber was appointed official scorer. John has been associated with Pittsburgh baseball for the last 40 years, and if he can't distinguish between a hit and an error the scribes reason who can.

Bambino Needs Two to Equal 1921 Record

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(INS.)—By hitting two home runs in New York's remaining three games, Babe Ruth can tie his 1921 home run record of 59. His fifty-seventh homer yesterday, a tremendous wallop into the right field bleachers, came with the bases full and beat the Athletics, 7 to 4. It was only the sixth time in the Babe's career that he has smacked one with the bases loaded.

Lou Gehrig, who had not hit for the circuit since September 6, uncorked his forty-sixth homer.

TEX FAVORS CONTINUANCE OF FIGHT BROADCASTING

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Although he thinks radio broadcasting of the Dempsey-Tunney fight at Chicago reduced the receipts, Tex Rickard said today that broadcasting of big fights ought to continue, to satisfy a demand of millions of fans.

"I want to give fights to the people over the air," Rickard said, "but it will be necessary to evolve a workable scheme so that all the fans will not stay home and listen in, especially if radio television is introduced on a wholesale basis."

The promoter said broadcasting authorities estimated 100,000,000 persons throughout the world attended the fight "by air." "The sale of seats seemed to indicate that the man of moderate means preferred to buy a radio set or make a payment on one rather than spend money to attend the fight," Rickard said, adding that all of the $40 seats were sold while cheaper seats went unoccupied.

Several contributions of 50 cents and $1 were received from fans who listened in on the broadcasting, he said. He regards the radio as a strong ally of the ring in that broadcasting will correct a mistaken impression of the sport.

HILL GETS VERDICT OVER DANNY KRAMER

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28.—Johnny Hill, Filipino featherweight, took the decision over Danny Kramer in a 10-round bout at the Olympic tonight. Kramer hit the canvas twice during the battle.

Gilbert Attell won a decision over Herman Auerbach in the eighth round semi-windup. Mickey Durane won over Frankie Tierney in a four-round bout.

MARSH APPOINTED

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 28.—Babe F. Marsh, Jr., has been appointed assistant football coach to work with Head Coach Earl E. Loucks and Assistant Avra Pershing at Greensburgh High School, it was announced yesterday. Marsh is a former Lafayette quarterback and former Greensburg High star.

TITLE GAME SATURDAY

The third and deciding game of the titular series between City View and Dan Heeps will be played at the City View grounds at 2:30 Saturday afternoon. The game will be played at the same field Sunday afternoon, should rain necessitate a postponement.

OLYMPICS BOOK OHIOANS

The McKeesport Olympics have booked the Haynes Negro football team of Cleveland, O., for Saturday at Cycler Park, McKeesport. The team was formerly known as the Tate All-Stars, and is composed of leading Negro college men. Kick-off at 3 o'clock.

OPEN FOR GAMES

The Corpus Christi Lyceum, last year's junior champion, is ready to book games. Call Hiland 7869-W.

DEAL FOR 2ND BASE STAR IS PUSHED

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 28.—The Pirate management is just about ready to close a big deal with the Mission club of the Pacific Coast League for the services of Second Baseman Mickey Finn, according to information furnished the Sun-Telegraph by a prominent Coast League man.

Mickey, a New York kid, who has starred for the Missions throughout the year, and who is said to have been ok'd by Scout Joe Devine, will be a member of the Pittsburgh club next season, provided the negotiations now going on between President William McCarthy of the Bears and Barney Dreyfuss, Pirate owner, have a successful ending.

Finn played a long series against the Pirates last spring, his all-around work making a big impression on Manager Bush. On the type of Pie Traynor or Joe Cronin in his personality and habits, Mickey was a boxer around New York before he went to the Coast League. Slow to get into mixups, it is reported that he polished off one would-be scrapper of the coast circuit in short order and since that time few players have courted an encounter with the infielder.

IS LINE HITTER

Finn is about the size of George Grantham or Cronin. He is a right-handed batter, and in the games played against the Pirates he showed a tendency to hit the ball on a line. He is not of the slugging type, but will make his share of extra base wallops.

John Miljus, who recently was purchased by the Pirates from Seattle, is a booster for Finn. John stamps the infielder as a smart team-worker who always plays for the club's success.

Miljus also is loud in his praise for the catching and general play of Walter Schmidt, former Pirate star, who was behind the bat whenever Miljus pitched. Other Coast players who recently have made the big-league grade are just as warm in their words for the veteran of the mask and glove.

Wilbur Cooper's pitching skill was a big factor in the successful drive of the Oakland club for the Coast League pennant. Cooper enjoyed a good season on the Coast. George Boehler, once a Pirate, and one of the leading pitchers of the distant circuit, has won more than 20 games for Oakland.

Series Eligible Player Lists Announced

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—The names of the 27 players on whom the New York Yankees will rely in the world series were announced yesterday in an official list approved by Commissioner K. M. Landis. Eligibility lists were announced also for the Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis Cardinals, leading contenders in the National League.

The Yankee roster for the series showed Miller Huggins will rely on nine men to carry the pitching burden, eight hurlers were named by the Pirates and 10 by the Cards. The Cardinal list, like that of the Yankees, totaled 27 and the Pirate roll-call numbered 26. The lists:

YANKEES.

Ruether, Giard, Hoyt, Moore, Pennock, Pipgras, Shawkey, Shocker and Thomas, pitchers; Bengough, Collins and Grabowski, catchers; Lazzeri, Gehrig, Dugan, Koenig, Gazella, Morehart and Wera, infielders; Ruth, Combs, Meusel, Durst and Paschal, outfielders; O'Leary and Fletcher, coaches; Huggins, manager.

PIRATES.

CARDINALS.

Alexander, Rhem, Herman Bell, Haines, Keen, Littlejohn, McGraw, Reinhart, Ring and Sherdel, pitchers; Manager O'Farrell, Snyder and Schulte, catchers; Lester Bell, Bottomley, Frisch, Schuble, Thevenow and Toporcer, infielders; Blades, Clark, Douthit, Hafey, Holm and Southworth, outfielders, McKechnie and Sothoron, coaches.

FLOWERS-LATZO BOUT TONIGHT IS POSTPONED

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 28.—(AP.)—The bout between "Tiger" Flowers and Pete Latzo, former welterweight champion, scheduled for tonight, was postponed at the request of the Negro battler. Flowers, through his manager, reported that he was suffering from an ulcerated tooth, but that he would be in shape by Friday.

PURDY IS FIRST RED TO SIGN '28 CONTRACT

CINCINNATI, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—Pid Purdy, slugging little outfielder, is the first player to be signed up under a Cincinnati Red contract for next season. He put his name on the dotted line to renew his allegiance before he left for Green Bay, Wis., last Sunday night, it was learned today.

THROUGH the SPORT LENS by HAVEY BOYLE

BAN JOHNSON said the other day that a third major league beyond all doubt will soon be organized. He disclaimed any hand in it. Deposed as head of the league which he brought into being, Johnson, past 60, is too old to plunge into the hectic scenes that always come with a baseball raid.

Havey Boyle.

Whether there is room for a third league is questionable. There will be patronage, of course, sufficient to support a new league, with the country continually growing in population, but there is doubt whether enough major league talent could be obtained to start a third major loop.

Of course, the third loop with a big money barrel might raid the ranks of Organized Baseball, as the American League did when it started, but the invaders would have to fight a great money chest which the present baseball promoters have been filling ever since the Federal League raid.

THAT there is insufficient baseball talent is shown by the constant lament of baseball scouts that the bush leagues are bereft of great stuff. The war which took so many boys away is responsible for the scarcity, according to baseball men, and another reason is that many boys who would have taken up baseball have found golf exciting.

Money is not the only thing raiders of baseball need. They also need sound baseball men to guide their activities. The late Federal League, having behind it capital like the Wards and the Sinclairs, was for a time strong financially, but the boys in charge of the works messed things up.

The receipts are well advertised, the shares the players get are given wide publicity, and other benefits in a financial way, get a big place in the news. What some men can do others also can do, reason the boys on the outside. But to establish a third league would take considerable bravery at this stage, so strongly entrenched is Organized Baseball.

ONE player in particular who should get a hand from the world series crowd is Joe Harris, hard-working first sacker, who has had a difficult time this year offering his best to help the club onward to a pennant. There has hardly been a day since Joe went in regularly that he has been altogether sound physically. Under the handicaps of ailments and injuries, the hard working war veteran has been fighting day in and day out to help his club. Less worthier men might have complained, might have asked for a rest, but Harris with dogged determination has stayed "in there." The oldest man in the infield, he has kept the rest of the boys pepped up with his encouragement. In the general huzzahs over other deserving men, Harris often is overlooked. It is not only because he merits great praise by his work, but because, too, of the handicaps he has suffered that Harris deserves great consideration from his home town fans.

Fans, too, are hoping that Joe will be the same world series demon this year that he was in 1925 when he came close to wrecking the hopes of the Corsairs against Washington. Joe did everything at the bat but stand on his head and hit doubles and triples. After it was all over, this fellow who did more than any team-mate, aside from Walter Johnson, to help the Washington cause, was the first in the Pirate dressing room, after the final game, to congratulate the winners.

PIE TRAYNOR is another Pirate who deserves considerable credit for the stand of the club. His excellence is lost if you only consider his actions on the field. If you realize that day in and day out he has been watching diet, guarding against staying up late at night, and generally keeping tuned up to fever pitch to help his club, you will get the full appreciation of his worth.

FANS still write in about the Dempsey-Tunney knockout. It is a question that never will be decided with satisfaction to everyone. There is little question that Tunney was down longer than 10. That is admitted by pro-Tunney men, but they believe that Tunney could have gotten up at nine and simply took the added count because it was there waiting for him. Anyway, what confuses Dempsey men is that the traditional count of 10, as in the old days, still goes. The count still goes, but the time of starting it has been changed. Dempsey understood that the count would not start until he was in a neutral corner as the Illinois rules called for. Dempsey didn't obey the rules and consequently lost three or four seconds. It wasn't Tunney's fault that Dempsey lost time in getting away from him. That was Dempsey's fault.

Dempsey suffered from a rule he was instrumental in being placed in various rule books. If he had stepped away from Firpo to allow Firpo to rise, perhaps the rule would not have been invented which now makes a boxer move away before the count is started.

PRIMARY LIKELY TO SPUR STATE G. O. P. SHIFT

HARRISBURG, Sept. 28.—Results of the Republican primary election a week ago are expected to bring about a realignment among the forces composing the Republican state organization.

There were "upsets" in a number of counties resulting in the defeat of leaders with dominant voices in the party councils in the state and with the state administration.

In a number of instances old line leaders forced into the background following the May primary a year ago have come to the fore again. They have come back by victories won in their home counties and will have to be reckoned with. This is especially true since the most notable triumphs by old line leaders were made without the aid of state patronage.

A United States Senator will be nominated to succeed United States Senator David A. Reed. It is expected that by that time the status of United States Senator-elect William S. Vare will have been determined by the Senate.

Little that would have a bearing on the state-wide situation was at stake in the Democratic primary last Tuesday. The minority party status was not affected, as was the majority party, in Tuesday's primaries.

But the November election, however, may have some effect on statewide conditions in the Democratic ranks. At present neither the wet nor the dry Democratic factions have shown much disposition to organize for the primary next spring when delegates are to be elected for the Democratic national convention.

SALVATION ARMY DRIVE OCT. 1

Beginning October 1 groups of women will make a house-to-house canvass of the city in the interests of the Home Service Appeal of the Salvation Army. The army hopes to raise $105,500 for the continuance of its work in Allegheny county during 1927 and 1928.

Mrs. A. G. H. Frazier, of 2144 Perrysville avenue, North Side, is chairman of the women's division. Mrs. William Yot, of 1501 Dormont avenue, Dormont, is chairman of the Chinese division.

'DYNAMITE MIKE' DIES IN OHIO

MARTINS FERRY, O., Sept. 28.—Michael Cleary, 73, "Dynamite Mike," hero of hazardous jobs throughout the country, died in his home Monday night after a brief illness.

Originally a shooter in the early days of the oil development in the Ohio Valley, he first sprang into prominence during the Johnstown flood. Then a resident of Pittsburgh, he was called upon to demolish barricades that were holding back water above Pittsburgh. Later he performed hazardous jobs throughout the country. He was in the employ of the government during the building of the Panama Canal and also did effective work at Galveston, Tex., following the tidal wave.

OIL CITY MAN JAILED HERE

MERCER, Pa., Sept. 28.—Edward Aiken, oil operator of Oil City, was sentenced to four months in the Allegheny county workhouse on a charge of driving while intoxicated, and to three months on a charge of transporting liquor, the sentences to run consecutively. Fines of $500 also were imposed.

Teachers Must Limit Legs to 10 Inches

HAZEL PARK, Mich., Sept. 28.—Women teachers in Hazel Park schools must wear smocks of one color which reach at least 10 inches from the ground.

The order was made by the Board of Education, a male member of which believed the classroom was no place for short skirts.

Teachers said today they did not mind the compulsory covering of their lower limbs, but they were greatly worried as to what color smocks the board would select.

NEW BUSINESS FOR WEIRTON

WEIRTON, W. Va., Sept. 28.—The buildings of the Ohio Valley Laundry Company have been taken over by the Pittsburgh Hand Truck Company, which will begin manufacture of a complete line of hand trucks in the plant immediately. The local plant will operate under the name of the Giant Truck Manufacturing Company, with O. C. Tallman, of Holliday's Cove, as president, and John H. Plantenburg, of New Cumberland, as secretary-treasurer. A bond issue of $750,000 for the project has been sold in New York City.

CHILD PARALYSIS WANING HERE

Infantile paralysis is less prevalent in Pittsburgh than in most of the cities of the United States, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Philip E. Marks, of the bureau of infectious diseases. There also appears to be a steady decrease in the number of cases reported here, he said. Twenty-six was the total for August and only 10 for the present month, according to his report. The latest case was reported to the bureau Monday, a child in Millvale street, being the victim.

Finds Other Man With Wife, Joins Army, Now Sues

Returning home unexpectedly finding another man in company with his wife, Kenzie J. Schofield, who is suing for divorce, testified before Judge Joseph M. Swearingen, he "walked straight out of the house and enlisted in the Army for four years."

When he was discharged from Uncle Sam's service a few months ago he brought action against his wife, Gladys, to whom he was married in Wilmington, Del., in 1923. He now resides in the Oakland district. The wife is not contesting the suit.

MOTORCYCLE TOURIST HURT NEAR EVERETT

BEDFORD, Pa., Sept. 28.—Marshall Cater, 25, of Wakefield, Mass., is in the Western Maryland Hospital, Cumberland, as a result of injuries suffered when his motorcycle overturned on a steep hill on the Lincoln highway, 12 miles east of Everett. A passing motorist found him beneath the wreckage of the motorcyle and brought him to the hospital.

BREAKS UP GAS IN THE STOMACH

Don't suffer from dangerous gas pressing around your heart, from sourness, acidity, bloating or pain of indigestion. Stop worrying. Whenever you need quick stomach relief, take a little Bisurated Magnesia—powder or tablets. It breaks up gas, neutralizes acids and keeps the stomach sweet and strong, and digestion perfect. At good drug stores everywhere. Not a laxative.

Where Employers and Men Break Bread Side by Side

—By B. C. FORBES

EMPLOYERS can learn something from two gatherings in Chicago this week. At one the managers of a very large industrial company spent a day in session with representatives chosen by the workers, discussing matters of mutual interest. At the other, in the evening, not only the company's executives, but its directors sat down side by side with the wage-earners at dinner.

This company, thanks partly to the cordial loyalty of its own people, has become one of the most successful in the world.

THE interesting and illuminating facts are furnished this column by George W. Cook, director of public relations of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, in the following letter, dated the 21st:

"I have read with a great deal of interest your column on How Corporations Can Win the Loyalty of Their Employes, specially for the reason that we are much interested in the question of corporation employes.

"We have in our organization an industrial relations plan whereby the employes, through a joint general committee, have a voice in the question of wages, hours of labor, working conditions—in fact, anything that pertains to an employe's work with this company.

"This plan is in operation in our six refineries, as well as in the general office here in Chicago. We have an annual meeting in Chicago where these employes' representatives and an equal number from the management meet in an all-day session and discuss questions affecting their situations. The meeting this year will be held next Monday, and will be attended by 120. In the evening there is a dinner at which the board of directors and about 50 officials and heads of departments will join these delegates. At this dinner there is no speakers' table, but the officials are scattered about the banquet hall and sit at tables with the employes.

"At the dinner the toastmaster will be an electrician, an employes' representative from our Casper, Wyo., refinery. Among those who will speak will be a pumper, a boilermaker foreman, a car-loader, a stillman's helper and a fireman in the pressure stills.

"Col. Robert W. Stewart, the chairman of our board, and E. G. Seubert, president of the company, will also speak. I am relating these facts to show the democracy there is in our company."

CURIOUSLY, just after receiving this letter, I had a call from the president of another successful Middle Western company, the Rudolph Wurlitzer Company, of Cincinnati, musical instrument makers, which also has cultivated friendly relations with its employes. Not only does it assume all the cost of granting pensions, life insurance, sick benefits, etc., to its people, but it gives annual vacations with full pay to all classes of workers. Also it provides the most attractive environment for those in its plants—it has 3,500 employes.

"We have found that the right kind of employes respond in the right way to the right kind of treatment," declares Mr. Wurlitzer. "Our policy of treating our people considerately, and of making it easy and profitable for them to become stockholders, has paid dividends, not only financial dividends, but has yielded dividends in satisfaction alike to the employes and the managers. We all feel that we get more out of life than we would were our relations not so close and cordial. For a concern making an artistic product this is extremely desirable and important."

MY experience and observation cause me to feel that the Middle West and the Far West have advanced farther than the East in establishing democratic, brotherly relations with employes.

Along this path lies the greatest room of all for bringing about increased efficiency and more profitable relations.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Anticipate Big Loan Gain.

The amount of the increase in the brokers' loans was the main question before the speculative community today. Various estimates are made, but all agree that a substantial increase will be shown. None estimate less than $100,000,000, while others place the figure at materially higher levels, but point out that the estimate is subject to revision should a substantial reaction be recorded before the time of the report as of today's close. The estimates of the increase in loans are based entirely on the extent of commitments of the different firms in the General Motors "when issued" contracts. Settling of such contracts toward the close of last week puts the resulting gain in loans in tomorrow's report, so that the firms which handled a large amount of such commitments estimate larger gain in borrowings than do others.

Car Loadings Up Sharply.

Loading of revenue freight for the week ended September 17 totaled 1,124,131 cars, an increase of 134,159 cars over the preceding week, but 55,073 cars below the same week last year. The week of September 10 included Labor Day.

—I—

A. P. I. Oil Figures.

American Petroleum Institute estimates daily average crude oil production in the United States for the week ended September 24 was 2,524,100 barrels, an increase of 39,150 barrels over the preceding week.

—I—

Seminole Output Again Rises.

For 24 hours ended 7 a. m. Tuesday the Seminole area produced 446,447 barrels of crude oil from 450 wells, against 438,436 barrels Monday and a peak of 527,400 barrels made July 30.

—I—

Little River Restrictions.

The Oklahoma Corporation Commission has ruled that all wells in Little River pool, of the Seminole area, must be confined to 75 per cent of their potential production. Originally these wells were to be restricted to a maximum of 100 barrels a day, which was later increased to maximum of 1,000 barrels daily. Both of these restriction orders were unsatisfactory with result that the Blackwell Oil and Gas Company refused to comply with the curtailment program. The restriction of wells to 75 per cent of their potential capacity is considered more equitable and it is probable this ruling will be more rigidly observed.

Northwestern's Prospects.

"Indications are that our net showing for 1927 will approximate last year's, which amounted to $11,419,844 or $4.92 a share on the common stock," according to F. W. Sargent, president of Chicago and Northwestern. "We have good crops, but I do not look for anything startling in the way of traffic. Crops are unusually good in Nebraska and South Dakota, but our territory as a whole is only a little above average."

—I—

Panama Tanker Revenue.

During August, 116 tankships passed through the Panama Canal with a net tonnage of 449,119 on which tolls of $371,457 were collected. In point of net tonnage, tanker traffic showed a decrease of about 4.2 per cent, compared with a year ago, while cargo tonnage decreased about 18.7 per cent.

—I—

St. Paul Loadings Gain.

—I—

Money in Good Supply.

Offerings of call money at the opening were so large as to force a reduction to 3½ per cent in the outside market at the start, as compared with the 4 per cent stock exchange renewal figure. Later the official rate dropped to 3 per cent. Time money continued inactive and unchanged at 4@4¼ per cent for 60 days, 4¼@4½ per cent for 90 days and 4¼@4½ per cent for four, five and six months.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The raw sugar market was quiet again early today and in absence of business price changes were nominal, with nearby sugars quoted at 4.77c, duty paid.

Raw sugar futures opened unchanged to 2 points lower under liquidation, probably promoted by unfavorable London cables. Offerings, however, were not aggressive and after the early selling had subsided, prices rallied on covering and Cuban buying, in response to press advices from Cuba indicating that the sugar control legislation would be passed next Monday or Tuesday. Prices at midday were 1 to 3 points net lower.

The refined sugar market was unchanged at 5.90c to 6.10c for fine granulated and business was light.

RAILS, UTILITIES LEAD STOCKS UPWARD

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP.)—The stock market gave an impressive demonstration of strength today under the leadership of the investment rails and public utilities, several of which attained record high prices. The market appeared to throw off the restraint imposed by talk of a huge increase in brokers' loans this week, when the call money rate was marked down from 4 to 3½ per cent.

Trade news of the day was more favorable in character. The weekly steel trade reviews called attention to a moderate increase in demand accompanied by a firmer price tendency. Optimistic predictions were circulated concerning the third quarter earnings of General Motors, and substantial increases also were looked for in the reports of some of the rubber companies. Oils were sluggish, presumably in reflection of the increase in the daily average of crude oil production last week, and coppers also showed a tendency to drag.

Chesapeake & Ohio, which recently published a favorable August earnings statement, assumed the leadership of the rail group by climbing nearly 6 points to a new high record for all time at 204½. Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis recorded a similar gain, while Bangor & Aroostook, Norfolk & Western, Texas & Pacific, Atchison, Delaware & Hudson, New Haven, Pittsburgh & West Virginia advanced 2 to nearly 4 points. Wall street, while disappointed in some of the August earnings statements now being published, is looking for marked improvement in the September figures.

Abitibi Power and American Water Works (new), with gains of about 4 points each, led the advance in the public utilities. Gotham Silk Hosiery preferred, Timken Roller Bearing and Montgomery Ward also were active on the upside. Renewed selling of Remington-Rand carried that issue to a new low record.

Stocks Quiet, Steady In Local Market

Trading on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange quieted down noticeably today, although prices held steady and recorded sales showed only minor changes from the quotations of the previous afternoon. Early dealings were confined generally to Lone Star Gas, in which interest has been more apparent this week than last. Price movement in Lone Star so far this week has been quite narrow, but a fairly large volume of stock has been handled, and traders are rather inclined to believe that some information on the reported negotiations for sale of the company's properties may be forthcoming shortly.

Lone Star's yield around present selling levels is scanty despite the low money market, but the stock has held firm at 48 and above right along. Dividend on the issue is 50 cents quarterly, or $2 a year. There has been some talk of a stock dividend on Lone Star, but such action would require a rearrangement of the capital structure. On the other hand, those favoring the stock feel that a raise in the cash rate may be announced shortly and offer this possibility as the reason for the stock's firmness at present low-yield levels.

Miscellaneous stocks were quiet and most of the day's trading was confined to odd lot transactions. Arkansas Gas retained the improvement noted yesterday when it rallied to around 8 a share after having dipped to 7⅝ on Monday. Standard Sanitary common and National Fireproofing preferred were both steady and moved over a very narrow range.

Dixie Gas and Utilities common, which has been tending higher over the past few weeks, was firm around 9⅝ and 10 again today, the latter price representing a high record for the stock. The new Westinghouse Air Brake was steady at 48¼, but only a few shares changed hands.

WHAT FAMOUS MEN HAVE SAID ABOUT LIFE INSURANCE

WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT

"Life insurance is a wonderful aid, especially to those of us who are dependent upon salaries and upon professional incomes. It is the only way by which we can make our lives happy in the thought that we are putting by something so that those who are dear to us may live on after us and not feel pinched or not be subject to poverty when the bread winner is gone."

INSISTENT demand for greater adequacy, convenience and flexibility has been responsible for the instant public favor which the Perfect Protection Policy has met.

A Perfect Protection Illustration

FRIDAY NIGHT ONLY
MONEY FOR YOU
AMBITIOUS MEN.

Here's An Amazing Opportunity, Here is the Key to a Good Position, An Extra Pay Check Every Week, Whether Employed or Unemployed, Read Carefully and Investigate. You Can't Afford to Pass Up the Greatest Opportunity in Pittsburgh Today, So Make Up Your Mind to Answer This Ad

BUT THIS OPPORTUNITY WILL NOT LAST LONG.

$35 TO $75 WEEKLY

Don't "grope in the dark" dreaming of extra money. You don't have to "pound the pavements" or go off on a "wild goose chase." Every ambitious person in the City of Pittsburgh would be amazed and glad to avail himself of this opportunity if he only knew the facts. YOU DON'T NEED EXPERIENCE AND YOU WON'T BE ASKED TO SELL ANYTHING. Briefly, the city's new administrative and expansion has made it necessary for us to open an entirely new department and has created an opportunity unparalleled for people desiring EXTRA WEEKLY INCOME. Work WILL NOT CONFLICT WITH PRESENT EMPLOYMENT. No SELLING. No Schooling. No Red Tape.

These positions can be filled during the spare hours (during day or evening) of mechanics, tradesmen, clerks, professional men and business men. Full time positions can be arranged for those desiring permanent work. ABSOLUTELY NO EXPERIENCE REQUIRED; FINANCIAL CO-OPERATION GIVEN from the start. You should earn NOT LESS than $44.10 PER WEEK from the moment your name is placed upon the company's roll. Of the scores of happy workers recently employed, very few earn less than $50 per week and are working but one hour per day. Positions (part time or permanent) are EXTREMELY SIMPLE in pleasant surroundings and most congenial atmosphere.

Do not confuse this ad with another of similar wording, for YOU WILL NOT BE ASKED TO SELL ANYTHING AND YOU CAN EARN FROM THE MOMENT YOU START.

This is REAL. This is GENUINE. Here is an opportunity to earn a REAL BANK ACCOUNT during your spare time. The work is extremely simple and can be done by anyone of ordinary intelligence and we will make you understand and know you can do the work before we ask you to start.

You must understand this is an unusual opportunity. Come and get the facts. We require white applicants over 25 years of age AND EVERYONE will be given utmost consideration.

This ad will appear until FRIDAY EVENING and none will be considered after 8:30 O'CLOCK Friday evening. Make up your mind NOW to answer on time. NO APPLICANTS RECEIVED AT ANY OTHER HOUR.

Last Call. Apply Paymaster.

APPLY FRIDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 30TH at 8:30 O'CLOCK, SUITE 601 CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BUILDING, SEVENTH AVENUE AND SMITHFIELD STREET.

Notice! Remember this is an entirely new department and here is your opportunity to get a position in it. Scores of new applicants have been given employment during the evenings or after business hours and even the office boy earns $35 per week. Many of our employes who are unemployed otherwise during the daytime have bought new cars and have opened new bank accounts as a result of this wonderful extra income opportunity. You can answer other ads every day of the week, but—remember you can only answer this ad Friday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

YOU SIMPLY CAN'T AFFORD TO MISS IT. Knowing how and why means EXTRA MONEY. Now if you really desire to open a REAL BANK ACCOUNT, DON'T MISS THIS. Do not answer this ad unless you are really sincere and anxious to earn an extra income. We will receive no applicants after 8:30 o'clock Friday evening, so make up your mind to answer on time REGARDLESS OF PRESENT EMPLOYMENT. EVERYONE WILL BE GIVEN FULLEST CONSIDERATION AT ABOVE TIME, AND REMEMBER THE PLACE.

APPLY FRIDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 30TH at 8:30 O'CLOCK, SUITE 601, CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BUILDING, SEVENTH AVENUE and SMITHFIELD STREET.

MONEY for you at home; men and women can earn $15 to $25 a week in spare time writing showcards; no canvassing or soliciting; we instruct you and supply you with work; write today. The Menhenitt Company, Limited, 129 Dominion Bldg., Toronto, Can.

MEN—Become firemen, brakemen, colored train or sleeping car porters; experience unnecessary; $150-$250 month; good roads. Write Inter Ry., Dept. 66, Indianapolis, Ind.

WANTED—Five-ton dump trucks; report at Grant st. and Third ave.

WANTED—LADIES

WORK DURING EVENING OR SPARE HOURS. YOU CAN EARN A BONUS FOR YOUR SUMMER WORK. YOU CAN EARN AT LEAST $40 IN YOUR SPARE TIME EVERY WEEK.

Whether employed or unemployed, read carefully and investigate. You cannot afford to pass up the greatest opportunity in Pittsburgh today. Read these facts carefully. Remember, you can earn at least $40 for your spare time work during the evenings, and we will show you how to do this EXTREMELY SIMPLE work and make you understand thoroughly before you start. WORK WILL NOT CONFLICT WITH PRESENT EMPLOYMENT. NO SELLING. NO SCHOOLING. NO INSTRUCTION COURSES. These positions can be filled during spare hours (during the evenings) of housewives, teachers, nurses, business ladies and office workers. ABSOLUTELY NO EXPERIENCE REQUIRED. Full time positions can be arranged for those unemployed and those desiring permanent work. FINANCIAL CO-OPERATION GIVEN. This is not "just another ad," but a responsible, well-known Pittsburgh firm offering real, dignified employment. Positions (part time or permanent) are extremely simple, in pleasant surroundings, and most congenial atmosphere. Do not confuse this ad with others of similar wording for YOU WILL NOT BE ASKED TO SELL ANYTHING. This is genuine. Every ambitious person in the city of Pittsburgh would be anxious to procure this employment if she only knew the facts. YOU WILL EARN THE MOMENT YOU START work and we will make you understand and know you can do the work before we ask you to start. Don't be misled and don't waste your time on "wild goose chases." This is an unusual opportunity. Come and get the facts. Applicants must be white and over 25 years of age. Every one will be given utmost consideration. This is not a chance, but A REAL OPPORTUNITY. This ad will appear until Friday evening only, and none will be considered after Friday evening.

Apply Friday evening, September 30th, at 8:30 o'clock, ROOM 601, CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BLDG., Seventh ave. and Smithfield st.

NOTICE—Our business is becoming so heavy that we have decided to open a new department. Scores of new applicants have been given employment during the evenings, after business hours. Many of our employes, who are employed otherwise during the daytime, have bought new cars and have opened new bank accounts as a result of this wonderful extra income opportunity. Make up your mind now to answer this ad promptly for this opportunity will not last long. MONEY during your spare time. A BANK ACCOUNT. REMEMBER, THE TIME TO APPLY IS 8:30 O'CLOCK, FRIDAY EVENING ONLY. Now, if you really desire to open a REAL BANK ACCOUNT, DON'T MISS THIS. Do not answer this ad unless you are really sincere and anxious to earn an EXTRA WEEKLY INCOME during the summer months. "A hint to the wise is sufficient." Be guided accordingly. We will receive no applications after 8:30 o'clock, Friday evening, so make up your mind NOW to answer on time. REGARDLESS OF PRESENT EMPLOYMENT, EVERYONE WILL BE GIVEN FULLEST CONSIDERATION AT THE ABOVE TIME. Don't let FRIVOLITIES keep you from financial independence. TEAR OUT THIS AD NOW AND BE ON TIME.

GREENTREE
INVESTMENT.
Wonderful Profits to Be Made
60 Acres. Only $36,000.

Greentree, which at present is only 15 minutes from the heart of the city, and conceded by all to be one of the finest residential sections in Allegheny county, surpassed by none, where growth, improvements and population will far exceed any suburban section heretofore laid out in the Pittsburgh section. Can you imagine what the Mount Washington tubes have done for Beechview, Dormont and Mt. Lebanon. This property actually sold for $1,000 an acre, and today property on West Liberty ave. alone has sold as high as $750 a foot front. This will give you an idea of what the West End tubes will do for Greentree. It would behoove you to sacrifice some of your securities and become interested in this property. It must be sold as the heirs want to settle the estate.

LaSalle Coupe

Unusual opportunity to get a 2-passenger LaSalle Coupe (will really accommodate three inside and two in rumble seat), owned personally by and driven with extreme care by Cadillac factory representative since last April. Mechanically better than new, duco finish fresh, fenders unmarred, tires have about 3,500 miles wear; complete equipment, including front and rear bumpers, spare wheel, tire and cover; upholstery clean. In every way this beautiful car of outstanding performance and smart appearance is a rare bargain at the price—physician, business man or small family will find it profitable to see this car. Satisfactory reason for selling will be shown clearly. Phone H. H. Batcheller, Montrose 2166. 5497 Baum Blvd.

PERSONS WHO REMEMBER THE EXCITING DAYS WHEN THE COLONEL LOST HIS MEMORY AND FOUND A FIANCE, CAN SYMPATHIZE WITH JOSEPHINE'S DESIRE TO SEE ANOTHER STENOGRAPHER IN PLACE OF THE ONE WHO DOES NOT WISH TO MAKE A CHANGE RIGHT NOW.
I JUST CAN'T GET OVER HOW LADY BUNGLE ACTED WHEN SHE PRANCED INTO THIS OFFICE AND SAW ME HERE. FROM THE WAY SHE LOOKED AT ME YOU'D THINK I WAS POISON. I SUPPOSE SHE'S AFRAID I'LL KIDNAP LORD BUNGLE. WELL, HONEY, DON'T BE ALARMED. I LIKE A MAN WHO'S MASTERFUL, AND BOLD, AND WHO HASN'T BEEN HENPECKED TO DEATH.
MY IDEAL IS A MAN LIKE DRURY D'LANE, AN ARISTOCRAT. I KNOW HE HAS MONEY TOO, BECAUSE HE MENTIONS LARGE SUMS WITH SUCH A LANGUID AIR. WHEN WE'RE MARRIED I'LL HAVE HIM BUILD A HOUSE THAT WILL TAKE THE STARCH OUT OF A LOT OF WOMEN IN THIS TOWN, TOO.
AND LADY BUNGLE IS ONE OF THEM. I SUPPOSE SHE WONT REST UNTIL I'M OUT OF HERE. ISN'T SHE A CAT! WELL I'LL LEAVE WHEN I GET GOOD AND READY TO GO, AND MY MIND IS MADE UP, I'LL STEP OUT OF HERE AS MRS. DRURY D'LANE, TOO. I KNOW THAT ANYTHING IS POSSIBLE IF A WOMAN IS REALLY DETERMINED.

BUGS BAER Says

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

His latest lachrymose whisper is that there will be no homes, children or food in 1950.

People will live in terra cotta bungaloids with electric door mats and automatic roofs. There will be no home cooking, for everybody will snipe food from hostile delicatessen garages.

The suburbs will be beautified by spite fences and gloomy deans. Neighborly spirit will be limited to spraying flowers and neighbors with deodorants and antiseptic thunder showers.

Sometimes the Dean gets out of bed on the wrong foot. And sometimes he lands on all erroneous fours. He has been predicting disaster, confusion and remorse for 50 years.

But he gives himself plenty of time. His guess today is figured to bloom its climax in 1950. In other words, the Dean says, "if I ain't right in the next 23 years, then I'm wrong."

But England relishes the Dean's gloomering statements. When the Dean is glooming in the glumming he thinks up sour and curdled epitaphs that frighten the world into spasmodic snickers.

He has been predicting sudden retribution and the dividends of sin ever since he became a professional mourner.

But the Dean hasn't had much success lately. He has been preaching funeral sermons at weddings and performing the last, sad rites at national christenings.

His efforts to transform a Grecian tear urn into an English loving cup have been terrific flops. Somehow, the English refuse to believe that the Dean's salty tears are medicinal baths.

But his prediction of bungaloids and delicatessen is correct for America. We have been living on the fat of canning factories for years. It must be a good system, for America is still knee-deep in calories and proteins.

England's lack of appreciation of the Dean's glumps does not cancel his ardor. He trumps his last sad oration with a sadder one and continues to weep on a congregation which has been forced by custom to check its umbrellas at the door.

On "FACTS AND FANCY QUALITIES"

MEN are VAIN
Creatures, Of course,
Some are INTERESTING,
But many are a little
STRANGE, At fifty,
A man often talks of
The VIGOR of his BODY; and at twenty, of
His STRENGTH of MIND,
And really, at that age,
Who CARES?
Of course ,the strength
And beauty NATURE gives,
Men just take for GRANTED,
But anything they ACHIEVE
Or hang onto they Proudly BOAST of,
And yet, the man of
FIFTY odd who asks a Pretty girl to feel his MUSCLES is a little weak
MENTALLY. And the Boy who expects a woman
To take him SERIOUSLY is An EGOIST, also,
What women APPRECIATE
About men is—FACTS,
Their character, COURAGE,
Money or CHARM, but not
The fancy qualities
That some men WEAVE
About their own HEADS.

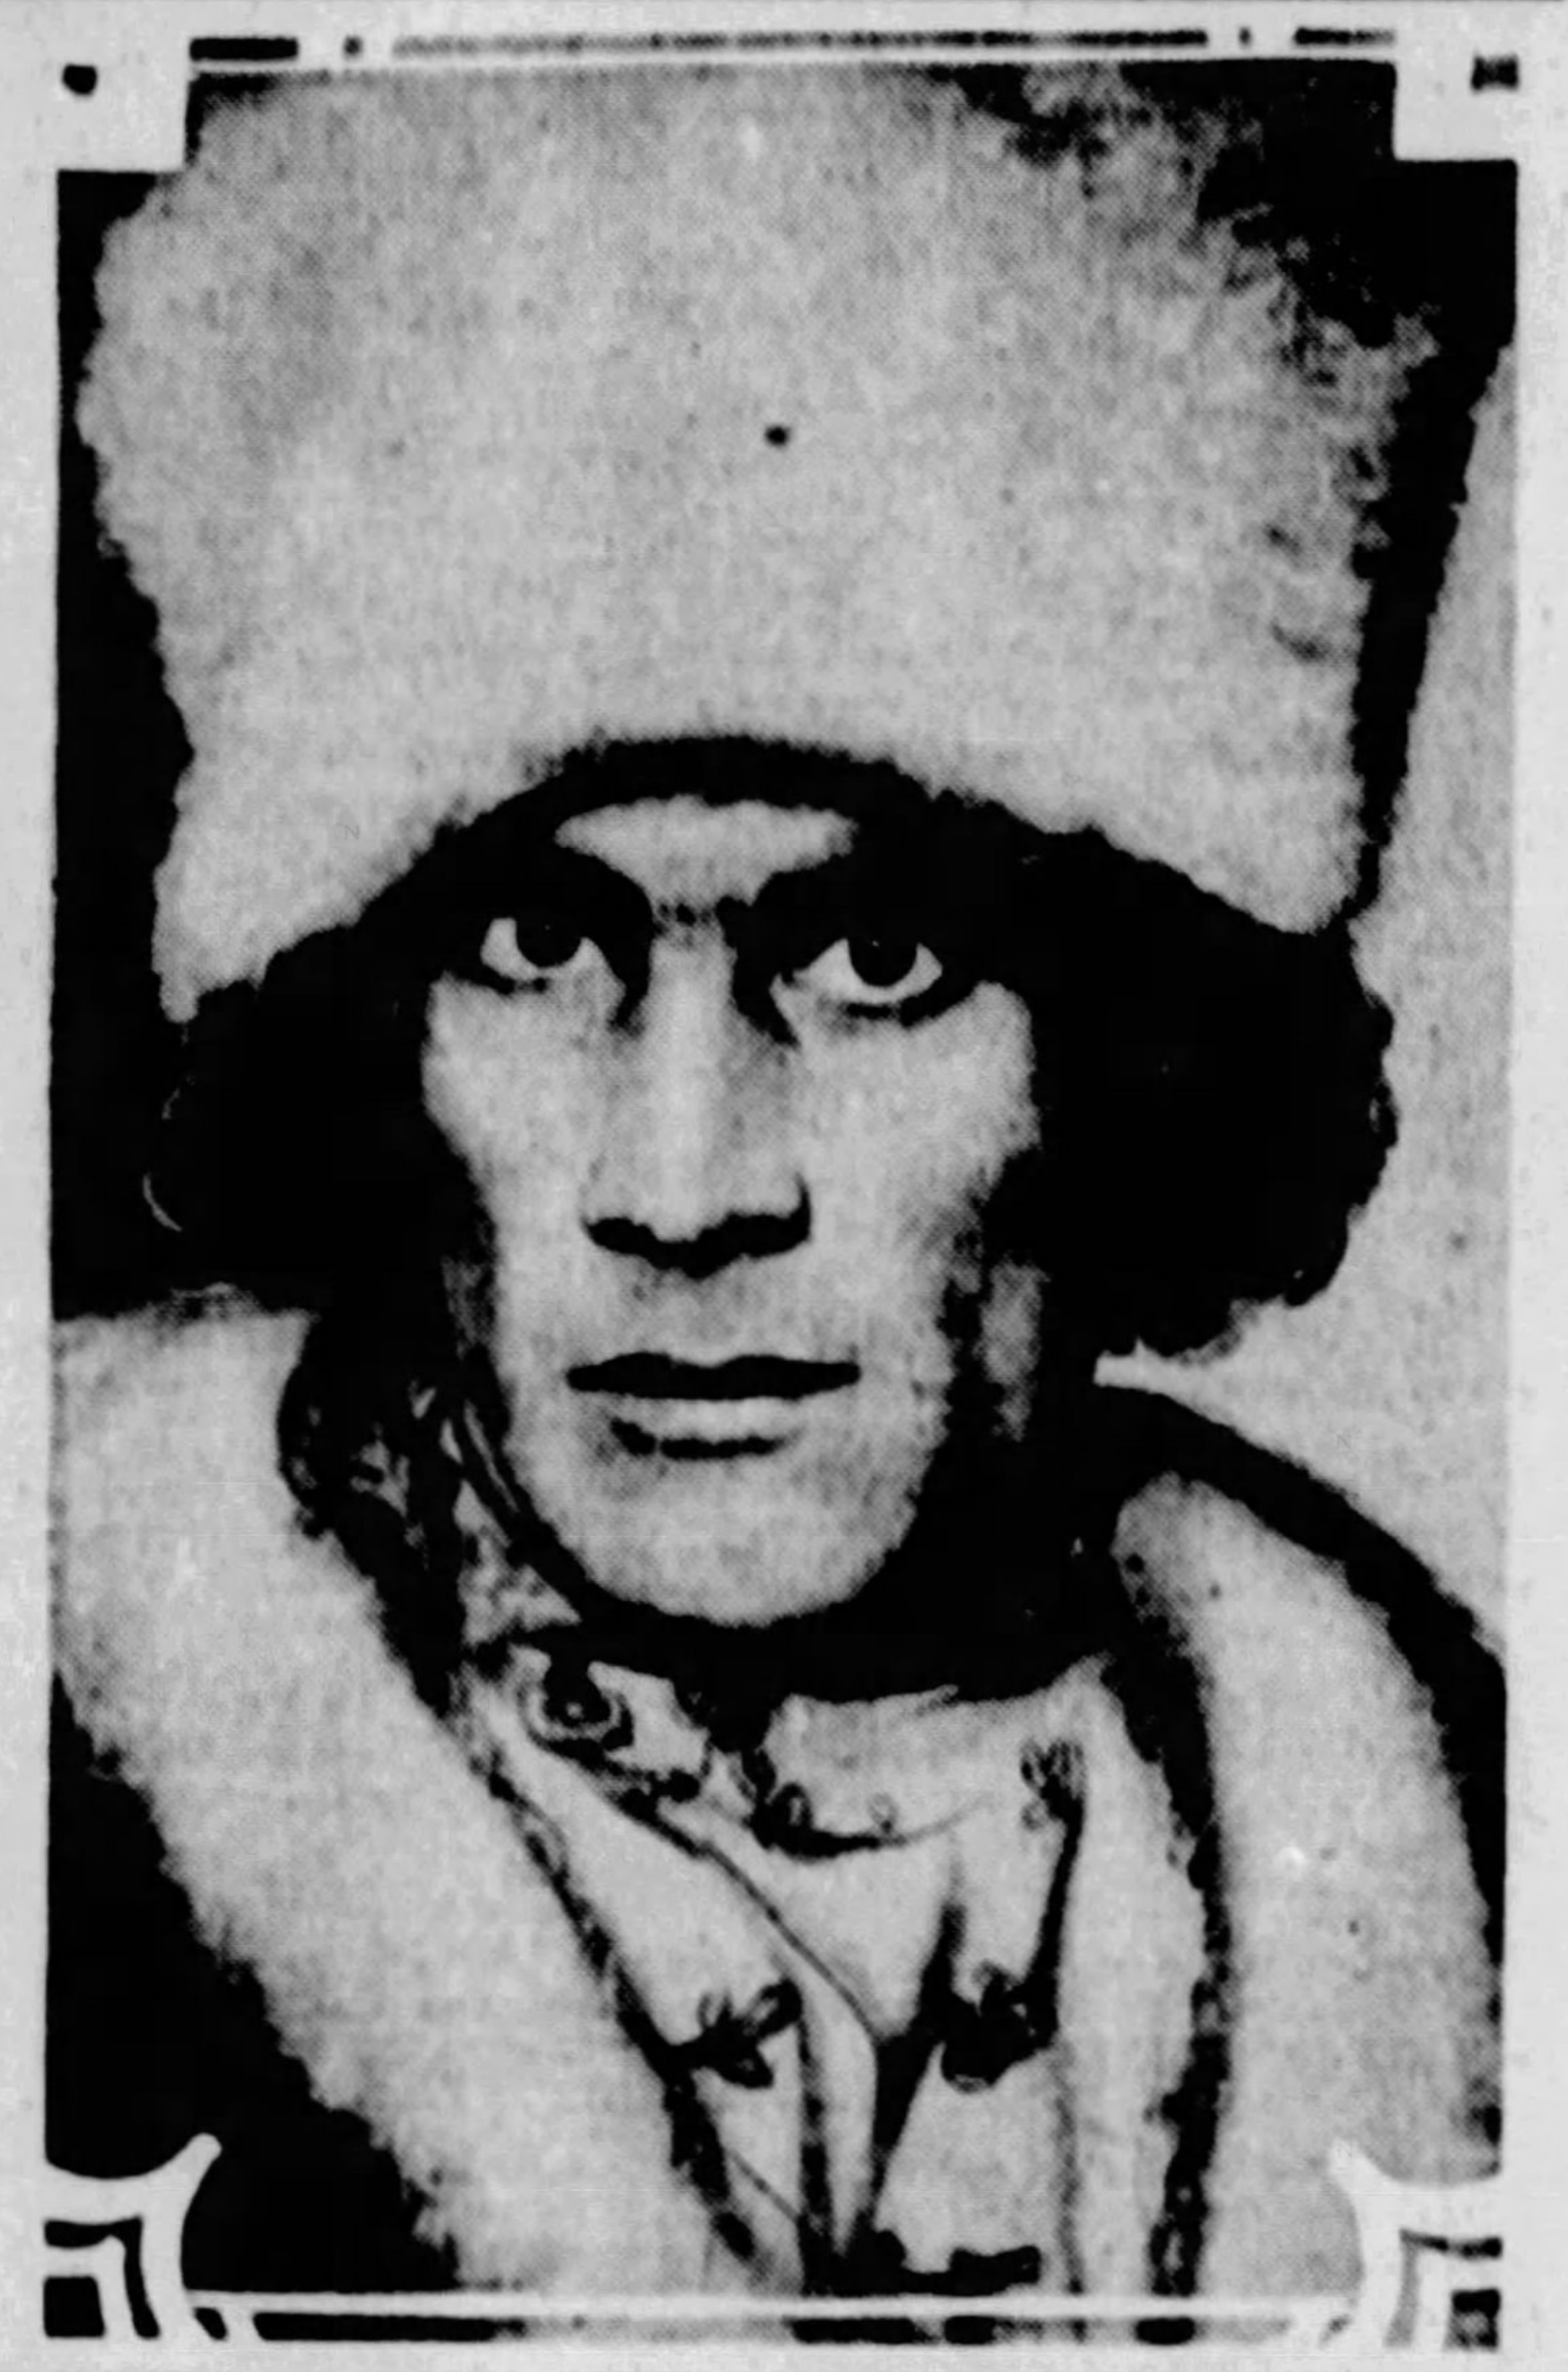
An Unpleasant Eye

This "Chief Executioner" Has It.



NASROULA ISMAILOFF, THE SOVIET'S "CHIEF EXECUTIONER."

You have read about the marauding Tartar and other hordes marching westward through Europe, and how they terrified those they encountered on the march.

This is the type of the gentlemen that have come so often marching from the East in days past, and you certainly wouldn't like to meet HIM on a lonesome road after sunset.

He is described as "Chief Executioner of the Russian Government in the Caucasus."

To say that the owner of these fierce eyes attends to his business as executioner, and does his work thoroughly, is giving him VERY mild praise. He is said to have executed 3,854 individuals in his brief career as excutioner and carries on his work convinced that he is employed in a worthy cause.

After one look at his eye you are not surprised to learn that this Ismailoff is a dead shot, with his keen eyesight. If you doubt it, he will pull his revolver in a flash and send a bullet through a fly on the wall 50 yards away. That one executioner, among his 3,854 victims, killed undoubtedly many innocent of political "crime" only. This man and those for whom he works will remind you grimly that for every one they have put to death swiftly the Czar, whom they also eliminated, sent a hundred to a slow death in Siberia.

By the way, Louis B. Mayer, of Hollywood, and his youthful associate genius, Irving Thalberg, should be interested in Ismailoff.

He might earn as an imitation villain, on the screen, 10 times as much as he can earn for real villainy in real life.

Burial of General Brett Brings Grief To His Boys

Pittsburgh mourns the death of an adopted citizen, the late Brig. Gen. Lloyd M. Brett, whose burial, with well-deserved military honors, was held yesterday in Washington. Gen. Brett became one of us by reason of his association with the Eightieth Division, the Blue Ridge boys, who loved him as a man and esteemed him as a soldier, and with whom he but recently renewed his paternal and fraternal ties.

When he attended the convention of the Eightieth here a few weeks ago he was given evidence of how close to the hearts of his soldier boys he really was. Yesterday they renewed their pledge of friendship and loyalty to a commander for whom "taps" has sounded.

Gen. Brett's influence as a soldier was an ideal one. He was ever the good soldier, and yet his direction of the troops under him left no lingering grievance. Respecting him on the field, his men loved him and made him their idol upon their return.

Gen. Brett had established an enviable record as a soldier long before he was put at the head of the Blue Ridge command. There he added lustre, glossed by affection, to an already brilliant shield. Pittsburgh yesterday helped to lay a hero at rest. Pittsburgh grieves.

Daylight Saving Benefits Sleeper, Scientist Says

Daylight saving, about which there is an annual controversy when it is put in effect in the spring, is not baneful to sleepers. It is of benefit. So says Dr. H. M. Johnston, fellow of the Mellon Institute, engaged in a study of sleep. Daylight tends to disturb rest, he says, and daylight saving increases the hours of darkness in the ordinary sleeping period.

Advocates of daylight saving should remember that. Next spring it will come in handy as an argument to confound the opponents of changing time. The former, of course, have had little need for argument. They have won their point by being in the majority. And by the undeniable benefit resulting from the lengthened recreational period.

Still, it will not be a disadvantage to have the support of a scientific man who states that daylight saving produces better sleep. Of course, this is for night sleepers. Those who have to sleep during the day are just out of luck.

Garrett P Serviss Says:

Geometry of the Stars

"Is the north polar star visible from the southern hemisphere? From what latitude is the same star still visible?—F. B."

THIS is another question involving elementary principles of astronomy about which no educated person should be in any doubt.

We live on a solid ball which is flying through space around the sun. Around us on all sides, but visible only at night when the blinding sun is hidden "under" the earth, appear the stars which are, in reality, excessively distant suns. As the earth rotates on its axis, making one turn every 24 hours, we see the stars apparently revolving around the earth in a direction opposite to that in which the earth turns. But those stars which are situated in the direction of the poles of the earth do not "rise" and "set" like the others, but they circle continuously around the "poles of the heavens," which are situated directly over the poles of the earth.

It happens that there is a bright star very close to the north pole of the heavens, and, consequently, almost exactly over the north pole of the earth. This is called the Pole Star, and it seems, to ordinary observation, to stand fast while the whole northern heavens revolve around it as a center.

If we lived at the earth's north pole, this star would be always exactly over our heads, or in the Zenith. But, living on a part of the earth-ball that is about 40 degrees north of the equator, we see the pole star elevated 40 degrees above the northern horizon. If we went northward we should see it rise higher in proportion to our advance, and, as already said, when we arrived at the pole it would stand overhead, i. e., its elevation would be 90 degrees. But if we moved southward instead of northward the pole star would sink until, when we reached the equator, it would lie on the center of the northern horizon, where its elevation would be zero. If we continued on across the equator into the southern hemisphere, the pole star would sink under the northern horizon and so disappear. The people of the southern hemisphere do not see our pole star, and there is no bright star near the pole of their hemisphere.

What I have said is, for theoretical reasons, based on the supposition that the pole star coincides precisely in position with the northern pole of the heavens. In strictness, however, the coincidence is not exact, the star being a little over one degree from the true polar point. Owing to this it is possible, assuming perfect clearness of vison right down to the horizon, to see the pole star from the equator, at certain periods, describing a minute semicircle about half a degree in radius above the northern horizon. Atmospheric refraction tends to increase the star's elevation by at least as much more, so that in order that the pole star should become invisible under all circumstances it might be necessary to go a degree or more south of the equator.

A Little Praise

Daughter wants to hear you say so, when she has performed in a meritorious manner.

Son likes to be told when he has accomplished a task satisfactorily.

And so it goes.

Silent appreciation is not enough.

You may feel that as long as you don't complain, everything should be considered as being all right.

Especially the members of your family ought to know when you are pleased, without your having to say anything about it.

Ye Towne Gossip

by K. C. B.

YOU FELLOWS who go.

* * *

INTO BARBER shops.

* * *

YOU KNOW how it is.

* * *

WHEN YOU are shaved.

* * *

AND THE barber reaches.

* * *

FOR A bottle of something.

* * *

OR MAYBE a jar.

* * *

* * *

HE DAUBS on your face.

* * *

* * *

* * *

AND SOMETIMES he'll tell you.

* * *

HE HAS just discovered.

* * *

A BRAND new lotion.

* * *

TO USE after shaving.

* * *

AND HOW good it is.

* * *

AND IT keeps the pores.

* * *

* * *

OR FILLING up.

* * *

OR WHATEVER they do.

* * *

IN BARBER shops.

* * *

AND HE puts it on.

* * *

AND RUBS it off.

* * *

AND THAT is that.

* * *

* * *

THAT PUZZLES me.

* * *

IS THAT for years.

* * *

WHILE I'VE reclined.

* * *

IN THE barber chair.

* * *

WITH THE barber standing.

* * *

AT MY right.

* * *

AND HE takes the stuff.

* * *

IN HIS right hand.

* * *

* * *

THE LEFT side of my face.

* * *

AND ON my chin.

* * *

AND NEVER at all.

* * *

DOES HE rub it in.

* * *

* * *

SO MANY times.

* * *

AND I'VE said to myself.

* * *

* * *

MY FACE'S right side.

* * *

WOULD GROW old and wrinkled.

* * *

* * *

AND ALSO my chin.

* * *

* * *

AND I'VE put on my glass.

* * *

AND LOOKED at myself.

* * *

AND IT isn't true.

* * *

AND I look the same.

* * *

ON MY face's both sides.

* * *

AND HOW can that be?

* * *

WHEN MY face's right side.

* * *

DOESN'T GET any lotion.

* * *

* * *

GETS ALL of it?

* * *

I THANK you.

In California

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 28.—This city is reached in a five-hour motor drive from Los Angeles over the smoothest and perhaps the most perfect road in America. On the way one passes that residential jewel by the sea known as La Jolla and the unique Spanish village sponsored by Ole Hanson, former picturesque mayor of Seattle.

The drive is chiefly along the sparkling Pacific and spiraling and winding through the famed torrey pines. The air is winey and the sky cloudless. The approach to San Diego is lined with new fangled west coast auto camps—rows of stucco two-room bungalows with side garages renting for extremely reasonable rates. Auto plates represent every state.

San Diego is emerging from the reactions of an exposition of 10 years ago, but the wonderful heritage of its exposition site—Balboa Park—will suffice 100 fold whatever passing penalty was imposed by the ambition of that undertaking. The city's skyline indicates courage and imagination.

Environs of San Diego are without parallel on any coast and it is doubtful if any government has such ideal conditions for extensive and intensive naval flying and marine training all the year. The skies hum with aircraft. The temperature does not vary five degrees the year around as a rule.

It is the remittance family's paradise. They come on stretchers to die and often reach ripened years. The views from the old Spanish lighthouse on Point Loma, which is the extreme southwestern edge of the United States, is not equaled anywhere.

Presidio Hill, Old Town, has been called the birthplace of civilization on the Pacific coast. It is where the first mission on the soil of California was dedicated. Close by is the rambling old Ramona's Marriage Place, well preserved and noted as the background of Helen Hunt Jackson's novel, "Ramona."

San Diego is a city where no one seems working. You get the impression the entire population spends waking hours sunning themselves like alligators and yet it has forged steadily ahead with municipal achievements rivaling any city the same size. Outside of Los Angeles and San Francisco, it is the most distinct city in the state.

* * *

In its beautiful public parks are rambling gardens of lovely flowers, miniature Japanese landscapes, flocks of pheasants, peacocks and other fowls of gay plumage, ostrich farms and deer paddocks. There seems to be a large number of Chinese, Japanese and Mexicans.

* * *

San Diego is apparently without native sons. It seems as polyglot in population as New York. Everybody came from somewhere else. The hotel carriage starter is from Forty-sixth street and Broadway, the bell hop from Chicago, the clerk from Rochester, the elevator operator from Kansas City and the room maid from Ireland.

* * *

Streets are wide with palm-lined malls down the center, abloom with exquisite flowers. The clothes are of sport design. Little boys wear plus fours. Rejuvenation has come without gland experimentation. At the country clubs old men with long whiskers dance modern dances with a gusto. Deference to advanced years among the young is marked.

* * *

The popular idea of a ranch owner explodes here. Ranchmen spending leisure time in San Diego are somewhat like the flanneled young men of the summer resort verandahs. Or the musical comedies. They are often quite dapper and save for an autumn leaf tan are as up-to-date and traveled as young bloods of the exclusive New York clubs.

* * *

Flowers in hotels are free as stationery. The patron finds his room banked with roses of rare coloring. They are delivered with the morning paper and the bell boy bringing a pitcher of ice water often brings along a bouquet of flowers. News stand girls, too, pin on a lapel rose when you select your cigar. San Diego fairly yells it with flowers.

The Gist of Prohibition

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Underneath all this wordy warfare between the wets and the drys and between the noble and free-born souls that enjoy the privilege of getting drunk whenever they please, and the fanatics who want to interfere with other people's liberty, lies the question, what, after all, is the net condition of the common man?

For we are not so much interested in crime among the rich and fashionable, nor with the case of the down-and-outers as we are concerned with the condition of the ordinary, average man.

Perhaps it is true, as asserted, by the wets, that more liquor is drunk under prohibition than ever before, more gilded youths are carrying gin in their hip pockets, and a more murderous brand of booze is being consumed.

But the fact remains that the average man who has to work for his living and gets a modest stipend therefor, does not drink liquor simply because he cannot afford it. Much more liquor may be drunk now, but the working man does not care to pay 50 cents or $1 for a drink.

A recent survey made by Prof. Herman Feldman, of Dartmouth College, published in the Christian Science Monitor, establishes the fact that since the advent of prohibition there has been an amazing increase in the productivity of the wage earner, embracing almost every industry in the country. For instance, the output of the rubber tire worker was 139 per cent greater in 1925 than in 1919, and this is a typical instance, not the exceptional one.

Labor bodies opposed the passage of the prohibition amendment, but the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics calls attention to the almost unbelievable increase in the productivity of the worker during the past few years.

As a matter of fact, the much-cursed prohibition amendment has placed the United States industrially in the fore front of the world. It may have been an unwarrantable interference with our personal liberty, but the effect of it has been to increase our personal efficiency, and the effort of most men is in the direction of increasing their efficiency by learning how to restrict their liberties.

Some people may think that being the most industrially effective nation in the world does not mean much, but most of us think that it does and are willing to pay the price.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Light

IN all the world there is no other thing so beautiful as that which men call light, no other joy on swift-advancing wing as fair as this that drives away the night. The gloom and shade, how soon they flit away into the fabled land from whence they came, when in the East the torches of the day illume the hills with rosy-tinted flame! In all the earth there is no other thing so wonderful as that which men call light, the light that to a darkened soul can bring release from ignorance and all its blight. The light of thought to light of day is kin, each sheds its glory in a darkened place; thought drives out fear, doubt, all the shades within, as sun dissolves night's shadows from earth's face.

THE LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

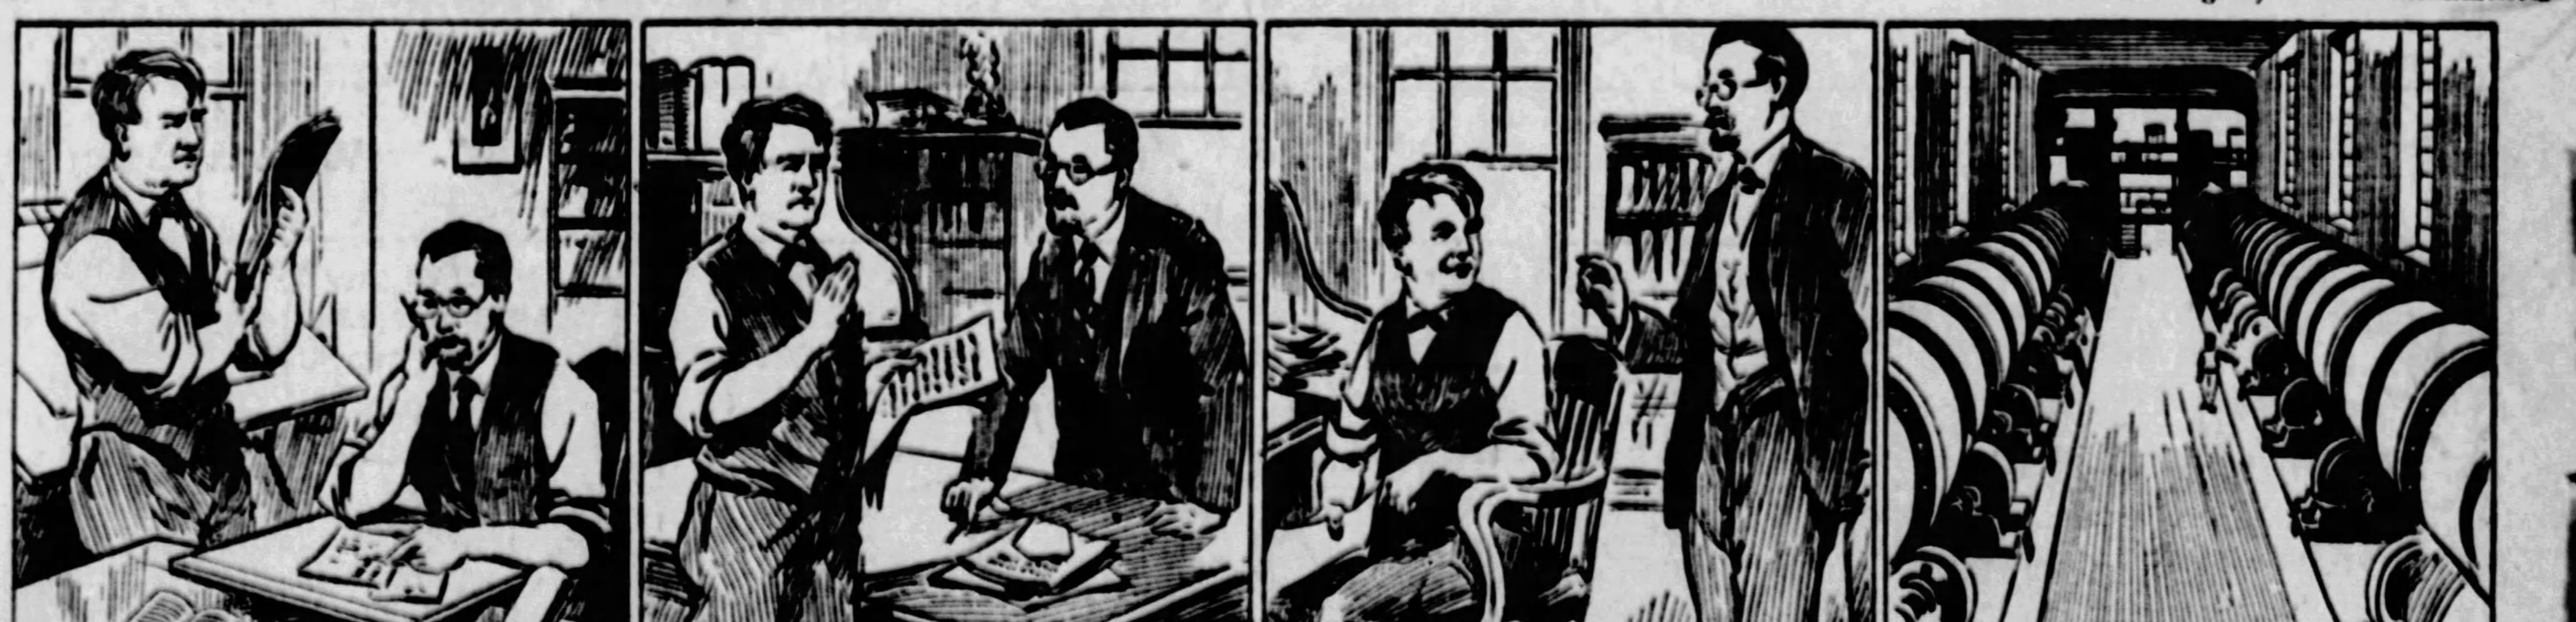
Text by Arthur J. Palmer
Drawings by Frank Kuchenmeister



AT first Edison had planned to use some standard equipment in the cement plant. But when he came to kilns for burning the cement he could find nothing to suit him. He told Mr. Mallory, his assistant, he believed that he could build a kiln to deliver 1,000 barrels of cement a day. The standard kilns delivered only 200 barrels

THE standard kiln of the time was 60 feet long. Edison built his "giant kiln" 150 feet long. Early reports showed results far below what he had expected, but he was sure the kiln was all right. He felt that the fault was with the workers and when Mr. Mallory would make his reports Edison would simply say, "rotten."

IN time, Mr. Mallory and the workers at the cement plant became more accustomed to the giant kilns. They pushed production up notch by notch until they had reached the unexpected total of 1,100 barrels a day. Edison's prediction of 1,000 barrels a day had come true and he was very much pleased with the prospects.

THE "giant kilns" were well named. Comparison with the workman in the picture will show their size. Portland cement manufacturers of many years' experience had said that kilns of such length would warp and twist. But Edison took precautions against that. Today some kilns are 200 feet long.
